SLA's back is broken, says FBI official

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (UPI) — The FBI agent directing the Patricia Hearst case said Saturday that the Los Angeles gunfight with Symbionese Liberation Army nembers broke the back of the small terrorist organization.

Charles Bates, agent in charge of the FBI's San Francisco office, said large amounts of weapons and ammunition found in the burned out house were "no longer available" to the surviving SLA members.

Bates met reporters outside the Hearst mansion, and was asked whether he thought the slaying of five SLA members had broken the back of their group.

"Yes, I do," he replied.

He also said he felt the five victims of the gunbattle were the ringleaders of the SLA, which kidnaped Miss Hearst Feb. 4.

As for Miss Hearst, the FBI agent said, "I think she's probably in less danger than before the incident in Los Angeles."

The daughter of newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst, in tape recorded messages, renounced her family some time ago and said she was becoming a "soldier" in the SLA.

"We can't tell definitely if Patty is in the SLA," Bates said. "We know she is not a bank robber. But we don't know anything beyond that definitely."

Eight SLA members accompanied by Miss Hearst robbed a San Francisco bank April 15.

Bates said it would now be easier to find the remaining members of the SLA as a result of the shootout in Los Angeles. "Our job is easier when they are on the run," he explained. "We feel our intensive investigation in the San Francisco area made them go to Los Angeles."

The FBI agent also said the Hearst family "had no misgivings about the Los Angeles incident and did not criticize the way it was handled" by police and agents.

He said an all-points bulletin for an automobile traveling in the Pacific Northwest possibly carrying Miss Hearst had been called off because reports about her "washed out."

Coroner certain, but whereabouts of Hearst daughter still mystery

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Patricia Hearst was not in the house where five Symbionese Liberation Army members were killed in a wild gun battle with police but "General Field Marshal Cinque" of the terrorist kidnaping cult was slain, it was disclosed Saturday.

The 20-year-old heiress, granddaughter of legendary newspaper empire founder William Randolph Hearst, was presumably still alive but the mystery of her whereabouts or state of mind was still unsolved.

After a microscopic examination of the five charred bodies found in the ashes of a yellow stucco house in a black area of south central Los Angeles Friday night, Coroner Thomas Noguchi said that Patricia Hearst was definitely not one of the victims.

Noguchi first telephoned the news to Randolph Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, and his wife. They had been living in fear for their daughter's life since she was kidnaped by the SLA on Feb. 4.

A family spokesman said they were "emotionally numb" after the ordeal and did not want to make any statement at this time.

"They simply sat in a chair and breathed a tremendous sigh of relief," he said.

Noguchi identified four of the five persons killed in the 1,000-shot "war" involving some 500 police and FBI agents Friday.

Examination of dental charts, medical records and fingerprints established the identity of Cinque, the name used by 30-year-old Donald DeFreeze, and three more of the five bodies found in the four foot high debris, Noguchi said.

DeFreez had claimed in "communiques" and tape recordings to be the leader of the terrorist band, formed while he was an inmate at California State Prison at Vacaville.

First jailed when he was 14, DeFreeze, a black, had a fascination for guns and bombs and a thirst for plum wine. He was the one who demanded a multi-million dollar free food program for the release of Miss Hearst and then spurned it after the Hearsts spent $2 million.

The others killed were Nancy Ling Perry, 26; Patricia "Mizmoon" Soltysik, 24; William Wolfe, 22, and Angela Atwood, 25.

Mrs. Atwood was the last member of the group to be identified. Her identity was determined late Saturday night by the county coroner's office through dental records.

Mrs. Atwood was from New Jersey and attended Indiana University.

Christine Johnson, 35, who told police she was held hostage in her house by the SLA during the gun battle, was booked Saturday for harboring criminals. No bail was set. Police refused to disclose where she was being held.

Miss Johnson ran from the house screaming, "They held me, they held me," about 25 minutes after the shooting began Friday. She suffered puncture wounds in the thigh and back and a burned right forearm.

She was the only survivor of those who were in the house during the shooting.

Daryl Gates, assistant police chief, said some "personal effects" belonging to Miss Hearst were found in the shootout house but would not elaborate. Noguchi said they included "identity cards."

The coroner said DeFreeze, Miss Perry and Miss Solytsik died of gunshot wounds and the other two of burns and smoke inhalation when the house caught fire.

The gun battle was broadcast live on television and radio and described by Police Inspector Peter Hagen as "a war—that's what it was like."

Because the SLA holdouts were wearing gas masks, automatic weapon fire spewed from the small house long after tear gas shells began exploding inside. For nearly two hours the shootout continued until the house was consumed in flames. When firemen were able to enter the smoldering structure they found debris four feet deep.

A call from Mrs. Mary Carr, 52, to police triggered the amazing firefight in which the five died Friday night. Mrs. Carr said her daughter had rented the house to five persons for a night for $100. When she went to see what was going on, Mrs. Carr said, she encountered a woman with a pistol in her belt.

Earlier Friday the FBI and police had raided another house on the outskirts of Watts in the search for SLA members, but the building was found to be empty.

Ceasefire line agreement near

Kissinger breakthrough

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger achieved a dramatic breakthrough in his Middle East peace efforts Saturday by winning Syrian acceptance of an American plan for a ceasefire line with Israel in the Golan Heights.

Reporting the breakthrough, a high official aboard Kissinger's plane said Kissinger was "very optimistic" at completing the agreement on a ceasefire line in talks with Israeli leaders here Saturday night or Sunday.

He said Kissinger will stay on in the area three or four days to try to complete the larger agreement on disengaging the forces of the two countries—a major step toward peace in the area.

After finally settling the cease-fire line with the Israelis, the official said, Kissinger would take up with them the other issues of a buffer zone between the two forces in the Golan Heights, a thinning out of forces and the role of the United Nations.

Israelis and Syrians may then meet face to face for the first time in Geneva to sign the disengagement agreement, the official said. Kissinger himself would not be present in Geneva, where Syria boycotted the first round of the Middle East peace conference late last year.

The dramatic breakthrough came when Kissinger's bags were already packed to start home Saturday night.

It came in a three-and-a-half hour meeting with Syrian President Hafez Assad in which, the high American official said, Assad came "close enough" to the American plan Kissinger put forward on Thursday.

The Israelis already had the plan too, and Kissinger met with Prime Minister Golda Meir and the Israeli negotiators later Saturday night at the home of Foreign Minister Abba Eban where he hoped to win their final agreement.

After a two hour meeting between the full Israeli and American negotiating teams, the American spokesman said the Israelis agreed that "significant progress had been made."

Mrs. Meir and her ministers will meet with Kissinger again Sunday afternoon after the Israeli cabinet meets Sunday morning, the spokesman said.

Kissinger himself disclosed there had been a breakthrough in his public statement at the ramp of his plane at Damascus airport before taking off for Israel.

"Significant progress has been made and the prospects for an agreement have been advanced," he said in a hoarse voice, referring to his talks with Assad.

Pomona woman dies after auto slams into truck

CLAREMONT — A 21-year-old Pomona woman died Saturday after her car apparently ran a red light and smashed into a dump truck at the corner of Mountain Avenue and Foothill Boulevard, police said.

Elizabeth Carrie Diebold of 117 Penfield St. was rushed to Pomona Valley Community Hospital, but died three hours later of massive head injuries.

John Allen Wise, 29, of 1379 W. Orange Grove, Pomona, driver of the truck, was not injured in the 7:50 a.m. accident, officers said.

Witnesses told police the Diebold car, a small foreign model, was traveling eastbound on Foothill when it collided with the truck which was southbound on Mountain.

Miss Diebold was a secretary at UCLA Medical Center and graduated Bonita High School in 1971, where she was student body treasurer.

Her body was removed to Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona where services are pending.

Hearst family reported 'tremendously relieved'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A spokesman for the Hearst family said Saturday that the family was "tremendously relieved" at news Patricia Hearst was not killed in the Los Angeles gunbattle with Symbionese Liberation Army members.

John Lester, the spokesman, stepped out in front of the Hearst's large home in suburban Hillsborough to speak before a battery of microphones and a crowd of reporters.

He said neither the father, Randolph A. Hearst, nor his wife, planned to make a public statement at this time.

"Mr. and Mrs. Hearst and the entire membership of the family, and friends who are there naturally are tremendously relieved at the news received from Los Angeles," Lester said.

"They simply sat in a chair and breathed a tremendous sigh of relief," he said.

He said that, when Los Angeles Coroner Thomas Noguchi called Hearst with the news, Hearst said simply, "Thank God."

Lester said the Hearsts understandably were emotionally numb 104 days after her abduction and after an agonizing watch of Friday's gunfight on television.

The Hearsts hope and pray that Patricia, 20, will return soon, Lester said.

The family first heard of the shootout at 5:30 p.m. Friday by radio. Later, when television began carrying the tragedy live, the family switched, like millions around the nation, to color TV.

Mrs. Hearst, emotionally drained, was crying, and her publishing executive husband was described by the spokesman as drawn and gray.

Miss Illinois is Miss USA 1974

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Miss Illinois, Karen Jean Morrison, a tall, blue-eyed blonde, was crowned Miss USA of 1974 at the 23rd annual pageant Saturday night.

It was the second year in a row that the Illinois representative won the title.

Miss Morrison was selected at the end of the two-hour pageant from among 51 contestants representing the 50 states and the District of Columbia. She will represent the United States at the Miss Universe pageant in Manila.

Windfall of information

Russ use medical techniques to grill Israeli war prisoners

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet military interrogators, using medical techniques, have been grilling Israeli prisoners held in Damascus since the October Middle East war, gaining "an invaluable windfall" of information, according to the London Sunday Times.

"The interrogators have employed medical and other techniques to break the resistance of the Israelis and several of the prisoners have apparently talked," the newspaper said.

"The result has been a cascade of detailed information about virtually all aspects of Israeli military operations —an invaluable windfall for the Arabs and a serious security breach for Israel."

The Sunday Times attributed its information to "exceptionally highly placed Arab military and political sources."

It said the Israeli government and at least two Western governments had known of the interrogations for months, but kept them secret during U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's efforts to secure a military disengagement on the Golan Heights front.

India explodes A-bomb—6th nation

NEW DELHI (UPI) — India announced Saturday it had exploded a Nagasaki-force nuclear device it said was designed for peaceful uses, not war.

Prime Minister Mrs. Indira Gandhi said of her country's first nuclear test: "It is nothing to get excited about. We are firmly committed only to the peaceful uses of atomic energy."

The blast made India the sixth nation with nuclear capability. It thus joined the United States, the Soviet Union, China, Britain and France.

Although the Atomic Energy Commission announcement of the explosion gave no details, the Press Trust of India (PTI) said, "It can be inferred that the explosion created a force equivalent to 10,000 tons of TNT. This was the same force as the atomic bomb dropped on Nagasaki in World War II."

The official announcement did not state when the device was exploded but PTI quoted an official spokesman as saying it took place early Saturday. PTI also said there were indications the test occurred "perhaps in India's Rajasthan area." Much of the state of Rajasthan in western India on the Pakistan border is desert.

Asked if the explosion would raise India's prestige among developing nations, Mrs. Gandhi replied, "I never bother about prestige."

In Japan the government quickly expressed official regret at the test and voiced the hope it would "not adversely affect moves toward relaxation of tensions in the subcontinent" —an obvious reference to Indian-Pakistani relations.

Deadliest attacks in violence-torn Ireland

"Drink up, lads," he said, "you may never get another chance."

Without warning a blinding yellow flash turned the bar into a shambles. In Parnell Street outside, the first of three car bombs ripped through downtown Dublin, a Belfast-style blitz that killed 28 persons and injured about 175, 100 of them seriously.

It was the deadliest wave of attacks in five years of the violence across Ireland, north and south.

Twenty-three of the victims died in Dublin, two of them babies. The three Dublin bombs were timed to explode within seconds during the Friday evening rush hour, when streets were sure to be packed even more densely than usual by a city bus strike.

Five others died 90 minutes later in a fourth car bomb at Monaghan, 75 miles northwest near the Northern Ireland frontier.

Saturday an anonymous caller with a northern Irish accent warned of another Dublin bomb, police said.

"We have not finished with you yet," they quoted him as saying. "There will be another bomb in Dublin today."

Dublin took no chances and imposed tough security measures immediately. Parking was banned in the city center. Checkpoints covered every road into Dublin. Joint army-police posts were established at the Ulster border.

Premier Liam Cosgrave and his cabinet, in emergency session, recalled the 340 Irish army officers and men serving with the United Nations peacekeeping force in the Middle East. Police from the countryside were drafted into Dublin. The Home Guard was placed on alert.

All four cars had been stolen in Northern Ireland. Right-wing Protestant extremists from the north were suspected.

Northern Ireland violence has taken 1,021 lives since August, 1969, but has often spilled south and into England.

The blasts gave central Dublin the look of a city at war. The slightly injured hobbled out of hospitals in bandages and casts along streets filled with shattered glass, twisted wreckage and pools of blood.

Priests were everywhere giving the last rites of the Catholic church. "I anointed 22 people in 30 minutes," said Father Pearse Duggan.

"My God, it was awful!," said Geraghty in the wreckage of his Welcome Inn. "One minute we were chatting and joking. The next we were on the ground under a heap of debris."

"Now I know what hell is like," said Richard Finlay, a truck driver who helped claw bodies from tte rubble of Guiney's department store on Talbot Street where they lay grotesquely among toppled display dummies.

"Mommy, Mommy, where are you?" shrieked a boy of four, a gaping wound in his stomach. A few feet away lay the body of a boy of less than three, a teddybear beside the tiny corpse.

"Just too horrible for words," he said.

The Monaghan bomb exploded in Church Square outside Greason's bar. Four customers were in the doorway and all were killed. Another man died inside.

6% pay hike due teachers in Walnut

WALNUT — A 6 per cent across-the-board salary increase for 220 teachers in the Walnut School District—plus liberalized fringe benefits—are expected to be approved by trustees Monday night.

The school board, at its 7:30 p.m. meeting in Walnut High School's multipurpose room, is expected to adopt new salary schedules effecting an agreement reached last month between teachers and administrators.

Teachers had requested a 14.2 per cent wage hike in their presentation to trustees April 15, which included a 8.73 cost of living boost and 5.5 additional increase to improve the salary schedule.

But Herman Bushong, president of the Walnut Valley Educators Assn., said the Certificated Employes Council (CEC), negotiating for teachers, had reached agreement with administrators for the 6 per cent boost.

Various fringe benefit improvements also are expected to be approved by trustees.

Other items on Monday's agenda include salary requests by classified employes, middle school report, discussion of preliminary plans for school site No. 19, a non-discriminatory recruitment policy and several inter-district attendance agreements.

Two in cycle gang arrested in rape

Donald Kelso, 25, of Ontario and Charles Norris, 22, of El Monte, were booked after the incident when their car was spotted by police.

The suspects, both allegedly members of the "Vagos" gang, reportedly had arrived at the residence in the 1300 block of Murietta Avenue to visit the girl's cousin, about 1 a.m., officers said.

They began attacking the girl as she slept, police added.

Missouri, Illinois areas inundated

Three drown in floodwaters

Two persons drowned in floodwaters in the Kansas City area Saturday and the body of another flood victim was pulled from floodwaters in Illinois.

Rains and thunderstorms fell on much of the eastern half of the nation and western Missouri had up to four inches of rain, which brought the two-day rainfall to seven inches and triggered serious flooding.

One man drowned when a pickup stalled in seven feet of water east of downtown Kansas City, Mo. A boy who had been playing in a street in Independence, Mo., also drowned.

The body of an Illinois man was pulled from the Big Indian Creek near Sheridan, Ill. He had fallen from a boat being used Friday to move furniture from a flooded home.

At Smithville, Mo., north of Kansas City, it was expected that another 100 persons would be forced from their homes, bringing the total evacuations to at least 300 as floodwaters spilled from the Little Platte River.

"We have three to four feet deep in the middle of town," said Smithville Police Chief David Ross. "This time we were smart. We evacuated the town with semi-trucks that we rented earlier in the morning from Kansas City."

Flooding was also reported at Excelsior Springs, Mo., and heavy rain was blamed for sewer cave-ins at St. Joseph, Mo.

Fifty Missouri National Guardsmen were on active flood duty and Kansas City police discouraged travel because of standing water in roadways.

Lake Waukomisn Mo., had five inches of rain in two hours Saturday morning. An inch and a half of rain fell at Moline, Ill. Hailstones up to two inches in diameter fell at Jewel, Kan.

Much of Iowa, where wet fields have interfered with spring plantingn was under a flash flood warning.

Showers and thundershowers were scattered from the southern Plains to the mid-Atlantic coast and there was morning fog in the central Gulf coast area. Clouds covered the northern part of the nation from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic coast.

It was sunny from California to the southern Rocky Mountains but frost in the mountains extended into the southern Rockies.

Russ police haul priest from church

MOSCOW (UPI) — Police arrested a controversial Russian Orthodox priest Saturday and hauled him out of his church while his parishioners wept.

The move came after the Rev. Dmitry Dudko, 53, announced he was leaving the priesthood because of "the illegal interference of the godless in the internal affairs of the church."

Church authorities, apparently prompted by Communist officials, ordered Dudko two weeks ago to stop giving question-and-answer sermons in which he dealt bluntly with spiritual and moral problems in this atheist society.

Immediately after the twohour service, two plainclothes policemen stepped up to the gilded sanctuary in the suburban church of St. Nicholas and led Dudko out by the arm.

Parishioners, including many youngsters attracted by Dudkos sermons, stood outside. Many wept and some asked for Dudko's blessing. But police hustled him out a side gate to a waiting car while uniformed and plainclothes police stood by to prevent any disturbance.

During his final statement, Dudko said: "I appeal to you to stand by me."

His sermons often touched on labor camps, in one of which he was interned for several years.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Striking Southern California bricklayers voted Saturday to accept a management pay offer and end their 13-day old walkout.

Hanhs Mehl, financial secretary of the Bricklayers and Stone Masons Union, Local 2, said the vote was 70 per cent in favor of the offer and 30 per cent against.

The workers were to return to their jobs Monday morning.

About 4,000 briclayers walked off their jobs May 6. The package accepted Saturday included a $2.05 per hour increase in wage and benefits in a two-year contract.

Journeyman scale presently is $8.53 per hour with $1.35 per hour in other benefits.

Judge laces into jury for freeing rape suspect

BOSTON (UPI) — A superior court judge, outraged that a jury returned an innocent verdict in a rape case, angrily denounced the panel from the bench and criticized the attitude of juries towards rape victims.

Judge Walter H. McLaughlin, noting that testimony was given by a couple who said they heard a woman screaming for 20 minutes in an apartment where the victim was found, told the jury Friday that "rape is going to continue until jurors, by their verdicts convict and punish, when the evidence is overwhelmingn as I think it was in this case."

He further told the nine men and three women that "when we have a trial, instead of trying the defendant, you make the poor girl the defendant. And I think that philosophy is led by the women, who should be more considerate."

The judge's remarks came after the Superior Court jury found a 27-year-old man, twice convicted of other crimes, innocent of raping a 22-year-old secretary in his apartment last Nov. 28.

During the trial, the victim testified that the suspect coerced her into leaving a singles bar with him by refusing to return her handbag. At his apartment, she said, he forced her into a bedroom and raped her.

The prosecution introduced evidence that bloodstains were found on bedding in the defendant's apartment.

The defendant had testified that the victim came to his apartment of her own will and denied he raped her.

McLaughlin prefaced his remarks by saying in all his years on the bench, "I have never said a word of criticism or a word of rebuke to a jury. The juries have the power to decide facts, determine guilt or innocence and that is the law of the country. We should abide by it without criticism."

Then the judge, his voice booming in a silent courtroom, launched his criticism.

Red Cross needs donors of blood

It has been proved that the risk of hepatitis is 10 times greater from blood supplied by commercial blood banks, so the Red Cross is hoping to be able to provide the total amount of blood needed in Los Angeles County within the year.

Pentagon admits playing rainmaker in Indochina war

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Comparing it to an elephant laboring to bring forth a mouse, the Pentagon in a document released Saturday finally owned up to its role as a rainmaker during the Indochina war.

Transcript of a top secret briefing on the program, given to a Senate foreign relations subcommittee last March 20, was released by Sen. Claiborn Pell, D-R.I.

It showed that the rainmaking program lasted from 1966 to 1972, involved some 2,602 flights by Phanton Jets and C130 turboprop transports seeding clouds with silver and lead iodide, and cost about $21.6 million.

But as Deputy Assistant Defense Secretary Dennis J. Doolin said in an exchange with Pell near the end of the briefing:

"When you look at ... the amount of rainfall that was in these given areas anyway, and what was added to it possibly by these extra seedings, it looks to me like when you are getting 21 inches in a given area and we add 2 inches. If I was on the bottom, I do not think I would know the difference between 21 and 23."

Much the same thought was expressed by Air Force Maj. Gen. Ray Furlong, who also participated. "Your observation —the elephant laboring and bringing forth a mouse —I think in large measure reflects our current perception," he told Pell.

The briefing showed that virtually all the rainmaking was directed at the Ho Chi Minh trail in the Laotian panhandle. Areas of North Vietnam leading up to mountain passes into Laos were also subjected to cloud seeding from time to time, but that country was put off limits when U.S. bombing ended in 1968.

The object, according to the Pentagon witnesses, was to muddy the unpaved roads over which thousands of North Vietnamese trucks carried supplies to the battlefronts in the South.

Most of the cloud seeding was carried out during the months leading up to and out of the east Asian monsoon season. Rain was plentiful enough during the monsoon proper to make it unnecessary.

No typhoons or tropical storms were ever seeded, officials said, because they were producing enough rain anyway.

Perhaps the bottom line was supplied by Furlong, who conceded that the Air Force had dreamed up and then abandoned another plan to drop "emulsifiers" on the trail to make it extra-slippery.

It was, he said, "the kind of thing that takes a lot of poundage, and you have limited access to some fairly confined area in something like a C130."

"As a former C130 pilot," he added, "I would be less than enthused at flying low level over the Laotian Panhandle and shoveling out emulsifeer. It just does not turn me on. I think sound military judgment prevailed and came to the same conclusion."

Local HSUS honored on 25th birthday

POMONA — The Humane Society of Pomona Valley, founded in 1949, "has stood like a beacon in the southern part of the state in the humane movement," the executive vice president of the Humane Society of the United States (HSUS) declared Friday night.

The HSUS official, Mel L. Morse, was principal speaker at a Humane Society of Pomona Valley 25th anniversary banquet held at City Hall and attended by more than 100 persons.

Morse noted that when the local humane society was incorporated on May 19, 1949, it started operations in a chicken shed but has since grown into a organization with a budget this year of $190,000.

Plaques were presented to Melvin I. Hull, the local society's first president in 1949, and present board member, for his role in "establishing high standards in humane education" and to Humane Officer Anastasio (Badge) Diaz for his many years of service with the society.

Claremont engineer

$155,000 awarded in traffic death

POMONA — A $155,000 settlement has been reached in the death Jan. 26, 1969, of Claremont resident Ray Hoalst, who was killed by an earthmover at the construction site of the Pomona Freeway.

Hoalst, 541 Sebastopol Ave., was killed when his car was crushed by the 100-ton vehicle at the building site of the Diamond Bar Boulevard underpass. The earthmover, driven by Jack Cox, was owned by the defendant, Kasler-Ball-Yeager Construction Co.

Attorney Robert Brimberry of Los Angeles claimed that Hoalst, an engineer, drove into the path of the earthmover despite signals of a flagman at the construction site. Arthur J. Jaffee, attorney for the Hoalst family, claimed that the company had not properly posted its flagmen and that the signals given by the flagmen were confusing and not as required by law. Hoalst was killed because he misunderstood, the family claimed.

The settlement was reached in the court of Superior Court Judge David D. French.

Bible distribution at school rejected

POMONA — A request by a Pomona woman to distribute Gideon New Testament Bibles to school children who request them has been denied by a public school administrator.

Mrs. Ethel Henning, presidnet of the Pomona-Claremont Women's Christian Temperance Union (WCTU), made her request at the May 3 school board meeting. She said the Gideon Society has agreed to provide all the miniature Bibles the children would take.

The denial came in a letter from Schools Asst. Supt. of Educational Services Sidney Moses.

Moses explained that a review of district administrative regulations indicated that free distribution of Bibles on school campuses is prohibited.

Moses said a county counsel staff member said it was his opinion that people other than students wishing to distribute such materials cannot do so on school district property. The lawyer pointed out, Moses said, that there is nothing to prohibit distribution of such material in an adjacent park or other property off campus.

In her appearance before the school board, Mrs. Henning said she saw the distribution of Bibles as a "line of prevention. We would hope our children would get the moral training contained in the Bible before they become delinquent," she said.

After hearing of the denial, Mrs. Henning said:

"I haven't given up. What we're asking is not unconstitutional. Gideon Bibles have been distributed free on high school campuses in Upland and in Montclair, at Mt. San Antonio College in Walnut and on the La Verne College campus.

"I've sent a copy of the letter (from Moses) to an attorney in Los Angeles. I'm going to find out more."

S.D. misses guess; park plans face ax

SAN DIMAS — A miscalculation in the projected growth of the city by 40 per cent in last year's budget will result in drastic cuts in park planning.

To the disappointment of many residents, the city will have to delay construction of tennis courts at three parks previously scheduled for this year and for ballfields at the Freeway Park.

Recreation Director Bryce Bailey blamed the energy crisis and related economic problems on the slowdown in development. The city last year expected to receive $200,000 from the Property Development Tax which places a $200 levy on each new unit constructed in the city. The money is used for park development.

Bailey said the city instead received $80,000 into the fund.

The director said park planning is "realistic and conservative" this year with a total of $66,800 planned for park development. The major portions of this amount will be at six city parks on plans, ground preparation and sprinkling systems.

No funds are budgeted for tennis courts, ballfields or for development of the swim park.

Tennis courts were to have been constructed at Marchant Park, Lone Hill Park and at Ladera Sierra Park this year. The Little League has urgent need for additional ballfields and stirred up a controversy when a ballfield was suggested at Lone Hill Park. Residents near the park protested against having the ballfield located there.

To find a solution to the controversy, the City Council voted to move the ballfield from Lone Hill Park to the newly acquired Freeway Park.

This year's budget shows $3,500 spent on site planning at the Freeway Park and $2,500 for ground preparation.

City Manager Robert Poff said he may suggest to the city council in future budget sessions that a portion of revenue sharing funds might be used for park development. The City Council will meet Monday at 6 p.m. to discuss the budget.

Hahn proposes exposition for Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Board of Supervisors Chairman Kenneth Hahn Thursday proposed that Los Angeles should stage an "Expo 80," possibly to be held in conjunction with the 1980 Olympics should the city land the Summer Games.

Hahn apointed R. M. "Dick" Pitinger, public relations vice president for Farmers Insurance Group, Inc., to head a planning committee. It will explore all possiblities of holding an international exposition at no expense to the taxpayer, Hahn said.

Expo 80 would provide "an economic shot in the arm" for Los Angeles through sales taxes, travel expenditures, hotel and restaurant business and a surge in sales of many types of merchandise, he said.

Upland cuts out $44,700 from budget

UPLAND — In a recent second-round of budget reviewing, the City Council lopped off a $44,700 chunk of next year's $6.3 million budget.

Items cut in the low-key review session included $21,000 for a new library rug, $18,000 for the mechanic's bay for additional work space for city auto repairmen, $4,000 from a requested $8,000 for trimming operations along Euclid Avenue and $1,700 from a $2,000 item for a public works truck radio.

Councilmen decided the library carpeting could be replaced in sections as money becomes available.

In other action, the council approved a budget item of $234,600 for the maintenance of city parks. Decisions on which new parks would be developed in the coming year are expected at the next review session Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the council chambers.

Responding to a request from members of the Fun After 50 Club for air conditioning in the main room of Magnolia Center, the council decided to hold the $7,500 item until the final budget session.

Tuesday's budget session is expected to cover requeshs from various local civic and recreational organizations, as well as a $19,000 funding request from the Chamber of Commerce, according to acting City Manager Lee Travers.

Upland plan for schools to be aired

UPLAND — A series of public hearings on the school district's educational master plan have been set for early June as work on the document nears completion.

At the last board meeting, Dist. Supt. Bill Plaster announced that first drafts of the 10-year blueprint will be submitted May 29 by various committees involved.

The initial reports will be discussed by trustees at a special meeting May 31.

Public comment on the reports will be solicited in a series of meetings June 3-7 in local school communities.

A final board hearing is set June 11 to discuss the plan and to assess public comments generated in the local meetings.

Plaster said the plan is expected to be adopted by July 16.

Three 49-member committees have been working since November of last year to develop the long-range plan covering the areas of instructional programs, housing needs and special programs.

Disney group studies lake

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Independence Lake area north of Lake Tahoe is being studied by Walt Disney Productions as a potential summer and recreation area, according to a Disney official.

The company is also studying another area in southwest Colorado, Robert Hicks said.

Hicks is in charge of looking for a major summer-winter recreation area for Disney which has been thwarted for 10 years in its attempt to develop a major recreation area in Mineral King east of Visalia.

Hicks said the Independence Lake area lacked the variety of Sun Valley or Mineral King, but he added the problem could be solved by linking it with land to the south.

Garage burns

Damage to the detached garage, part of a rental unit, was tentatively estimated at $1,000.

Though the garage was detached from the residence, there was some minor damage to the house, firemen reported. Cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Matter on Pomona council agenda

2 groups urge city buy theater

POMONA — Requests by the Central Business District (CBD) and the Central City Action Committee that city government or the redevelopment agency lease or purchase the vacant United Artists theater for use as a civic auditorium will be considered Monday night by the City Council.

The council less than a month ago authorized an expenditure not to exceed $3,000 for a feasibility study on the use of the building but would make no commitment to enter negotiations for the lease or purchase.

In a letter to the council, Robert J. Liedler, president of the CBD, said he understood that if the city does not exercise its option to lease or purchase by June 1, "that two organizations have made firm commitments to lease the building. It seems that neither of these proposed operations would contribute positively to our city's goals or aspirations."

"In view of the lack of a municipal auditorium within the boundaries of the city and the lack of such a facility in the foreseeable future, (the CBD) unanimously recommends the purchase of the theater," Liedler stated.

"The United Artists Theater, despite the costs of rehabilitation, can serve this community for those many years that will pass before we can afford to build a new one," a letter from the committee reads in part.

Among other matters scheduled for the council's 8 p.m. meeting are:

—Offer of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. to sell the former F. W. Woolworth Store for $15,000.

—Issuance of proclamation honoring the workers of the Pomona International chapter of the City of Hope.

—Three hearings on the notice to owners to abate the nusisance of a substandard and vacant building at 435 W. 10th St., and of vacant and fire-damaged buildings at 625 N. Currier St., and 1296 S. Thomas St.

—Resolution authorizing a joint powers agreement with Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas and Walnut for the functioning and funding of a juvenile diversion grant project.

—Resolution adopting plans and specifications for the San Jose Creek and South San Jose Creek flood control projects.

Plans being laid to observe centenary of Churchill's birth

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — "This is my place," said Sir Winston Churchill, tapping the earth with his cane. And there in the village churchyard of Bladen lies the man who could have rested among the immortals in Westminster Abbey.

Since his death in 1965 in his 91st year tens of thousands of people from all over the world have journeyed to St. Martin's church to pay their respects— and give their thanks—to Britain's World War II Prime Minister.

This year the little Oxfordshire village expects many more thousands, for it is the centenary of Sir Winston's birth in the great palace of Blenheim across a broad meadow from where he is buried.

In death, Sir Winston chose to join his family. In adjoining graves lie his brilliant, tragic father, Lord Randolph Churchill, and his beautiful American mother, Jennie Jerome.

There is space when the time comes for Baroness Spencer Churchill, his widow, who spent her 89th birthday last month launching the season of exhibitions, appeals and other events that will mark her husband's anniversary.

First donation

Lady Churchill, with many of her husband's wartime companions around her in addition to Prime Minister Harold Wilson and other politicians and statesmen, donated the first pound sterling of a hoped for one million pounds ($2.4 million) to complete two memorials to Sir Winston. Aim of the drive is to collect "one million pounds from one million people." Queen Mother Elizabeth was among early one-pound contributors.

One memorial is the great archive of Churchillian and other important contemporary documents at Churchill College in Cambridge. The other is for a fund which finances research and other activities for students.

The opening ceremony, in one of the most splendid rooms in the kingdom, the banqueting hall that is all that remains of the Palace of Whitehall, was only one of many that will keep green and fresh the memory of the man who helped save the nation in 1939-1945.

Cigar butts, a prison key and the boiler suits he wore during the war are among the more unconventional items of Churchilliana on display this year. The major exhibition opened May 10 in what are called "the fine rooms of Somerset House" —the first time they have been open to the public in 150 years. This exhibition will continue through Sept. 1.

Ancestors, too

The "fine rooms" were the original meeting place of the Royal Academy of Arts and were decorated in 1776, the year of American independence. Somerset House now is the central registry for vital statistics and the magnificent suite of rooms was liberated from civil service use for the exhibition.

In one room are mementos of Churchill's famous ancestors, the Duke of Marlborough and his redoubtable duchess, Sarah (who built a tall town house so she could look down on the queen), pictures and possessions of Lord Randolph, who was Chancellor of the Exchequer, and of Jennie Jerome.

The main part of the display is devoted to Sir Winston himself —pictures, photographs and manuscripts, most of them never before seen by the public. They have been lent by Queen Elizabeth, by Lady Churchill and by Churchill children, grandchildren, and friends. Among them is a placard in bold type, "Action This Day," which was Churchill's stimulant to his wartime colleagues, and perhaps the best picture he ever painted, the goldfish pool at Chartwell, his country home.

Chartwell & Blenheim

The proceeds of the exhibition will be divided between the two national memorials — Churchill College and the scholarships of the Winston Churchill Memorial Trust.

A permanent display of Churchill mementos also is on display at Chartwell. The Marquis of Bath, who admired Churchill when they were both members of Parliament in the 1930s and has been collecting relics of his friend for 29 years, has a number of items on display at his stately home, Longleat. These include the key to Pretoria prison from which Churchill escaped in the Boer War, and stubs of his cigars.

Blenheim Palace, home of his kinfolk, also will stage a special exhibition including a play about Sir. Winston and Lady Churchill. There will be an issue of Churchill stamps in October and a celebration in his old parliamentary constituency of Woodford to coincide with his 100th birthday Nov. 30.

Halfway house for inmates no country club

NO COUNTRY CLUB — Andromeda, an Atlanta halfway house for prisoners with drug habits, is rumored to be a country club. Although all the residents are serving their final months, clinical director Paul Vestal dismisses the notion. In the effort to cure addiction the effort can be brutal, he says. Here residents talk in the park across the street from the former rooming house.

ATLANTA (UPI) — Andromeda, a halfway house for convicts with drug habits, is rumored to be a rest home, a spa or a country club by the men behind bars in Georgia prisons.

But for most of the 107 inmates who have lived in the ramshackle, converted rooming house in the past 15 months, it has been a place "to get my head straight" and prepare for a life on the streets without drugs.

"When I first came to Andromeda, I was living in a world of darkness," said Freddie Woods, 35 and black, finishing an 18-month burglary sentence he received while trying to support a drug habit.

"Since I got into the program, I've learned about myself. I was hard-headed and I thought everybody was crazy but me. I know now that I have been given an opportunity to be myself and I don't have to try to project an image."

Although the residents are all serving the final months of prison terms, there are no armed guards or barred windows. An inmate can easily walk out the door and hop an Atlanta city bus if he wants to escape.

Andromeda director Wayne Knight said he believed the center, located on the fringe of Atlanta's "hippie" district, is the only one in the country operated by a state corrections department.

"There are rumors throughout the prison system that this is a rest home, a spa or country club for inmates," clinical director Paul Vestal said. "What they find out is that the work here is tougher than anything they have done. This is no story-book kingdom. It can be very brutal and rough in the effort to cure drug addiction."

Nearly all the Andromeda residents were heroin addicts before being sent to prison and most said they had access to drugs while behind bars.

"The institution I was in, we had marijuana every weekend," said Richard Manion, 22, a mustacioed white inmate. "It was plentiful. Some institutions even have heroin addicts in them."

"While in prison a man can get any form of drug he wants depending on what he wants to pay," Vestal said. "The majority of residents get high the day before they come here."

To Vestal and the residents at the center, methadone is a "crutch" which is not to be used.

"Methadone is just another addiction," Freddie Brooks, 22, said. "We're dealing with our problems without crutches."

Vestal, 27, who wears his graying hair long and sports bib overalls because they are comfortable, uses vivid group therapy sessions to get residents to accept themselves as they really are.

"We realize that drug addiction is not a problem but a symptom of a problem," he said. "The biggest problem is a lack of self-confidence. The only advice they will ever hear from me is be yourself. If a guy gets his head together, he's done it. If he goes back on the street, he's done it. But it's up to him."

Of the 107 residents who have lived at Andromeda, 38 have completed therapy and 31 are still in the program. Of the remaining 38 inmates, 15 were released after completing their sentence but without finishing therapy, 13 were returned to institutions after failing to adjust to the program and 10 "escaped" by walking out the door.

"Cure" rate

Vestal said only one of the 38 who graduated has returned to prison—for receiving stolen property—"but we know we've got two or three back shooting dope."

Vestal is proud of the "cure" rate. "We know these guys are not going back out there shooting dope," he said.

The center normally houses about 40 inmates, all serving the last six months of their sentence. Inmates who have been convicted of murder, rape or other violent crimes are not eligible.

Hilltop religious museum tells the story of Christ

WATERBURY, Conn. (UPI) — John Baptist Greco is a lawyer by profession but he also is a 20th Century herald, gently exhorting those who visit his "Holy Land, U.S.A.," to love one another.

"We're not trying to convert people. We're trying to bring them closer to Christianity. We're trying to inspire goodwill and better understanding," he said in an interview in his downtown law office.

He was referring to his hilltop religious museum, the weatherbeaten 17-acre Holy Land atop a crag of brush and ledge overlooking the industrial city of Waterbury. He gets about 40,000 visitors a year.

And he explains Holy Land, with its miniature village of Bethlehem and its multiplicity of biblical exhibits which tell Christ's story, saying:

"People come here to see the scriptures. As one man said, 'You open the Bible to us,'" Greco said.

Amusement park aura

His displays include professional sculptures, exhibits from the Vatican Pavilion of the 1964 World's Fair, and crudely fashioned pictorials, a chapel and information centers.

Greco, 79, makes no bones about the artistic eccentricity of the place—it seems to exude the aura of an amusement park. He says he uses anything he can get to mold an exhibit.

The white and black hands in one display stressing brotherhood, for example, were obviously those of castoff store dummies.

The Holy Land is supported by Greco's earnings as a lawyer and donations from visitors who are given hour-long tours of the exhibits.

They include a replica of the catacombs, where the first Christians lived underground, now threatened by highway expansion; the crucifixion, Mount Zion, the Gardens of Eden and Gethsemane, and dozens of other displays.

Lay preacher

Greco is assisted by a nun assigned to help him by the Archbishop of Hartford, Conn.

White wisps of hair straying, an apple-cheeked face, expressive eyes and a crew neck sweater under a stained suit jacket combine to make John Baptist Greco look like anything but a lawyer in the year 1974.

In the 1930s he was a Roman Catholic lay preacher who spoke in the prisons, the big cities, the small towns, the migrant fields and the breadlines of depression America.

The son of a shoemaker, Greco was born in Waterbury, and spent part of his adolescence in Avellino, Italy, near Naples, returning to America as a youngster of 13—to work in his father's shop.

Greco, who to this day attends Mass twice daily and observes a holy hour, became an altar boy in a nearby church and served morning Mass. Two parish priests taught him French, Greek and Latin each day.

CCC inspiration

While other youngsters attended school and received a formal education, Greco spent his time in the church sacristy, studying the classics. His scholarship eventually won him acceptance at Yale University Law School.

Greco wanted to be a priest, but he says "circumstance" made him turn to the law instead. That did not stop him from being active in trying to bring people closer to Christ.

His idea for Holy Land was inspired by what he saw in the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) camps of the Roosevelt era in the 1930s. Greco visited the camps as a lay preacher an dsaw the way the federal government used films or visual aids as part of its educational process.

YOU CAN BECOME SLIM AND TRIM AGAIN

Vitamin 'E' Discovery Offers Fast Weight Loss

HOLLYWOOD (Special)- A new vitamin E diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, is reportedly gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of up to a pound a day and even more without strenuous exercise or starvation. Testimonial files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon & eggs and still lose weight.

Chewable (candy-like) Vita-E tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new combination of ingredients that curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wonderous benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin E Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. A person with an improper diet, deficient in vitamins and exercise, can with the help of this diet plan "hasten" the utilization of body fat and carbohydrates causing loss of weight.

Rooms limited but gasoline still available

By ROBERT C. MILLER

JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI) — The president of the Alaska Visitors Bureau says there will probably be a scarcity of rooms for the nearly quarter of a million tourists and commercial travelers expected this summer, but no serious gas shortages.

Al Parrish said an AVB study showed there should be "no significant gasoline shortages in Alaska during the 1974 summer season."

Parrish suggested, however, that Alaska-bound travelers utilize group and tour programs when heading north as "group travel is a more efficient and easier method of seeing the state and eliminates any possible transportation or accommodation inconveniences.

"There have been no problems with fuel on the Alaska Highway in either Alaska or Canada," Parrish said. "The Canadians have announced and advertised that there will be no gasoline shortages in western Canada, nor should there be any problems for Alaskan travelers on the highway," he said.

Parrish explained that the AVB could not go so far as to guarantee that there would not be occasional shortages, but he said that unless there was a major reversal in the petroleum situation, he foresaw no difficulties. He estimated that visitors from the lower 48 states would probably find gas prices in line with what they have been paying at home.

The latest AVB survey put regular prices at 59 cents in Anchorage and about 70 cents a gallon along the Alaska Highway.

"Hotel rooms are still available in most parts of the state, even during the peak season," Parrish said. "But from midJune through Labor Day most of the firstclass hotels in Anchorage and Fairbanks are booked, but some rooms are still available through package tour operators."

The AVB president said medium-price hotel and motel bookings are running well ahead of any previous year, and independent travelers may have trouble finding accommodations on a walk-in basis this summer in most of the larger towns—with the exception of Juneau.

Group travel is already booked well ahead of last year," Parrish said, "but tour operators report there is still space available on most departure dates."

He said the best AVB projections show some 236,000 out-of-state visitors will tour Alaska this season, plus additional thousands of commercial travelers attracted by construction of the pipeline.

Grass problem sheer delight for animals

NEW YORK (UPI) — If city lawnmowers won't do the job, leave it to the sheep and goats.

The Bayside Hills Civic Association, angry over the city's failure to cut the grass on the 56th and 58th avenue malls in the Queens area of New York, recently threatened to bring in sheep and goats to do the job.

"Unless the grass is cut on our malls within seven days," association president Albert J. Falloni wrote Mayor Abraham Beame, "we shall find it necessary to hire, lease or buy some sheep and goats to graze on these unkempt and uncut malls."

Falloni said an appeal has gone out for anyone who has an animal to lend or rent. "No cows will be accepted, however," he added. "They are too big and dangerous."

Next, a satellite to benefit people

GERMANTOWN, Md. (UPI) — A thin, wheezing 17-year-old boy in obvious need of expert medical attention baffled doctors aboard the hospital ship Hope in the small port of Caeio, Brazil.

Though there were no specialists in town or aboard the ship, the Hope's physicians nevertheless obtained advice from a panel of consultants and treated the youth for lymphosarcoma, a cancer of the lymph nodes. He got better in a few days.

The experts were in Washington, D.C., and a communications satellite relayed them everything they needed to know about the patient, including Xrays and microscope images of blood and bone marrow smears and tissue sections.

The case, described in the April 29 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, demonstrated how satellites can save lives by getting quick medical advice to remote areas of the world.

To make such telemedicine and a variety of other services available to more people on an experimental basis, the space agency is preparing to launch May 30 from Cape Canaveral a craft called ATS6—for Applications Technology Satellite. It has been nicknamed "Marconi" by project workers in honor of the telegraph pioneer born 100 years ago.

Working for the people

The satellite, a contrast in silver tubing, copper antenna, blue solar cells and black structure, will be the first powerful enough to beam radio and television to small, chickenwire antennae and receivers that cost as little as $600. It is the product of $200 million in research and development.

Besides relaying emergency medical help, ATS6 will beam educational and health services to thousands of Americans in isolated areas of the Rockies, Appalachia and Alaska and later to 5,000 remote villages in India.

"The satellite will be working for the people," said Dr. Wernher von Braun, a vice president of Fairchild Industries, which built the 1.5 ton satellite.

"ATS6 is an excellent example of how space technology can help us to a better life here on earth. ATS6 could turn out to be the most important advance since movable type as a means of reaching people now separated by vast geographical, economic and cultural barriers."

The satellite, last of its type planned by NASA, is to be launched by a triple-barreled Air Force Titan 3C rocket into orbit 22,300 miles high. The satellite's speed will match Earth's rotation and the craft will remain over one point except when nudged to different spots by small rocketscontrolled from the ground.

Giant beach umbrella

ATS6 differs from the communications satellites of the past in that it will unfold in orbit a 30-foot copper coated, dacron mesh antenna that looks like a giant beach umbrella.

This antenna, coupled with nine transmitters, will deliver to Earth a radio beam 31 times more powerful than the biggest of the current communications satellites, the commercial Intelsat 4 series.

That power, capable of being aimed anywhere within the satellite's broad view with the aid of a pair of onboard computers, gives ATS6 the capability for the first time to "talk" to simple rooftop or school yard receivers no larger than 10 feet in diameter. The Intelsats use much bigger, multimillion dollar ground stations.

To demonstrate its utility, ATS6 will be used for a variety of purposes over the next few years. One will be to show the world the televised rendezvous and linkup between an American Apollo and a Russian Soyuz spaceship in July, 1975.

For its first year of operation, the new satellite will be positioned above the Galapagos Islands on the Equator west of South America. From this vantage point, it will view all the United States.

Specialized education

One of its first jobs will be to see if a satellite is practical in helping teach people in isolated rural areas where specialized education is not available.

In Appalachia, 10,000 to 15,000 elementary and secondary school teachers will receive courses in career education and in teaching elementary reading this summer and during the next school year. Receiving terminals will be in Alabama, Maryland, West Virginia, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee.

Starting in September, 4,900 students in 56 rural communities throughout Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Nevada, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming will receive programs in career education relayed by the satellite from Denver.

In Alaska, people in villages reachable only by plane in good weather will learn through satellite about other people and cultures in their state. Ground receivers in 18 communities will link Alaska with the Public Broadcasting Service and the National Public Radio System in other states.

Alaska also will participate in a major telemedicine test. Examining rooms in small clinics at Fort Yukon, which has a population of 630, and at Galena, with 425 people, will televise live views of patients and their medical data to physicians at the Public Health Service Hospital in Tanana. After studying the patient and such information as his heartbeat and the results of tests, the Tanana doctor will prescribe therapy.

The Veterans Administration will use ATS6 to exchange medical information between VA hospitals in Altoona and Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Beckley and Clarksburg, W. Va.; Dublin, Ga.; Fayetteville, Oteen and Salisbury, N.C.; Salem, Va.; and Johnson City, Tenn.

Bill aims at state rewards for tipoffs

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation offering large state rewards for the capture and conviction of political kidnapers such as the Symbionese Liberation Army has advanced in the Senate.

The measures (SB1861-62) by Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, cleared the Senate Judiciary Committee recently on 9-1 and 9-2 votes and were sent to the Finance Committee.

The measures would authorize the offering of statefinanced rewards ranging from $50,000 to $100,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of political or other kidnapers. The larger sum could be offered by the governor if the victim of a kidnap was killed during the abduction or captivity.

"If we spread 'a little bread' around," Richardson said, "you would be surprised how much information can be collected."

Richardson, a candidate for the U.S. Senate, said although he removed "political" from the original draft of the bills, it was the actions of the SLA in the Patricia Hearst kidnaping that spawned the legislation.

Russians bare invite to Mao to bridge rift

MOSCOW (UPI) — The government newspaper Izvestia disclosed Wednesday the Soviet Union offered last June to hold a summit meeting with Mao Tse-tung in an attempt to bridge its widening rift with China.

It said Peking never replied, but that the offer was still in effect.

Western diplomats specializing in Sino-Soviet relations said the article in the government newspaper was the first indication such an offer had ever been made.

Real redhead is a rarity

How many redheads do you know whose hair color can be classified as genuine? A geneticist named James V. Nell has figured out that only one red-haired citizen in every 40 nationwide is the possessor of the real thing.

Lions, leopards and cheetahs abound in Kenya's Masai Game Reserve in Africa. But that's not the point. The point is the warden's name is Ole Pussy.

Among the preferred names for little Japanese girls is a set of syllables that translates "Honorable Miss Chrysanthemum."

No lark, the meadowlark. It's a sort of blackbird.

This carload of hunters in bright red jackets relaxed at day's end in a Montana tavern, then boiled out those swinging doors several hours later, singing loudly and waving beer cans. An Eastern lady tourist asked an onlooker why all the men wore red. State law requires it, said the informant. "That's great!" said the lady, "drunks everywhere ought to be made to wear red!"

What's ahead for North Ireland?

By EONAL O'HIGGINS

BELFAST (UPI) — Just before the train pulls into Belfast's Great Victoria Station, the passenger is greeted by a large golden inscription on a black background.

"Prepare to meet thy Maker," it admonishes.

With the 1,000th victim of Northern Ireland's violence already buried and the toll of the second thousand already begun, the message has grim relevance.

After nearly five years of a bloody three-way struggle among the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA), the British Army and Protestant extremists, the possibility of peace has become a necessity for the beleaguered country.

Start somewhere

"We must start somewhere," said Tom Creegan, a social worker in the Roman Catholic Falls area, a working class section that has borne the brunt of the street violence. "And I don't know a better place to begin than right here."

His views reflected those of Commerce Minister John Hume, a Catholic member of the new power-sharing executive or coalition which runs the country.

"There is no use trying to tackle the problem of violence until we first remove the conditions that make it possible or, indeed, inevitable," Hume said.

These conditions include a centuries-old tradition of bad housing, overcrowded working class ghettos, unemployment reaching a level of 47 per cent in some areas and an almost total lack of social amenities for the young.

Coalition executive

"This is the violence that we must tackle—the violence of poverty," Hume said. "When this is achieved, the violence of frustration will disappear."

No one in Northern Ireland expects the road to peace to be smooth or quick. But many believe a start has been made with formation of a coalition executive in which Catholic and Protestant leaders cooperated.

The new executive faces bitter opposition from many quarters. Former Premier Brian Faulkner, who heads the Protestant team in the executive, has come under strong attack from the right wing of the Unionist party—the party which held undiluted power for more than half a century.

Gerry Fitt, leader of the predominantly Catholic Social and Democratic Labor Party, has met with similar reaction from the IRA and other extremist groups.

Much will depend on how the executive succeeds in holding together its brittle unity. At the moment it needs time to implement a policy of building houses, providing employment and putting a wage packet instead of a gun into workers' hands.

Humiliating defeat

Before it had a chance to do any of these things, it suffered a humiliating defeat at the polls. In the recent British general election, Protestant militants swept all but one of Northern Ireland's 12 seats in the House of Commons.

In the near future the executive faces new political hazards.

These include ratification of the Sunningdale agreement and the setting up of a Council of Ireland with executive powers.

Last December at Sunningdale, England, Protestant and Catholic leaders agreed on a power-sharing arrangement which included a Council of Ireland drawn equally from Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic. This proposal has proved totally unacceptable to a vast majority of the Protestant community, but Catholic leaders will accept no watering down of the proposals.

Formal ratification of the agreement, for which no date yet has been set, will prove a stiff test for the executive.

extremist problem

Even if the executive holds together and puts its economic policies to work, the problem of both Catholic and Protestant extremist organizations still exists.

Political leaders from both communities hope a "new deal" in which relative prosperity reaches the lower levels of both communities will sap support from the gunmen.

"The thing to strive for is to channel their activities into the political arena," one politician said.

Once the extremists are engaged in political activity with a real possibility of making their voices heard, there is less chance they will want to bomb the institutions of state. At least, this is the opinion put forward in some quarters.

British army

The final imponderable in any solution is the role of the British army. The IRA has made army withdrawal a first priority in any talk of a truce. At the same time moderate opinion in both communities warns that such a withdrawal could spark civil war.

Last month the Catholic Bishop of Londonderry, the most Rev. Dr. Edward Daly, called for a withdrawal to barracks by the British troops in return for an IRA pledge to call off its bombing campaign.

The IRA countered with a statement saying such a withdrawal could not be localized, but must include the whole of Northern Ireland. At the moment it has gone no further, but many commentators believe the start to an end of violence may come in this way —if it ever does.

Income for most in U.S. up, except for farmers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most Americans enjoyed a healthy increase in wages, salaries and other forms of income in April but farmers' earnings were down sharply for the fourth month in a row, the Commerce Department said.

Personal income, a broad measure of consumer spending power, rose $7 billion or 0.6 per cent, last month, compared to $6.6 billion, or 0.5 per cent, in March. Personal income is now at a seasonally adjusted rate of $1,108.4 billion ($1.1 trillion).

Farm income dropped $3.4 billion, or 12 per cent, "reflecting further declines in prices received by farmers for both livestock and crops and increases in farm production expenses," the department said. This figure has now fallen $4.4 billion since January.

Wages and salaries advanced $4.3 billion in April compared to $3.7 billion a month earlier.

For the first four months of 1974, overall personal income was running 9.8 per cent ahead of January-April, 1973, the department said.

Motorcyclists in fiery protest

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Motorcycle enthusiasts, among them members of groups like the "Hell's Angels," burned a helmet in the state capitol parking lot Sunday to protest a new law requiring them to wear the protective headgear.

The bikers, who came from all over the state, also burned the traffic tickets they got on their way into town for riding without helmets.

Woman guilty in mate's death

VAN NUYS (upi) —A 38-year-old Hidden Hills woman was convicted of murder Wednesday for the death of her husband last August, but was found innocent of assault with a deadly weapon in the wounding of her husband's nurse.

Janet E. Lesko was to be sentenced June 12.

Motor fuel from paper? it's possible

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Yesterday's newspaper could be tomorrow's motor fuel, according to a University of California chemical engineering professor.

Charles R. Wilke, senior staff member in the Energy and Environment Division of the Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory here, says cellulose, the major constituent of green plants and such other products as newsprint, can be converted into energy at a reasonable cost.

"Our studies," Wilke says, "indicate that cellulose is a large potential source of fuel, food, or chemicals now obtained from petroleum-based raw materials."

In order to release the energy stored in cellulose it must be broken down to glucose, a form of sugar, and then converted to ethyl alcohol or to microbial protein, a common ingredient of animal fodder.

Ethylene, which is used for the manufacture of polyethylene plastics, could be produced from ethanol. And an added benefit of the process, Wilke notes, is that ethanol and acetone, another chemical that can be made from glucose, and like ethanol a petroleum-based material, could ease the demand on crude oil.

There is a probability that a cellulose-produced alcohol could be the nation's future motor fuel, Wilke says.

At present, alcohol is not competitive with gasoline although it is used in many countries as a fuel. But if the price of conventional fuels increase, Wilke says, or if pollution from hydrocarbon fuels becomes a dominant concern in some areas, the situation might change.

Wilke says the cellulose could be extracted from the thousands of pounds of agricultural and domestic waste discarded every day.

"Using such readily available solid wastes, we could produce 13 billion gallons of alcohol per year," Wilke predicts, "equivalent in terms of energy to 10 per cent of the U.S. annual gasoline production."

A pound of cellulose is roughly equivalent to about one-third of a pound of gasoline, Wilke says, and a gallon of alcohol has energy of combustion equal to about two-thirds of a gallon of gasoline.

He says cellulose could provide such significant amounts of energy that it might be profitable to grow certain crops specifically for energy.

Wilke estimates that cellulose could be converted to glucose for a cost of one cent a pound— a 12-cent-a-pound decrease in the current cost. He says the glucose could then be changed to alcohol for a cost of 30 cents a gallon, half of what it is now.

And these cost cuts are the reasons Wilke thinks his new energy source plan is feasible. He says the chief problem in converting cellulose to energy has been in providing enough of the enzyme cellulase for hydrolysis of cellulose into glucose.

To reduce those costs, Wilke and his graduate student assistants developed a faster way to grow cellulose and a lower-cost medium for cell culture. They also devised a method of recovering the enzyme after hydrolosis for reuse.

Wilke says his results have so far been based on laboratory experiments so this year he plans to continue the study using a small pilot plant capable of processing sufficient waste material each day. That way, he says, the difficulties and economies of a large-scale operation can be determined.

Bus system to link West End to S.B. urged

SAN BERNARDINO — County Supervisor Robert Townsend wants to get the wheels turning on a bus transit system that would link the four West End cities with San Bernardino.

He proposes the county and cities form a joint powers agreement, with officials of the participating entities forming a transportation committee to direct the bus system. Funds to develop and operate the system would come from state and federal sources.

Townsend also suggests the San Bernardino Associated Governments (SANBAG) provide the staff to assist and advise the commission, which would determine the type and level of service to be provided.

The supervisor has contacted officials in Chino, Montclair, Ontario and Upland in seeking support of his proposal. He said three cities are interested in the idea and want to hold a joint meeting for further discussion.

In an effort to get the transit system moving, Townsend will ask other county supervisors Monday that the county board provide the leadership in contacting the West End cities regarding a joint powers agreement.

"For the West End, I have proposed we utilize the availability and expertise of the county's public works agency to implement the system," he noted. "The agency could help in obtaining the buses, maintaining equipment, and even provide personnel to operate the buses."

The SANBAG recently had a study made of West End transportation needs. The recommendations included:

—A fixed transportation route be established to link the four West End cities with San Bernardino. This could be extended to include Pomona, Claremont and also make connections with the Rapid Transit District service.

—A modified dial-a-bus system be established within the cities to implement the fixed route service. Residents could call a central station and have a bus pick them up at their home within a one hour time limit. These buses would make connections with the fixed route system and also to other central locations such as shopping centers, medical centers and government buildings.

"This level of service could be financed from allocations aleady distributed to various cities and counties through state funding," said Townsend. The state money is allocated from provisions of Senate Bill 325 and comes from sales taxes.

"Because residents are already paying for public transportation, we should establish a system within the county to serve them," he emphasized. "There are many areas within my district where a transit system is needed. There are those who live on fixed incomes and have low incomes who can't afford other modes of transportation."

Townsend suggests that buses be leased initially until the program can be evaluated. "In all the studies, the one thing in common is that consultants agree you ccan't properly evaluate a transportation system until it is implemented."

Leased buses would allow for flexibility in adjusting to any changes, he explained.

Regarding response from cities on his proposal, Townsend said Chino officials agree that "something be done and West End city representatives should further discuss it.

"Upland officials believe the West End cities should discuss it and determine the appropriate organization. Ontario officials said they are still reviewing the proposal and will make recommendations in writing. And I am still waiting for Montclair," he noted.

Townsend said city involvement is important so officials can design the transit system that fits their needs and also determine where the routes will go.

Pomona group hopes to reduce truancy, delinquency

PTA moving into new role: social action

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The Parent-Teacher Association has been school-oriented for 77 years, but with the establishment of an extensive counseling and agency referral program in September, it will move out into the community in an attempt to solve school-related problems.

Shirley Abrams, president of the Pomona Council PTA, announced an action program aimed at making community resources available to all and lowering truancy and juvenile delinquency by a given percentage.

The program, funded by a joint grant from the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges, will get underway as a pilot project, possibly at Palomares Junior High School in September.

An organizational meeting of interested community persons will be held May 29 at Cal Poly Kellogg West, 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Besides Mrs. Abrams, speakers will be schools Supt. Robert Wentz; Ken Cooper, director of community and school services for the district; Mike Berry of the Pomona Police Department; Ed Calahan of the Los Angeles County probation department; and Ruth Swenson of the state PTA board.

"We want a commitment from the persons attending. The idea is to give them background and stimulate them into wanting to do something to help," Mrs. Abrams said.

"The original purpose of the PTA was the welfare of the children. It centered in the schools because that's where the children were, but now they're (the national PTA) encouraging groups in the states to move out into the community," the local coordinator stated.

With this in mind, Virginia Macy of Whittier, state PTA director of public welfare, met with members of the California Council of Children and Youth and "discovered mutual concerns." Subsequently, Mrs. Macy submitted a proposal to the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The Model Community Volunteer Project was approved with Pomona as the target area.

This community is regarded as a transitional city from agricultural to suburban and light industrial, faced with the challenge of improving interracial harmony with increasing minority populations, having a crime and juvenile delinquenccy problem, experiencing a high percentage of school abstenteeism, suspensions and expulsions and evidencing high correlation between youth involvement with the law and absence from school and the inability to read and figure, officials said.

The community action program would attempt to deal with these problems through effective volunteer involvement and interaction with schools, students and local agencies, explained Mrs. Abrams.

The specific objective is to reduce by 10 per cent unexcused absenteeism and the number of petitions filed to the juvenile authority.

"There are many children who refuse to come to school because they don't feel they have proper clothing. Older children oftentimes miss because of baby-sitting with younger sisters and brothers while parents work," she explained.

The program is designed to be valuable to the child, volunteer, school and society. Mrs. Abrams and Theo Yoast, Pomona Council fourth vice president in charge of public welfare, will pull together a host of volunteers acting as aides in the classroom, curriculum and instruction, tutoring, health, library, resource and general school activities. State PTA coordinators will be Mrs. Macy and Ruby Van Syckel, juvenile protection chairman.

The volunteers will be selected to represent racial and economic cross sections of the community. Enthusiasm, honesty, motivation and positive attitudes about youth will be essential in the roles of volunteers. The PTA, school administration and community agencies will coordinate each other's efforts. The purpose of the program is "to augment, not to replace" current community services.

Confidentiality, creative listening and nonjudgmental attitude cannot be overemphasized, she added.

In the final phase of implementing the program child-youth advocates will be utilized.

"This advocate would be one of their peers, somebody who's there—not paid by the school district or anyone else—to talk with them, show interest in them. We'll establish rap rooms on each campus," she noted.

News media are reluctant about hunting runaways

I hope that you can give us some idea how to get an appeal in newspapers or on television to my 16-year-old niece who left home two months ago.

She hasn't been heard from except for one letter to a friend in Newbury Park. The letter came from Gainesville, Fla., but a search there was futile.

Her home is in North Carolina. We have no idea where she is.

Her mother is sick with worry. The authorities are faced with hundreds of runaways and not enough manpower to look for them.

None of the family can afford private investigators. We feel helpless.—Mrs. J. P., Upland.

Many newspapers, radio stations and television stations are reluctant to handle pleas like yours.

Editors believe that runaways already know you are anxious for their return and will come back if and when they are ready to.

If you can definitely connect your niece in some way with the city where the news medium is located, you stand a chance of arranging to publicize your appeal.

We sent you a list of agencies and types of business offices to contact. We also provided you with the address of the newspaper in Gainesville.

In the past year and two months I have been very unsuccessful in receiving my copies of the Reader's Digest.

Each time I wrote I received only one reply, saying how sorry the Reader's Digest people were and that I would receive my copies.

I did for two months and then nothing. Copies I did receive came with postage due.

The subscription was given to my husband and myself as a Christmas gift from an aunt and uncle.

I wrote another letter last month. The only thing I have received from them was my sweepstakes number, which was mailed to my present address. Why not my books?

I moved twice but listed my changes of address with the post office one week before each move. — Mrs. R.S., Pomona.

We wrote to Reader's Digest, calling attention to the two changes of address.

You received another letter of apology mentioning our letter and assuring you that your address was being checked so that you would receive all the copies to which you are entitled.

When we checked back with you more than a month later, we found out you were receiving two copies a month.

You plan to write to the company asking whether it will be possible to turn off one spigot and obtain instead the back copies you missed.

To date I have heard nothing regarding this order although my check was deposited by the company 11 days after I sent it.

I have written to the company twice but have not received a reply—P.S., Chino

You sent us copies of the back and front of your canceled check, which we forwarded to the company along with an Action Line letter.

You received a refund of $7.29. You sent us a note of thanks for our help in winning what had been a "frustrating battle."

Pomona C of C board against county tax hike

POMONA — Directors of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce are opposed to a proposal to raise the Los Angeles County property tax rate by 83 cents per $100 asessed valuation.

County officials preparing the preliminary 1974-75 fiscal year budget have suggested raising the tax rate from the present $3.86 to $4.69. The county Board of Supervisors has looked at the $2,764,407,413 budget and promised some cuts.

The chamber board, in a meeting last week made these findings in rejecting the proposed tax rate increase:

—With the present high rate of inflation and the continual soaring costs of business operations (both public and private), an increase in the county tax rate will only feed the inflationary psychology of the people within the county.

—Those cities which lie at the periphery of Los Angeles County compete with cities in surrounding counties for commerce and industry. A prime consideration of a company that is looking for expansion is the property tax rates it would be subjected to.

At the present time, the tax rate of Los Angeles County is substantially higher that the rates of Orange County ($1.68), Riverside County ($2.96), and San Bernardino County ($3).

"With Los Angeles county's cities already at a disadvantage, any increase in the county property tax rate will have a serious and adverse affect upon the city's ability to attract new commerce and even keep the commerce it presently has," added the directors.

Officials said they plan to send letters outlining their objections to other chambers of commerce within Los Angeles County in seeking their support.

Letters will also be sent to the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors and to the Pomona City Council.

Opinion

Is the cure worse than the malady?

Owners of 1974 automobiles think they have problems, what with having to wrestle with lap and shoulder belts before the darn cars will even start. Wait until they talk to the owners of the forthcoming 1975s.

Most 1975 model cars must be equipped with catalytic converters in their exhaust systems, a $150 item that changes hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions into harmless carbon dioxide and water — and which requires the use of unleaded gasoline in the engine.

The Environmental Protection Agency has decreed that about a third of the nation's 365,000 service stations must be selling unleaded gasoline by July 1, and the oil companies are scrambling to meet the deadline. To insure that owners of the 1975s do not use ordinary leaded gas, which would ruin the converters, their cars will have smaller fuel tank filler pipes to match the narrower nozzles on unleaded gas pumps.

One can already foresee this kind of scenario: A motorist low on gas 50 miles from nowhere, and the only station around has no unleaded gas. To heck with the catalytic converter and the environment, he says, as he has his tank slowly and laboriously filled with the forbidden (and cheaper) leaded stuff by means of a funnel.

Ah, the environment. That is the reason for this latest in a long of regulations that are turning America's love affair with the automobile into a marriage of inconvenience.

It has long been known that our automobile produce a tremendous amount of carbon monoxide (CO) through incomplete combustion, and that it is not healthful for children and other living things. In round figures, the automobile population pours some 270 million tons of CO into the atmosphere annually, equal to about 51 per cent of the amount naturally present.

Not only that, but it was discovered that Mother Nature herself was producing from a variety of sources, such as the decay of vegetation, a worldwide total of at least 3.9 billion tons of CO every year. This was a truly alarming situation.

However, as scientists refined their observations, they noticed a curious thing. Although man and nature were continually creating so much carbon monoxide, the absolute level carried by the atmosphere remained the same — some 530 million tons. Clearly something was happening to the excess.

We now know that chemical processes in the atmosphere, like a natural catalytic converter, break down toxic carbon monoxide molecules into nontoxic carbon dixode (CO_2) molecules very rapidly.

But we also know that the CO_2 content of the atmosphere has been rising by some 0.2 per cent a year for almost two decades. Again clearly, the rate by which carbon dioxide is being created both by human and natural sources exceeds the rate by which it is absorbed by plants and soil and the oceans.

What we don't know yet is whether this growing surplus of CO_2 in the atmosphere will create a "greenhouse effect" which, by blocking the radiation of the sun's rays back into space, will result in a worldwide rise in temperatures that in the ultimate extreme, could melt the ice caps and lead to flooding of the world's port cities.

In other words, when we talk about converting poisonous carbon monoxide from our cars into "harmless" carbon dioxide, we had best place quotations around the adjective.

This latest attempt by man to save the environment from himself, or from itself, is also another illustration of the human propensity for believing that every problem must have a solution.

The trouble is that not only do our solutions usually create new problems but that we so often leap to false conclusions because we misread the problem in the first place.

Congress in low esteem

The most recent Gallup poll on public rating of the jobs being done by Congress and President Nixon does not reflect the Mitchell-Stans acquittal nor the President's submission of tape transcripts. Even without that, the poll doesn't read well at all for the legislative branch.

Less than one third of all voters, 30 percent, approve of the way Congress is handling its job. President Nixon's rating equals his all-time low of 25 per cent.

Obviously, more Republicans (56 percent) low grade Congress, than do Democrats (38 percent). What is most significant, however, is the rating among independents.

According to Gallup, the independents went pretty much along with the Republicans in regard to Congress. An equal 56 percent disapproved, and only 27 percent approved, compared with the GOP figure of 23 percent.

That independent rating of Congress is especially meaningful since this is a Congressional election year, for independents have been a major factor in national elections for some time.

Did Bebe set up fund for Nixon?

WASHINGTON — Senate Watergate investigators have pieced together evidence, still strictly circumstantial, that Bebe Rebozo collected a slush fund for President Nixon's personal use.

Rebozo accepted both cash and checks in the President's behalf. Investigators have established that Rebozo deposited all the checks and the small, receipted cash donations in a special account in his Key Biscayne, Fla., bank. This money eventually was delivered, all properly recorded, to the President's campaign organization.

But curiously, the big cash contributions were never deposited in the special account and no record has been found that the money ever reached the campaign.

There is no proof, of course, that any of the cash wound up in the President's pocket. But the circumstances are so suspicious that they require an airing. Here are the available facts:

—Three years ago, a troubled White House source told us Rebozo was collecting cash contributions as "walking around money" for the President. The source said that no written records were kept but that the President sometimes would acknowledge the contributions by telephoning the donors.

—We were able to trace only $100,000, which billionaire Howard Hughes had skimmed off his Las Vegas gambling operations for Nixon. It was delivered in two $50,000 bundles to the President's estates in San Clemente, and Key Biscayne.

—Our Aug. 6, 1971, column about the $100,000 Hughes gift led eventually to investigations by the Senate Watergate Committee, Internal Revenue Service and special prosecutors. Under questioning, Rebozo swore grimly that he had kept the money in a safe deposit box for three years and had never mentioned it to the President.

—This was disputed by our White House source who said the President, as a generous gesture, had invited Rebozo to keep some of the Hughes' money and to distribute the rest to the President secretary, Rose Mary Woods, and brothers, Donald and Edward.

—They categorically denied receiving any part of the $100,000. Since we lacked the subpoena power to get the proof, we offered our information to the Senate Watergate investigators. We suggested witnesses to call and questions to ask.

—Our White House source told us, for instance, that the President had sent Rebozo to his personal attorney, Herbert Kalmbach, for legal advice. Kalmbach was finally compelled, under threat of contempt, to testify about his conversation with Rebozo. Kalmbach acknowledged that Rebozo had told him about distributing the money to the President's secretary and brothers.

—Meanwhile, we were investigating another sizeable cash contribution, which Rebozo received from J. E. and A. D. Davis, the founders of the Winn-Dixie supermarket chain. Although we were told the amount exceeded $50,000, we could pin down only $10,000. Through an intermediary, Rebozo admitted accepting the $10,000 we could prove but denied receiving any additional cash from the Davis brothers.

—We wrote up the $10,000 cash gift on Jan. 23, 1974, but advised Senate investigators that the amount was higher. When they questioned Rebozo about our column, he admitted collecting an additional $50,000 from A. D. Davis. Rebozo claimed he delivered the money to Fred LaRue, a Nixon campaign official, who swore he never got it.

—In contrast to the strange lack of any record of the Hughes and Davis cash contributions, we had little trouble tracing campaign checks that Rebozo handled. For instance, Jay Kislak and Alec Courtelis, partners in Atlantic Investors of Miami, gave Rebozo a check for $10,000 for the Nixon campaign. The contribution was faithfully recorded and delivered. Rebozo also deposited other checks and small cash contributions in a special campaign account.

—The White House had taken extraordinary steps to hide the Nixon-Hughes connection. When the White House learned that his bumbling brother, Donald, was consorting with Hughes aides, an alarmed President Nixon had his brother tapped and tailed.

—The White House also discovered that Larry O'Brien, when he was the Democratic National Chairman, had ties to the Hughes organization. This caused panic inside the White House that O'Brien might find out about the $100,000 Hughes gift to Nixon. H. R. Haldeman, then the White House staff chief, ordered an undercover investigation to find out how close O'Brien was to the Hughes heirarchy. This was followed by the Watergate taps on O'Brien's telephone. Some Senate investigators believe one reason for the Watergate break-in was to monitor O'Brien's contacts with Hughes. The Watergate crew also planned to burglarize Las Vegas publisher Hank Greenspun's safe, which contained some explosive Howard Hughes papers.

—On Oct. 18, 1973, President Nixon direcected his new staff chief, Alexander Haig, Jr., to complain to Attorney General Elliot Richardson about Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox's investigation of Rebozo. Two days later, the President ordered Cox fired. Some investigators believe it was Cox's snooping into the Rebozo-Hughes-Nixon affair that caused the President to act. Now the President has forbidden Haig to testify about the incident before the Senate committee.

SPYING ON JANE: Two years ago, we began a series of exposes, based on FBI files, of the federal government's surveillance of prominent Americans. One of those being spied upon, we revealed, was antiwar activist Jane Fonda.

"The secret FBI file on actress Jane Fonda," we wrote, "would choke a hippopotamus." The sleuths had followed her to college campuses and military bases around the world, had confiscated and copied her personal address book under cover of a customs search, had obtained her confidential financial records and had faithfully recorded her conversations on national television. The transcripts were then stamped "Top Secret."

Jane Fonda asked us for her file and we gave it to her. She subsequently filed suit, naming 22 defendants, including President Nixon. The government has now responded with an admission of virtually all our accusations.

In addition, however, the Justice Department disclosed "that at various times during the period 1970-1971 some conversations of the plaintiff were incidentally intercepted and overhead during national security electronic surveillance directed at others . . ."

The wiretaps, the government lawyers stated, "were conducted without a prior judicial warrant" but were "authorized by the President . . ."

Gossip for today

Every 30 seconds someone in the United States has a heart attack. Seven hundred thousand of them will die this year — Since 1900, there have been over 2 million motor vehicle deaths in this country. — and yet, according to the demographic experts, we are suffering from a population explosion.

All of which leads me to wonder whether Homo sapiens is as smart as he is sometimes given credit for being. Look at it this way. — For every human being on earth, there are 300 million insects — and the bugs don't seem to be having any over population troubles.

One reason this country finds itself in such serious trouble at the present time is because virtually all of the aides, advisors, technical experts and legal experts — and assistant aides, advisors, technical experts and legal experts with whom the President surrounded himself, have been men. If he had only appointed more women to his advisory staff one thing is certain — there couldn't possibly have been any secrets to hide.

Claremont hoping to sell school sites

CLAREMONT — The school board will adopt resolutions calling for the sale of the district's Sage Avenue and Garey Avenue school sites Monday at 8:30 p.m. at Chaparral Elementary School.

In mid-March, the board received a geology report that the Sage Avenue site, south of Thompson Creek, sits astride a trace of the Cucamonga Fault, and decided to sell the 10-acre site.

The City Council Tuesday night decided it did not want to consider buying any more park sites, although the Sage Avenue site lies next to Higginbotham Park.

The district unsuccessfully tried to sell the 13.28-acre site at Garey Avenue and Dartmouth Street first in September 1972 and again in June 1973.

The board may set minimum bid figures on each piece of property and will open bids at its June 17 meeting.

In other actions, the board will honor Larry Elkin, a Claremont High School senior, who designed the winning entry in the district's logo contest.

The board will receive a report on the 1971-72 and 1972-1973 state-mandated tests, and hear Supt. R. S. Kirkendall report on meetings he has held with the teachers group.

Tickets may be purchased at $2.95 per person at the Covina Valley Board of Realtors or Azusa-Glendora Board of Realtors offices. For more information, persons may phone Janice I. Kunkle at (213) 335-7141.

TEACHER INVITATION TO ALL POMONA UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT PARENTS
VISIT YOUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS!

Please take advantage of the opportunity to visit your schools during the time period of May 22 - June 3 during the instructional day and view for yourself how effectively YOUR schools are being run. We are making available a checklist of items to look for, so that instead of just visiting classrooms, you will have an opportunity to examine them.

This checklist was prepared by the Associated Pomona Teachers on behalf of its 810 teacher members. We believe the better informed you are, the better the future of your schools.

Del Pfeifer, Executive Director
Associated Pomona Teachers

Please cut out the attached questions. After you have had an inside look, mail the results to us. We'd like to know how you feel about your schools.

If you have any questions, please call the Association Office, 629-6123, or visit us at Suite 630, 300 South Park Avenue, Pomona, 91766.

THANK YOU FOR YOUR SUPPORT

Oil company officials warn drivers lines at service stations may return

Oil company officials are warning that if Americans keep using gasoline as extravagantly as they have in recent weeks it will be back to the old line-up at the service station.

"Anyone on the road today can see what is happening," said D.H. Bower, director of marketing for Standard Oil Company of California. "The wonderful effort of people generally to cut down on demand is going by the boards now that the embargo is lifted."

Bower warned that, although there are few service station lines now, the over-all quantity of gasoline available is going to be less than the demand for the forseeable future.

"It's a tough one to handle," he said in an interview. "How do you convince the public that they are going to have to keep the 'conservation ethic' without getting back to the extreme situation that we had?

Makes about face

"But, believe me, a long term tight situation is really with us, and unless we conserve, we will be right back with the gasoline lines."

Standard executives concede that until the Arab embargo they themselves were not thinking shortage.

"We were a little late in discovering how much demand was increasing," said Eneas D. Kane, research director. "A year ago we found that demand was up 6 per cent. It had been running with a 3 to 4 per cent annual increase."

The company says its policy has made a 180-degree turn — from promoting consumption to promoting conservation of gasoline.

It has also undertaken a huge refinery building program to increase output. Officials note that, no matter how much oil is available, the quantity of gasoline is limited by refnery capacity and the refineries are now running at full speed.

Present cost normal

Bower says he doubts that supply-demand economics will do the job. "Theoretically it is possible that the price could rise to the point where demand leveled off. But I don't know where that level is. In Europe and some Asian countries, the rate of price increases has been larger than here. The price is double what it is here and there is still the demand."

Although gasoline price increases have sent Standard's profits skyrocketing, the company does not feel the price is out of line.

"If you go back 10 years and compare the price, you see the present cost of gasoline, compared to other commodities, is normal, mainly because for the first eight years of that 10-year period it was very depressed," said Bower.

Keep engine tuned

Changing from a "consumption" policy to a "conservation" policy has involved widespread adjustments at the oil company. Marketing people who had been taught that success was selling more of the product had to be retrained to the idea that success is getting customers to hold their needs to last years level.

"We will not take on new business that makes us furnish lesser amounts to our present customers," said Bower. "Our sales representatives are sitting down with customers, teaching them what they can do to stretch whatever gallons they get."

Standard has prepared a list of tips for consumers on how to get more miles per gallon. Basically, the advice is to keep your engine tuned, drive at moderate speeds (most cars give four more miles per gallon at 50 mph than at 70 mph), and plan trips intelligently.

To show that it is 100 per cent behind energy conservation in all respects, the company has cut down on lighting and lowered the thermostats at its offices and plants. Last week the government awarded Standard a citation for saving energy under the "business and industry Energy Management Program" of President Nixon.

She's being too pushy

CONFUSION: (Q) James and I broke up in March. He said he still loved me but was confused. I felt confused last year but am not now. I know what I want and I know I could help him if he would let me.

He will be 18 next month, and wants to leave town. The only place he has to go is into the service. What can I do to get him back and straighten his head? — Help Needed in Connecticut.

(A). You seem to want to push James into action Don't. He has a lot of thinking to do. Let him think for himself. Be understanding and sympathetic, and if he asks for your opinion give it. But do not try to impose your opinion on him. That would be the best way to lose him altogether.

DRINKER: (Q). Cynthia is 18 and has been drinking heavily since she was 14. I am her girl friend and want her to stop. Very much. Please tell me what to do. — Discouraged in Florida

(A). You want Cynthia to stop, but she will not stop until she herself wants to. If she could become deeply interested in something that would be more important than drinking she might stop.

This something might be a boy, a job, a college education, art, music, religion, helping others — the list of possibilities is infinite.

Rather than preach to her about not drinking, encourage her positively toward interests that may lead her away from it. This won't be easy. Don't expect a miracle.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will find more enjoyment in less-active pursuits than you will in doing something that requires a lot of moving around.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Some time should be taken to clear up a serious matter that calls for discussion. Talk now with the other concerned party.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There's something that you need assistance with at this time. Your best bet for getting this help is from someone older.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be sure the course you set the next few days is practical and within reach. A reliable acquaintance will aid you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're in a cycle where a little extra push is all you need to put yourself out front. Have clear-cut goals. Be persistant.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your present outlook regarding something you've been mulling over is on target. Follow through in the way you now view this situation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Involvements where you share material interests should be given full attention. Worthwhile gains will come of it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Rembember a not-too-distant experience and how it finally worked out when you are asked to make a decision today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If that old waistline is getting a little larger than you'd like, this is a good time to begin a sensible exercise program.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Keep a watchful eye and a firm grip on youngsters in your charge today. It is for their own good.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There are certain things that need your touch around the home. You won't be at ease until you get them done.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There's a duty call you should make today to someone older. If you can't visit personally, at least give her a call.

Bay Area 'private eye' grosses $300,000 yearly

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Hal Lipset, who bills himself as the nation's "Number One" private investigator, lives in the city that was the stomping grounds of Sam Spade.

But that's about all the two have in common.

Spade, the Dashiell Hammet character of the 1930s who became immortalized on the screen by Humphrey Bogart in "The Maltese Falcon," was a tight-lipped tough guy with "iron" in his shoulder holster.

On the few occasions Lipset wears a shoulder holster he's packing a "bugging" device instead of a gun.

Some might dispute the 54-year-old Lipset's claim to being the nation's top private detective but it certainly wouldn't be movie director Francis Ford Coppola. When Coppola wanted a technical expert for his current hit, "The Conversation," he went literally knocking on Lipset's door.

Lipset has a lot of people working for him in a business he said grosses about $300,000 a year.

"We handle about 500 cases each year with a staff of four other detectives and a part-time electronics engineer as well as others, such as secretaries."

Lipset says he also draws on a pool of people who like to "play detective."

Lipset, a widower with two grown sons, served in 1973 as a special consultant to the Senate Watergate Committee.

The Watergate scandal has left a mark on his business, Lipset said.

"Since the scandal, we've been getting a lot of calls to debug places. Most of the requests have come from businessmen and politicians."

In fact, little of Lipset's work involves the planting of microphones or listening in on telephone conversations.

"As of 1967 in California, taping conversations was against the law unless both parties consented," he said.

"I see nothing wrong with one or both parties recording a call. It's one pretty sure way of avoiding a misunderstanding."

The police, he said, have few barriers in eavesdropping—but not the suspect.

"About 80 per cent of my work is for the defense, even though most of the headlines I gain are working with the police."

And there have been some big headlines in Lipset's career.

One of his biggest fees was $20,000 for the recovery of $200,000 in jewels stolen from Shreve & Co., a big San Francisco jewelry firm.

That "caper" had all the hallmarks of a movie private eye yarn, complete with a beautiful woman and an international chase.

But such adventures are few and far between for Lipset, who got his start as an Army investigator in World War II.

"Since the 1967 law, most of my work has been hard, time-consuming investigative stuff and I guess, in that way, I'm sort of like Spade."

Lipset says he's a fan of Spade and helped to erect a plaque at the San Francisco alley that was the scene of the shooting of Spade's partner in "The Maltese Falcon."

Society geared to two children

By ERMA BOMBECK

Since 1968, there has been a dramatic decrease in big families. Today 48 per cent say 2.1 children is the ideal family.

Where does that leave me? Somewhere between the propagation of the faith, the population explosion and 1.1 surplus kid at my dinner table.

And don't think I haven't paid dearly for my 1.1 overflow. To begin with, he fouled up the family vote. We used to vote even, at two-all, which left some room for persuasion. Since he arrived, my husband and I haven't won a decision in 15 years. Whether it is a vote on a vacation site, what TV show we are going to watch, or whether or not parents are to be impeaches, the vote is always the same: Kids, 3—Parents, 2.

I am not being dramatic when I say this is a two-child-geared society. If the Good Lord had meant for people to have more than two children, he would have put more than two windows in the back seat of the car. We once threatened to put one on the front fender and the other two cried because they each wanted one.

A popsicle can only be divided two ways. There are two pairs of shoelaces in a package, so that one child always goes around with gym shoes that flop off his feet when he walks. There are only four chairs to a dinette set (so that one never matches) and four breakfast sweet rolls to a package.

We always had one too many for a rowboat, and when we rode the Ferris wheel, it was two to a seat and the odd one always rode alone like an only child.

Few people realize this, but did you know that a No. 2 can of fruit cocktail contains only two maraschino cherries? This means when you divide two maraschino cherries between three children, two are appy and te other one runs right out and retains F. Lee Baily to fight a cherry custody suit.

Chores are geared toward twos—one washes dishes and the other dries, but what does the third child do? He becomes a useless bum and grows up to steal hubcaps.

Bunk beds come in twos. There are two sinks to a bathroom, two Hostess Twinkies to a package and free circus tickets come in pairs.

I mentioned this to the kids the other night and half-kiddingly said, "You know what this means, don't you? One of you has to go. Just for kicks, let's take a vote on it."

When the votes were counted, it was 4-1. I had been phased out of the family.

Somehow, I expected more from a full-grown man who has his own car window.

BEAVERTON, Ore. (UPI) — Those cops and robber shows each night on television aren't inspiring every young boy to become the next chief of police.

In fact, one suburban police chief, Don Newell of Beaverton, blames the near doubling of burglaries in his city on television and drug addicts.

Burglars are following people from the city to the suburbs, and police chiefs in neighborhing Portland suburbs, while not quite as vocal as Newell, admit residential burglaries are skyrocketing.

Newell uses the robbery of the Beaverton branch of the First National Bank of Oregon as an example of television's impact. He said in the robbery four persons rushed through the door of the bank, brandishing weapons, and then two jumped over the tellers' windows before escaping in a waiting car.

"Two weeks prior to the robbery, there was a police movie showing a bank robbery," Newell said. "Witnesses' descriptions of the robbery were just like watching the movie all over again."

"I am not criticizing television," he said. "But someone should look at that kind of programming. Our information is based on interviews with the kids we've apprehended and represents a consensus of our officers."

Newell said burglaries jumped 65 per cent to 213 reported cases in 1973, compared to 1972. He said that represented a property loss of 260,679 and that most were daylight residential jobs.

In Tigard, Chief Bob Adams reports burglaries last year were up 76 per cent to 156 and Oregon City Chief Bob Chester said burglaries numbered 222 in 1973, an increase of 80 per cent.

"The would-be burglar knows these homes are very vulnerabl," said Adams. "The community is really feeling the impact of it. The hardcore addict is hurting us quite a bit because od the frequency of his burglaries."

Chief Chester uses the example of the addict who robbed an Oregon City home of $1,200 worth of goods and then sold the booty for $40. Most of the goods, he said, are dumped in Portland, much sold "to a guy ready to buy good merchandise damn cheap."

Chester agrees with Newell on the impact of television, especially on the young, wouldbe burglar.

"It does influence the young burglar," he said. "He sees the shows and picks up a few ideas."

Newell said they recently arrested six juveniles for a Beaverton burglary.

"They got the idea on how to commit the thefts by watching television," he said. "There is a pattern."

He said as much as he enjoys the current rash of police television programs, writers are accurately depicting how to pull off the residential theft.

"It's like an instructional school. They're giving these types of ideas to young people, or anyone else wanting to commit a crime. Then they just pick out a neighborhood."

"The sophisticaton of the burglary sometimes throws our suspicion to the professionals, when in fact, they are kids," Newell said. "They are in there clean, wearing gloves, this type of thing."

What burglars are after, he said, are guns, silver, coin collections, television sets, stereos, "anything they can pack and fence."

"We've had instances where a whole house has been moved out," Newell said.

All three police chiefs said they are trying to foil the burglar by going into the neighborhoods and stressing prevention by the homeowner.

Police are also having more contact with blubs and service organizations, stressing their identification engraving program and other deterrents.

Massive patrols by police through the suburbs have proven not to be the answer, he said, because "good law enforcement doesn't mean a policeman on every block."

DECORATING THE BOXES

Mrs. William Abbott, hospitality chairman for the Curtain Raisers, and Mrs. Leo Clarke of the board of directors get assistance from Wes Massey, custodian at Garrison Theater in Claremont as they prepare lunch boxes for the luncheon with members of cast and crew of American Conservatory Theater to be held Tuesday following the Curtain Raisers' election of officers.

At Garrison Theater

Curtain Raisers schedule party

Plans are complete and Garrison Theater in Claremont is all ready for the luncheon and party which Curtain Raisers will hold Tuesday in honor of the cast and crew of the American Conservatory Theater.

The beautiful tapestries created by Jean and Arthur Ames, which hang in the foyer of the theater, have been taken down and rehung more securely.

Officers will be elected during the 10 a.m. meeting preceding the box luncheon. Bill Ball, general director of ACT, of San Franciso, will talk about the repertory company and will introduce the actors.

Mr. Ball will be directing the company in two plays, "The Taming of the Shrew" and "The Cherry Orchard" beginning Monday at the Garrison Theater.

Mrs. William Abbott is hospitality chairman for the event.

Curtain Raisers, founded in 1963 to secure equipment for the theater, have had a busy and productive year. In the fall, many members of the organization, along with others from the community, attended an evening at the Ahmanson Theater in Los Angeles for "Cyrano de Bergerac."

The $1,450 earned from the Alfred Hitchcock Film Festival will be used for equipment for the theater. A piano has already been purchased for the upstairs practice room.

Equal Rights

Home.front should have change

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's time for an equal rights amendment on the home front. I'd even lead a bra burning demonstration for it if I thought such an auction would help.

For what is happening in our society is that women increasingly are holding two jobs —the one of homemaker, usually a mother, too, and one outside the home.

But what society forgets is that it takes a Superwoman to do both with competence without becoming a jangle of nerves and a basket case from fatigue.

Look at the statistics. The Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor says there are 34.5 million women in the labor force. Of that number, 58 per cent are married with husband present, 23 per cent single, and 19 per cent widowed, divorced or separated.

Thirteen million have children under age 18, and 4.8 million with children under 6.

The dual role is difficult enough when there are no children still in the nest. But I feel like marching the most for those who do a darned conscientious job at office or wherever, bring home a big chunk of the family paycheck, get along without part-time help, clean the house, wipe noses, tie shoelaces, plan the family meals, shop, cook, pack school lunches, dunk the clothes into the washer and dryer, read bedtime stories, kiss away the pain of a mashed finger, pick up dad's clothes where he's dropped them, and hears a hundred times a day, "As long as you're up, dear, would you...."

Well, I could go on. But just keep a calendar on what you, the working mother and-or wife, do and you get what I mean.

So it is that a publication of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. called "Mothers at Work" is welcome.

The booklet doesn't say so flatly, but it spells out one of the first actions to take: Retrain husband and children.

There is nothing demeaning in our times with a man shopping, doing some of the cooking, running the vacuum.

Children should be given work responsibilities if old enough to take a hand —"Even a young child can (do things) like setting the table, dusting, picking up toys, putting away clothes," says the publication.

Don't make so many assignments (there, even that is your job, you see) that there is no time left for fun and other interests. Some families arrive at a share-the-work plan in a kind of family conference where everybody has a say in who does what.

"Again this points up the need for community and child care centers where the family life can be extended and strengthened by group experiences...", is a point the publication makes.

It offers some shortcuts which may adapt to your family. Written schedules, for instance, although you don't want to program your home like a computer.

Plan menus ahead and when possible buy for the whole week. Quick-fix meals are an answer to some rushed days. Cook ahead and use your freezer.

Now and then close your eyes to a little dust and disorder, so you can take it easy for a bit. Your health and relaxation are important too!

Booklet on ecology aids Scouts

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — What makes noise amounting to one quadrillion decibels?

And what makes noise measuring just 20 decibels?

Well, if you know a Girl Scout chances are you can get some help with the questions. That is, if the scout has thumbed through Eco-Antics, a fact-packed bootklet on all manner of things ecological. The book aims to help six to 10 year olds investigate their surroundings.

The decibel questions are in a section on noise. And the answers. It's a jet, for example, that makes one quadrillion decibels. On takeoff. And it's a songbird that fills the air with 20 decibels.

The point of all this, as the young scouts learn, is that anything sounding over 90 decibels can hurt the ears.

The booklet from the Girl Scouts od the U.S.A. also describes how one can teach a goldfish to "read" by holding up a card that says "come to the surface." The fish actually do after a few days of training.

There also is the modus operandi on how to catch and preserve a snowflake and how to spy on a fly.

The booklet contains simple experiments that children can do to test air pollution, both indoors and outdoors. Using such everyday items as old nylons, rulers, and rubber bands, they can see for themselves where the air is dirtiest in their vicinity.

"Eco-Antics" has numerous other how-to's, all employing items readily available in the home or easily found outside. From learning how to make their own recycled paper, to indoor garbage gardening, to exploring a tiny jungle, the book is full of ecology fun for youngsters.

Primarily written for Brownie and younger Junior Girl Scouts, Eco-Antics will appeal to any boy or girl in the six to 10 year age bracket. The projects described are designed for city, suburban and rural dwellers.

The principal aim is to stimulate youngsters to make discoveries for themselves about their environment.

The book is available at Girl Scout shops of local department stores around the country, or can be ordered by mail from Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., 830 Third Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. The price: $1.25.

About that fish trick. You hold the card next to the tank as you feed your fish. Take it away when the fish has finished eating. In a few days the fish will come to the surface when you hold the card near the fishtank.

And, oh yes, about that spying on a fly. You get a jar, punch holes in the lid with a nail so the fly can breathe. Then you catch a fly and put it in the jar.

Put in a little twig and leaf. Mix some sugar in water and give your fly one drop of sugar water a day. Watch it eat. Count the fly's legs. How are the fly's eyes and mouth different from yours?

BSP chapter installation conducted

Installed also were Mrs. Ray Walker Jr., vice president; Mrs. Mel Alexander, treasurer; Mrs. Lee Schwartz, recording secretary; Mrs. Ken Huber, corresponding secretary; Mrs. LaRue Cooke, Civil Awareness; and Mrs. Robert Moore, Foothill Area Council representatives.

Gems were presented to incoming officers and appointed chairmen and torchbearers.

Theme of Beta Sigma Phi for 1974-75 is "Stairway to Happiness" and Xi Theta Gamma, an exemplar chapter, will plan a yearbook of cultural programs.

Planning ahead

With springtime yard activity, hurried schedules of school activities, end of year school functions and the start of summer sports, it's hard to get the whole family to sit down for a leisurely meal. One good way to beat the spring scurry is to fix the meal ahead of time so that it can be served almost at a moment's notice.

Foothill Area Council installs new leaders

Mrs. Walter Hudson, Xi Gamma Kappa chapter, has been installed president of Foothill Area Council of Beta Sigma Phi.

Also seated at a cremony at Security Pacific Bank in Upland were Mmes. Richard Gilbert, vice president; Ray Walker Jr., recording secretary; Stephen Cawsey, corresponding secretary; Jim Salhoff, treasurer; and Frank Williams, awareness chairman.

Mrs. Robert Moore, immemediate past president, was installing officer. Foothill Area Council is a coordinating board made up of members of the eight local Beta Sigma Phi chapters.

MRS. WALTER HUDSON

Committee chairmen for the coming year are Mmes. Ron Douglas, publicity; Ed Richards, historian; David Ogle, scrapbook; Sherri Horton, directory; Jerry Hart, social; Lee Schawrtz, chapter chatter; Robert Hart, ways and means; Robert Moore, parliamentarian; and Ed Richards, delegate on the Inland Area Cystic Fibrosis and Respiratory Disease Center board. Mrs. Woodruff DeSilva will serve as sponsor.

Dr. Richard Dooley, chief of pediatrics at San Bernardino County Hospital and director of the Inland Area Cystic Fibrosis and Respiratory Disease Center in San Bernardino, was the speaker. Cystic Fibrosis is the major philanthropy of Beta Sigma Phi of California. Checks were presented to the San Bernardino Center by chapters, Beta Alpha Theta, $50; Xi Gamma Kappa, $50; Rho Chi, $50; Xi Theta Gamma, $200; Xi Zeta Gamma, $50; and Preceptor Upsilon, $100.

Hair care

Don't use a plain uncoated rubber band to tie up your hair. The rubber will catch, causing the hair to break and tear. Use only coated elastic bands, plastic or metal clips. These give minimal hair damage.

Renews nap

The upholstery brush of your vacuum cleaner, combined with gentle suction, will renew nap on suedes and velvet garments; remove lint, dust or dried surfaces. Clean pockets and cuffs with a crevice tool.

Coal gasification plants planned for four corners

ALBUQUERQUE, NM (UPI) —Construction of a series of coal gasification plants in Northwestern New Mexico should begin early next year, provided the companies can obtain permits from federal, state and Navajo tribal officials.

"It's a time consuming phase," said Joseph Byrne of WESCO, one of two companies which seek approval to build the plants. "We want to be sure that we comply with all the requirements, but we would like to see the process streamlined."

WESCO, a joint venture of the Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. of Houston and the Pacific Lighting Corp. of Los Angeles, still needs five separate approvals before it can start construction, Byrne said.

The other firm which has filed applications to construct the coal conversion plants, El Paso Natural Gas Co. (EPNG), could start work on a pilot plant this year if it receives federal approval, but Doug Meed of EPNG's public relations office said construction on the major plant won't start before the spring of 1975.

Plan four plants

"It's a long, involved process with a large number of government agencies and it takes a considerable amount of time," Meed said. "We first got into hearings in September of 1972."

WESCO and EPNG plan to build their plants, which produce gas by heating coal under pressure, in the Burnham area of the Navajo Reservation, about 30-35 miles southwest of Farmington, N.M.

Byrne said WESCOs present applications are for one plant, costing about $447 million, but he said the company planned to eventually build four gasification plants in the area. EPNG plans to build two complexes at a cost of about $420 million each.

Meed said producing synthetic natural gas involves subjecting the coal "to a great deal of pressure and heat. You're actually cooking the coal rather than burning it.

Decision awaited

"What you get, in essence, is a methane gas which is compatible, when you finally finish the process, with the natural we run through our pipeline."

Both companies have made arrangements to mine the coal from the area where the plants are scheduled to be built and ship it through existing pipelines.

"We're in the process of trying to get all the approvals we need in hand," Byrne said. "We hope to have them all by the end of this year. If so, we will start construction early next year."

He said the company needed to complete leasing arrangements with the Navajo tribe which would encompass "employment agreements, lease payments and the environmental situation."

WESCO is also awaiting a decision from the Federal Power Commission (FPC) on its application for interstate sale of the gas produced at the plant, Byrne said, and Utah International, with which WESCO has a contract to purchase coal, has hearings pending before the New Mexico Coal Surfacemining Commission.

Gets two approvals

"The Salt Lake City office of the Bureau of Reclamation is preparing an environmental impact statement for the secretary of the interior which will address our plant and others in the area," Byrne said. "And we have to satisfy the State Environmental Improvement Agency that the plant will meet state (pollution) standards."

Meed said EPNG recently "got two (state) approvals relating to the development gasifier (pilot plant).

"We have approval of our (coal) mining plan from the Surfacemining Commission," he said, "and we have variances given to us by the EIA because in operating this plant, there is a possibility that we might slightly exceed emission standards."

Even if WESCO and EPNG are able to receive approval to build the plants from the various agencies without any hitches, it will be a few years before southwestern homes will be heated by gas produced from coal.

The estimated date for operation of the WESCO plant is late 1976 or sometime in 1977 while EPNG estimates that its first major plant won't be completed until the first part of 1978.

Auto execs looking ahead to 1980--and 1995, too

DETROIT (UPI) — While most Americans still don't know what the 1975-model cars will look like, automotive executives are lining up their plans for 1980 and even looking ahead to 1995.

Higher gasoline prices and the shift toward cars that are smaller, or get better gas mileage, are here to stay and will be a key factor in determining what cars in 1980 and 1995 will look like.

By 1980, smaller and lighter cars with new power sources and fuel-saving transmissions will be a fact. On-board computers will help control and diagnose engine problems before they are noticeable.

Twenty years from now, however, "will be a whole new ball game," said Fred G. Secrest, a Ford Motor Co., executive vice president who is one of the men charged with looking into a cloudy crystal ball and making the right decisions.

The auto industry still will be strong in 1995, Secrest predicted, because "it adapted to the energy challenge, developed new technology and people still will want the freedom and convenience of personal mobility."

Key to design

Energy conservation will be the "key" to automobile design and use from now on, Secrest said, because of the higher cost and potential shortage of fuel.

Some of the things that will affect the outlook for 1980 are the gasoline lines of the past few months, increased car pooling and greater use of public transit.

"I am convinced that automotive lifestyles in 1980 will look pretty familiar, even though a good many changes will have taken place," said Secrest, head of the Operations Staffs. "The challenge to the car industry is to design big cars that will get 20 miles per gallon, and little cars that will get 30 miles or more to the gallon."

Some of the changes in automotive design and technology that will help improve gas mileage substantially by 1980, according to Secrest, coud include:

Lightweight cars

—Lighter weight cars through more use of aluminum, plastics, high-strength steel, smaller engines and designs that provide a better ratio of usable space to overall size.

—Improved aerodynamics to reduce wind resistance and radial tires that provide between 6 and 9 per cent more gas mileage.

— Automatic transmissions with fluid torque converters that "lock up" in high gear, in order to provide high-gear fuel economy equal to that of manual transmissions. There also will be greater availability of manual transmissions with four or perhaps five speeds, with an overdrive top gear.

—Variable carburetors that adjust to provide the best fuel economy for specific speeds.

—New forms of the internal combustion engine to utilize fuel better. The rotary engine, Secrest said, will see only limited use "because of its inherently high fuel consumption."

New energy sources

These are some of the developments that look good for 1980. But shifts in energy sources and other unforeseen developments in the next five years could cause even more severe changes in the industry than have occurred in the past few months.

Not being able to forecast the immediate effects an energy crisis would have on car sales has cost the industry dearly this year and put more than 100,000 workers—one-seventh of the industry's work force—on indefinite layoff.

Industry executives are hoping they'll be able to forecast the changes a little better in the coming years.

Secrest isn't as explicit when he discusses "automotive lifestyles" in 1995 because too many things, unthought-of now, could happen.

He sees the use of solar power or energy from nuclear fusion to heat and light homes, stores and offices and run factories and railroads. That would free petroleum for cars, trucks and aircraft. The size, shape and power plant of automobiles probably will be new.

"Perhaps they will be powered by the 'external combustion' Stirling engine or by a gas turbine," the Ford executive said. "Electric power certainly is a possibility but it will probably be limited, at best, to specal-purpose, short-range vehicles for urban and suburban use.

"Steam, or Rankine cycle, engines will probably not be used because of excessive size, weight, complexity, cost and fuel consumption."

Secrest foresees automotive fuels coming from coal, shale and tar sands and maybe even wood alcohol on a commercial basis. Hydrogen power is a possibility, but Secrest doubts it can be packaged for volume car production by 1995.

Dividends adding up

By ROGER SPEAR

Q— I hold 70 shares of Sun Oil (NYSE) bought at $35 a share. The yield is below 3 per cent and I would like more income. Should I sell and buy savings bonds? —A.D.

A— Although the yield from cash dividends on Sun Oil is low, the company has distributed stock dividends of 5 per cent and 6 per cent annually for the past decade. In December you should have received 4 extra shares, plus cash in lieu of a fractional share. Thus, your total return exceeds that which is available from U.S. Savings Bonds. Interest rates up to 7½ per cent are being offered by savings banks on 4-year term deposits, which would suit your needs better.

Q— I should like to invest about $30,000 in short-term, high-yield bonds. Would you recommend a few yielding 10 per cent with 1975-1976 maturities? Also, I have $50,000 to invest in discount bonds maturing in 1980-1984, selling cheap with high yields. —E.A.

A— Three issues which meet your criteria of short-term, high-yield instruments are Mapco, Inc. 11s of 1975, Monogram Industries 10½s of 1975 and United Utilities 9¼s of 1975. All are rated BBB by Standard & Poor's and yield 9 per cent to 10.8 per cent currently. In each case, these securities trade somewhat above par on the New York Exchange. Interest and fixed charges are amply covered by current earnings.

Within the second category — discount bonds — the range is considerably wider. Allied Products 7s of 1984, trading in the mid-70s, are a small unrated issue, with good coverage, which yield 9.2 per cent currently and 10.9 per cent to maturity. A second, similar issue, Cabot, Cabot & Forbes 8½s of 1981, trades about 8 points below par to yield 9.2 per cent currently. Although unrated, earnings coverage on this $23 million note is 2.7x. J.C. Penney Financial has a 4½ per cent debenture due in 1984 yielding 6.5 per cent on a current basis. Because this A-rated issue is sharply discounted, the yield to maturity is a rich 9.2 per cent.The final discounted debenture is BBB-rated SCM 7¼s of 1988, yielding 8.3 per cent currently and 8.8 per cent to maturity.

Q — Since utility stocks like Consolidated Edison (NYSE) seem to be having difficulties, would you advise me whether the following should be sold: Baltimore Gas & Electric (NYSE), Columbia Gas & Electric (NYSE), Niagara Mohawk Power (NYSE), Potomac Electric (NYSE) and Washington Gas Light (MYSE)? — M.B.

A— The problems which beset Consolidated Edison have hurt other utility companies, but in many cases the damage has been less severe. Of the five companies you list, two are in relatively good shape: Columbia Gas and Potomac Electric. Both companies increased their dividend rates in the first quarter. Even on the higher rate, the payouts are in the manageable 60 per cent-65 per cent range.

Potomac generates more than half its power requirements with coal, although this can be boosted to 88 per cent, if necessary. Construction plans for the curent year call for $280 million in capital expenditures, to be financed 9 per cent through preferred stock, 21 per cent common stock, 29 per cent bonds with the remainder generated internally. The reaction in the price of Columbia Gas shares, which reported slightly lower first-quarter earnings, was not as severe as for other utilities after the Con. Edison dividend cut, reflecting CG's broader dividend coverage. A synthetic gas plant, which will add 5 per cent to supplies, is due to come on stream soon.

Baltimore Gas & Elec. meets about two-thirds its electric requirements by oilfired generators. The bulk of its $260 million 1974 capital spending needs will have to be raised externally. Furthermore, the regulatory climate is difficult. First-quarter earnings, of 29 per cent at 63 c per share, imply a 78 per cent rate on an annualized basis.

Niagara reported a 25 per cent drop in first-quarter results, despite a 17 per cent increase in revenues. Longer-term kwh. growth rate is projected at a modest 5.5 per cent. Wash. Gas, which supplies natural gas to Washington, DC., parts of Maryland and Virginia, reported substantially lower earnings in March on reduced revenues. After rate increases were denied in two of these areas, the company withdrew requests for the third area. Sell these latter three issues.

Stock prices fall sharply in slow week

By LEE MITGANG
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices fell sharply in sluggish trading on the New York Stock Exchange as investors were faced this week with further rises in the prime lending rate and a stream of unfavorable economic news.

The Dow Jones industrial average plunged 31.60 to 818.84. More than 27 points of that loss occurred in the final two sessions.

While the Dow indicated weakness in the blue chip sector of the market, the real trouble was, and has been since the beginning of the year, in the outskirts of the list. The less-publicized issues, with little if any institutional backing, have suffered from neglect for months.

Illustrating this, Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, a broad barometer, fell 3.26 to a 1974 low of 88.21. The NYSE index sank 1.73 to 46.56.

Virtually the entire list lost ground. Declines heavily outnumbered advances, 1,549 to 248, among the 1,974 issues traded. There were 649 new lows set, only 21 new highs.

Further demonstrating that the stock market is suffering not from heavy selling, but from lack of investor conviction, volume figures remained light. The week's sales totaled 59,369,720 shares, compared with 61,986,925 a week ago, and with 75,963,520 the year before.

While the decline this week reflected a mosaic of troubling economic developments, the key depressant remained climbing interest rates. On Friday, many major banks adopted a record 11 ½ per cent prime lending rate —that charged on loans to top-rated business borrowers.

This came as no surprise on Wall Street. The speed with which banks moved to that rate, however, was a deep disappointment to traders, since it showed the upward pressure on interest rates remains intense. In particular, business loan demand continued to climb.

Inflation, naturally, has been a factor in forcing interest rates to historic heights, and Wall Street received bad news on that front. The Commerce Department Friday reported inflation climbed at an annual rate of 11.5 per cent in the first quarter of the year.

The government also said the Gross National Produce declined at a revised 6.3 per cent annual rate in the first three months of 1974—the largest drop since the 1958 recession. Wall Street has been counting heavily on some sort of economic recovery in the second half of the year. Analysts felt the latest government figures make less probable that recovery.

New submarine killer nearly ready for use

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The S3A Viking, a sophisticated fusion of aircraft, computer and sensory systems, is airborne and nearly ready for its mission—destroying the best submaries of the '70s and the '80s.

The carrier-based submarine killer has been delivered here for pilot training, and it will go into service when fliers and aircraft carriers are ready.

"On station, surrounding the task force, it will be in position to detect and destroy submarines and surface targets and provide early warning of impending or actual missile launches against the force," the U.S. Navy said when it introduced the Viking in February.

As soon as the plane was delivered, fliers in Air Anti-submarine Warfare Squadron 41 began practice flights, taking off and landing at North Island Naval Air Station, the carrier base, in preparation for drill at sea.

"Flies nice"

"It really flies nice, said Lt. Jim Offutt, the squadrons pilot of NATOPS (Naval Air Training Operations and Procedures in Standardization).

"There's a lot of excess thrust. You've got as much power as you need to get out of any kind of situation, and it takes off and lands in relatively short distances."

The plane, crewed by four men, uses two turbofan engines for power. Its 68-foot wingspan can be folded to 29 feet for storage on shipboard.

The aircraft is equipped with an on-board digital computer, an array of submarine finding equipment and varied weapons.

The nerve center is a Univac general purpose digital computer linked to the Acoustic Data Processor (ADP), high-resolution radar, Magnetic Anomaly Detection (MAD) and infrared sensory equipment.

Electronically guided

The ADP picks up signals from special buoys which are dropped into the sea during missions to serve as reference points.

The radar reveals physical shapes on the water and in the air, the MAD is sensitive to the magnetic qualities of a ship or a submarine, and the infrared unit detects heat from ships, submarines and other sources.

The electronic eyes, ears and feelers enable the Viking, whether loitering at 160 knots or racing at its maximum cruising speed of 370 knots (600 miles an hour), to spot ships, submarines and aircraft miles away.

The data from the various sensory units is fed into the computer, and signals of interest are separated from normal background noise and flashed on display units in front of the flight officer who directs the subhunting mission.

On his instruction, the computer can assume control of the plane to put it into position—the right alignment, speed and altitude—to fire rockets, torpedoes, mines and other "destructors" at an enemy on or below the surface.

Airborne sea control

The system will give the Navy a "new dimension in airborne sea control," according to Lockheed-California Co., maker of the plane. It replaces S-2 trackers which have served as the main carrier-based antisubmarine warfare planes since 1959.

"The S-3A will solve the problems of the antisubmarine tactician who has previously been immersed in piles of charts and logs, who has had to twist numerous knobs and throw many switches, while simultaneously attempting to interpret incoming raw intelligence and formulate an effective tactical plan of action," Lockheed said.

"In the attack phase, the computer...selects and arms weapons, cues the pilot to turn on the master arming switch, calculates the release point and, unless overridden by the pilot, releases the weapon."

Watergate brings this author good fortune

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — There is at least one American who will profit from the seamy Watergate scandal.

The professor, a one-time employe of the Rockefeller Foundation, began his book in 1957 following the shocking reality that the Russians had grabbed the lead in the international space race by orbiting a satellite.

Since that cold winter at the University of Chicago, Hardin has slowly put together a 192-page recipe on how to change America's strict constitutional-type government to a form of parliamentary democracy.

The Watergate break-in, subsequent Senate hearings, court battles, conviction of high-ranking government officials and the sobering possibility of the impeachment of President Nixon have thrown a light of significance on his new book.

"We need a different orientation toward the presidency," Hardin said in an interview. "At present, the President is elected the nonpareil (unequaled excellence), the father, the leader, the magic helper, the incarnation of infallible goodness and wisdom of the people."

Hardin continued, "The major premise of our theory of representation is that the voice of the people is the voice of God.

"The people cannot govern and the President has become their surrogate. He personifies their political authority. And when he speaks from atop his pyramid of 40 million votes, with the bulk of the populace behind him, he is awe inspiring."

Under some of the reforms in Hardin's book are the eliminaton of the vice president, simultaneous terms of four years for Congress and the President, a guaranteed system where the President would have a majority in Congress, and the power of Congress to vote out the President.

Congressional candidates from both parties—a substantial number running at large and representing the entire country—would become the nominating conventions for presidential candidates, according to Hardin's formula.

The winning presidential candidate would be guaranteed a majority in Congress by giving his party a bonus of 100 seats in the House. Under the plan, the present Senate would have a role much like the British House of Lords.

The losing presidential candidate would be given a seat in the House of Representatives and would in effect become the leader of the opposition party.

Congress would call elections at least every four years. It could at any time have a vote of confidence for the President or convey their confidence in other ways.

Hardin feels impeachment under the present system is unworkable. Besides being unworkable, he said, "it is too time consuming and too destructive to the fabric of American politics.

"It would be much better to remove a leader by a vote of confidence," he said, noting that under his system President Nixon may have lost enough support over Watergate to lose his majority control of Congress.

"Under the system I have described," Hardin said, "the question as to the discharge of President Nixon would have been answered eight months ago."

Skunk needing home could be a good pet

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Cabbage, a 4-year-old skunk belongs to a friend of mine, is up for adoption. (She's leaving the country and can't carry Cabbage with her.) Question is, how good a pet does a 4-year-old skunk make? — G. McP.

Dear G. McP.: Cabbage could have a few good years left and skunks can make interesting, desirable pets. Your friend, if honest, could clue you in one Cabbage's idosyncrasies and bad habits, if any. State officials could tell you if Cabbage can legally be a pet in your state. Because of the very real danger of rabies (and other diseases potentially dangerous to humans) among wild skunks, some states consider the little stinkers personae non gratae as pets.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Why don't you tell everybody how to tie a cloth muzzle on a dog. Most people don't know how handy a muzzle can be when they're handling a dog which doesn't want to be. In our city, you have to have a dog muzzled to take him on the bus and lots of people walk just because they don't know how to make a muzzle. — C.S.

Dear C.S.: A muzzle, made from gauze or narrow strip of cloth, may be very convenient or, if improperly used, extremely dangerous. A muzzle must be applied snugly to be effective, yet far enough back from the nostrils so it does not interfere with nose breathing. Obviously, the muzzle cannot be used if the animal can't breathe through its nose. Nor can it be applied to a breed which doesn't have room for the muzzle (i.e., a Pekingese).

A dog panting hard from excitement or from being overheated should not be muzzled for it probably can't get enough air through the nose to supply ozygen requirements. Also, when muzzled, a dog who is already hot may quickly become so overheated he suffers a heat stroke. Muzzle an injured animal only when you're sure he can breath adquately with his mouth closed.

Applying an effective muzzle to an excited animal is usually not easy and hands applying the muzzle may be bitten before the job is done. The initial loop forming the muzzle should be tied over the bridge of the nose, then the ends brought down under the jaw to form a second knot. Then back (under the ears) and finally secured just behind the head at the top of the neck.

LEADING THE HERD

Little Current, with Miguel Rivera aboard, leads the Preakness field down the stretch Saturday in the 99th running of the Baltimore classic. Kentucky Derby winner Cannonade was third.

Little Current races to Preakness victory

BALTIMORE (UPI) — For a while it looked as though history would repeat itself and the long striding colt named Little Current just wouldn't have room to run. But a daredevil rider busted him through a hole on the rail and the 99th Preakness Stakes was over.

Two weeks ago at Churchill Downs, in the 100th running of the Kentucky Derby won by Cannonade, the horse wasn't as lucky. When he finally found room to stretch out in full stride, it was just too late. The sun of European champion Sea Bird closed like a thunderbolt but all that mighty effort did was carry him from the tail end of a field of 23 to fifth place.

This time things were different. He had a new rider, Miguel Rivera, who came here from Puerto Rico in 1967, but became homesick and returned to the island. A few years ago, urged by felow jockey and bosom pal Angel Cordero, he returned to the mainland and has been a top notch rider ever since. Only a few days ago, John W. Galbreath, owner of the Darby Dan Farm as well as the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball club, signed him on as contract rider.

There is one thing Rivera knows—the shortest way home in a short race around turns is along the rail. That was the route he took. It was a smart move and it paid off but only because the game little jockey had the nerve to stick to his game plan. For a while his cause looked hopeless with the finish line only a little more than an eighth of a mile away.

There just wasn't any place to go.

Little Current, just as he did in the Kentucky Derby, dropped back to last at the start. At Churchill Downs the only horse behind him was Flip Sal who broke down during the race. This time it was Bucks' Bid who broke badly from the starting gate and dumped jockey Don MacBeth. Then down the backstretch and around the final turn, Little Current started to "pick up horses." At the same time, Cannonade, the Kentucky Derby winner, made a bold bid for the second jewel in racing's Triple Crown. Cannonade circled around three horses to make his challenge for glory in the middle of the racetrack.

Kentucky Derby winner Cannonade, the favorite of the crowd of 54,911, charged past the early leaders halfway down the home stretch to take the lead. Little Current managed to be tucked behind a wall of horses. But there was a crack in the wall, a narrow opening along the rail.

Rivera headed Little Current for the crack. He lashed the colt savagely with his whip. With a tremendous burst of speed, Little Current was through the slight opening and on his way to victory.

With every stride he widened his lead and he streaked across the finish line seven lengths in front, one of the easiest winners in the long history of the Preakness and one of the fastest. Longshot Neopolitan Way finished second and Cannonade was third.

"I had a great horse and I never was worried about the inside," said Rivera. "It is the shortest way home and I never had any trouble on the rail all the way. At the eighth pole we were flying and they only hit him once. I want to thank Mr. Galbreath and to Angel Cordero who helped me get my job with him."

Only two horses ever won by wider margins—Survivor by 10 in the Inaugural running in 1873 and Buddhist by eight in 1889.

Cannonero holds the Preakness record of 1:54 for the 1 3-16 miles. Secretariat was officially timed in 1:54 2-5 a year ago and Little Current finished in 1:54 3-5, the third fastest running of the race.

Little Current picked up a winner's purse of $156,500 and gave owner Galbreath his first Preakness victory. Galbreath had won the Kentucky Derby twice with Chateaugay in 1963 and with Proud Clarion in 1967 but both were beaten in the Preakness.

Little Current, who had won the Evergiades Stakes at Hialeah but failed in the Flamingo and Blue Grass Stakes and the Kentucky Derby was almost ignored by the sundrenched crowd. He paid $28.20, $15.40 and $7.80 across the board.

Merenda's homer lights the fire

Leos rally to win title, 5-4

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

COMMERCE — La Verne College downed Whittier and won the NAIA District Three baseball playoffs, but it wasn't easy.

Clutch hitting by Hank Merenda, Nick Leyva, Eric Frazier and Jim Sherman gave the Leopards a come-from-behind, 5-4, win over battling Whittier Saturday at Quigley Park.

But the Poets (24-16) gave the Leos all they could handle. Long John Verhoeven had to put out the fire in the ninth inning. The game ended with two Whittier runs in, the tying run on third base and the winning run on first.

La Verne will carry a 31-6 record into the Area One playoffs at Lewiston, Idaho. The Leos have a bye in Thursday's opening round, but will play two games Friday.

The first game, at noon, pits the Leos against District One champion, Central Washington (20-8). After a 45-minute break, La Verne will come back and play District Two winner, Linfield, Ore. (22-10).

In the last of the fifth inning, Chino's Matt Pinto got a two-out single off Robb Mayhew. Randy Bisho lined a single to left, Pinto stopping at second. Dave Nyberg hit Mayhew's first pitch for a line single to center and Pinto was waved home. He appeared to have Art Sanchez' throw beaten, but missed the plate on his slide and was tagged out by catcher Don Snyder.

Nolan Ramirez doubled to the left centerfield fence to open the Whittier sixth. Willie Norman grounded out, Ramirez taking third. Ray Sheffield hit a high bouncer to third that Merenda jumped and grabbed with one hand. After looking Ramirez back to third, Merenda threw out Sheffield at first.

Rod Wilhelms took one strike. Mayhew went into a slow windup and Ramirez broke for the plate. Mayhew's throw to Snyder barely nipped Ramirez and a hot argument ensued but to no avail.

The Leos also turned over inning-ending double plays to get Mayhew out of possible trouble in the third and fourth innings.

Merenda hit Gary Odom's first pitch over the right field fence. Paul Flemming grounded out, but Mike Alonso was hit by a pitch. Dave Long ran for Alonso and was forced out at second by Wayne Redfearn.

Leyva hit a 1-2 pitch down the third base line for a double. Hines started to hold Redfearn at third, but when Wilhelms dropped the ball as he started to throw, Hines gave Redfearn the green light and he scored on the error to tie the game.

Rich Fielder singled to open the La Verne ninth and moved to second on Snyder's sacrifice. Frazier batted for Jeff O'Connor and doubled off the right field fence. Fielder, thinking the ball might be caught, had to wait until the ball hit, then was able to advance only to third.

Odom was taken out at this point and, you guessed it, Andy Castillo came in. Castillo had pitched 14 innings in two games Friday and was making his third straight appearance. As it turned out, it was once too often.

Merenda hit a bouncer toward first that Nyberg grabbed. But the first baseman's throw to the plate was wild. Fielder scored but Frazier was out at the plate, Merenda reaching base.

Courtney holds Colonial lead; Nicklaus moves up

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Chuck Courtney survived another blustery, humid afternoon Saturday to maintain his advantage after three rounds of the $250,000 Colonial National Golf tournament, but Jack Nicklaus fired one of only three sub-par rounds of the day to move within three shots of the lead.

Courtney, without a victory in the past five years, shot an even par 70 over the treacherous 7,142-yard par 70 Colonial Country Club course to finish 54 holes at three under 206.

Two strokes back was Wintu Indian Rod Curl, who shot 71 and was at 208.

Nicklaus, despite a shakey start, put together a one-under 69 and said he was pleased to be in the position he was.

"When I came here at the first of the week," Nicklaus said, "I thought because of the way I was playing that I might be going home after the second round. I've played this course a lot of times and I feel I know the course pretty well.

"I like the position of being a couple of shots back where I can make a charge and run by the leaders."

No other golfer was under par for three rounds in the PGA's first designated tournament.

Hale Irwin, who shot a 73, and Tom Weiskopf who shot 72, were tied for fourth place at even par 210. Julius Boros was a shot back at 211, having fired a 76.

The only rounds under par shot Saturday other than Nicklaus' 69 were 66s by Monty Kaser and Gary McCord, both of them well out of the running for the $50,000 first prize.

Courtney increased his lead from one to two shots with a 25-foot birdie putt on the final hole that hung on the lip for a moment and then fell in.

Nicklaus, meanwhile, had trouble at 18 for the second day in a row. On Friday, Nicklaus hit the lake to the left of No. 18 green and was lucky to make a bogey. Saturday his second shot from the right rough almost went into the lake again before stopping in tall grass. From there Nicklaus made another bogey.

Bomb threat

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — A bomb threat Saturday forced the evacuation of 300 golfers, reporters and spectators from the Colonial Country Club clubhouse at the completion of the third round of the $250,000 Colonial National Golf Tournament.

A male telephone caller reported at 4:40 p.m. that a bomb would go off at 5:10 p.m. The clubhouse was cleared and a police bomb squad searched the building without finding any explosives.

Ailing Dodgers ease the pain, 1-0

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Steve Garvey is fighting a migraine headache and Charlie Hough hasn't enjoyed much sleep in the past 24 hours but they made the Dodgers well Saturday afternoon.

Garvey lined a two-out single in the 13th inning to give the Dodgers an 1-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves with Hough picking up his fourth victory of the season in relief.

It was the climax of a brilliant pitching battle between the Dodgers' Andy Messersmith and Atlanta knuckleball artist Phil Niekro.

Messersmith allowed only four singles and two walks in his 10 innings of work while Niekro was just as tough in pitching a two-hitter through nine frames. Only Messersmith's outstanding pitching avoided the Dodgers from sustaining their first shutout loss of the campaign.

The first relief pitchers for both teams—the Dodgers' Mike Marshall [illegible] the shutout innings going but L.A. finally scored off of Lew Krausse in the 13th to get back on the win side after the Braves ended its nine-game victory string Friday night.

Davey Lopes opened the 13th by greeting Krausse with a single up the middle. He advanced to third on ground outs by Bill Buckner and Tom Paciorek and scored the winning run on Garvey's hit to right on the 1-1 pitch. Paciorek's hard grounder hit Krausse in the stomach. The pitcher recovered in time to throw the batter out but collapsed near the mound. After being revived, he was able to stay in the game.

"I've felt weak the past two days because of the migraine but I've tried to keep going," Garvey said. "I know I was bound to get a hit some time. The averages were on my side. It was a great pitching battle and it was frustrating not to score."

Garvey, who was 0-for-5 in the game, drove in his 32nd run of the season.

Hough, who won two games in relief last week in San Diego, picked up the victory after retiring three consecutive batters in the top of the 13th after walking pinch-hitter Hank Aaron on four pitches.

Hough was a very happy winner. A big reason for his smile was the birth early Saturday morning of his first child, a girl named Tracy Ann.

"Yes, I got myself a little girl softball player," Hough grinned. "I slept only an hour-and-a-half last night but I felt all right today. It will hit me later, I guess."

Aaron, who played in his 2,992nd game to tie Willie Mays on the all-time list, received a standing ovation from the 28,122 fans.

"When I heard the crowd yell, I knew No. 44 was coming up," Hough laughed. "I just kept telling myself the cheers were for me."

Hough was then booed when he walked Aaron. "I guess I was trying too hard to make good pitches to him," he explained. "It may have looked like was was walking him intentionally but I wasn't."

Buckner made another of his sensational catches in leftfield to open the 10th inning when he caught Frank Tepedino's drive near the fence. It saved the game as Johnny Oates followed with a single.

DODGER DATA — Don Sutton (6-2) will pitch for the Dodgers in today's 1:15 p.m. series finale against Atlanta's Buzz Capra (1-2) . . . The Cincinnati Reds [illegible] for 7:30 Wednesday . . . Only Ty Cobb (3,033) and Stan Musial (3,026) are ahead of Aaron in games played. Henry only needs 42 more to pass Cobb.

Carew, Twins rip Angels, 10-2

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — American League batting leader Rod Carew drove in three runs in a 17-hit Minnesota attack Saturday afternoon to highlight the Twins' 10-4 victory over the California Angels in the nationally-televised game.

The Twins broke a 1-1 tie with three runs in the second on singles by Luis Gomez, Larry Hisle, Carew and an error by California shortstop David Chalk.

Carew also drove another run with a single in the sixth and added his third rbi of the day on an infield out in the seventh.

A total of seven pitchers were used in the game and the teams combined for 30 hits, including four by California's Bobby Valentine and three each by Steve Braun and Gomez for Minnesota.

Righthander Ray Corbin picked up the win for the Twins after taking over for starter Dave Goltz in the second, who was hit by a line drive. Corbin is now 3-0. Angels' starter Bill Singer, who yielded 10 hits and six runs, was tagged with the loss, his fourth of the season.

Flyers feel pressure in Stanley Cup showdown

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Suddenly, the brunt of the pressure has fallen back on the happy-go-lucky Philadelphia Flyers in their continuing drama to become the first expansion team to win the Stanley Cup.

"If we don't win Sunday, we're in trouble," team Captain Bobby Clarke admitted Friday. "We had a chance to come away with everything last night and we didnt play much of a game. We're still in the driver's seat. They have to win in our building. But if we don't win Sunday..."

The confident Flyers fully expected to wrap it up Thursday night, but for the first time in the finals Boston exhibited its awesome attack to skate away with a 5-1 victory in a brawl-filled game. This still left Philadelphia with a 3-2 edge and with the home ice advantage for Sunday afternoons nationally televised sixth game.

But the Bruins, buoyed by their total effort in a do-or-die situation, were sounding more like they were the ones who stood only a single game shy of the Cup.

"Sunday will be one heckuva hockey game," said Ken Hodge, who contributed a goal to Boston's winning effort. "Theyll be in their building, up 3-2, with a chance to wrap it up before the home fans. You don't think there'll be a lot of pressure on them?"

"We had our backs against the wall and we were determined not to play cautious," Johnny Bucyk said. "But now the Flyers are the ones with their backs against the wall. The pressure is on them. They know if they lose at home Sunday they're really in trouble."

Coach Bep Guidolin had stated even before the game that the pressure would all be on the Flyers if Boston could win the fifth game. When it was over, he was even more certain.

"Were due to play a good game in Philly and it could be Sunday," he said. "If we do, it's all over for them. I understand they're taking the champagne back to Philadelphia with them. That's a waste. They can leave it here and we'll drink it Tuesday."

Troy shocks UCLA in track finals

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Without scoring a first place during the entire day, University of Southern California dethroned UCLA's Bruins by four points Saturday in the Pacific Eight track and field championships.

Beaten by the four-time NCAA defending champion Bruins in a dual meet on the same Coliseum track two weeks ago, the Trojans rolled up 134 ½ points to 130 ½ for UCLA. Oregon was a distant third with 94 points.

The turning point of the meet came in the 17th event—the 220 —when the Trojans had three men score for 11 points to none for the Bruins. That gave USC 121 ½ points to 112 ½ for UCLA.

Going into the final event of the day, the mile relay, USC had 126 ½ to 120 ½ for the Bruins. The Bruins won the mile relay for the seventh straight time and USC was second to clinch the Pac-8 title for the second time in three years.

Freshman Mike Shavers got a pair of seconds for the Trojans, finishing second in the 100 to Washington's Al Davis and runner-up to Gary Minor of Washington State in the 220 in 9.7 and 21.2. Davis and Minor had the same times.

Shavers also ran the leadoff leg in the Trojans' second-place 440 relay team, which was clocked in 40.1. Washington State, with four individual winners, finished fourth with 76 points while Oregon State, which also captured four events, was fifth with 64.

California was next with 53½ points, followed by Washington with 50 ½ and Stanford with 17.

"It was a long road back," said USC coach Vern Wolfe. "This feels better than two weeks ago, believe me. But I thought we could win it all along.

"We came on strong right at the end. The 220 turned it around, but it was a team victory. Every one counted."

Jim Bush, the UCLA coach whose teams had won four Pac-8 titles in five years, also singled out the 220 as the pivotal event.

"The 220 was the difference," said Bush. "We didn't get a point, and I thought we'd get about eight."

"USC also scored heavily in the 440 (2-3-4-5 for 20 points). But there's one more meet this season. That will be the rubber match."

Bush referred to the NCAA championships at the University of Texas June 6-8, when the Bruins go after their fifth straight national championship.

UCLA had five winners in the two-day competition. In addition to the Bruins' winning mile relay team, they had winners in Clarence Taylor (53-4-¾) in the triple jump, Roger Freberg (187-9) in the discus, Maxie Parks (46.4) in the 440, and Dave Schiller (61-10-¼) in the shot put.

The Trojans' only victory came Friday by Olympic long jump champion Randy Williams.

The Bruins were hurt when Benny Brown, last year's quarter-mile winner and second-place finisher in the 220, could not compete in the events because of a severe virus. Brown ran the anchor leg of UCLA's winning mile relay team Saturday but did not look sharp.

"I think this defeat will be a help for us in the NCAA meet," said Bush. "Our guys don't like to lose."

California's Rick Brown became only the second man in Pac-8 history to win an event four straight years when he captured the 880 in 1:48.1.

Washington State's John Ngeno, a sophomore from Kenya who won the six-mile run Friday, upset Oregon's Paul Geis in the three-mile. It was Geis' first defeat in an Oregon uniform.

Baird wins first night road race at OMS

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Correspondent

ONTARIO — Having confirmed the feasibility of night road racing in the huge facility, it is now left to the board of directors of Ontario Motor Speedway Operating Company to put together the big show.

An assortment of Gremlins, Colts, Hornets, Opels, and various other small racing cars saw their first California sunset Saturday evening in the final hour of pitch-black racing which raised visions of the "Twelve Hours of Ontario," as the three-hour B.F. Goodrich Challenge brought endurance racing to the local area.

It was all only there preliminary to this afternoon's four-hour Camel GT Challenge, which will end long before the sun goes down, featuring the large Porsche Carreras, Corvettes, and Camaros.

But the ultimate result of this weekend's activity at OMS might some day be a full-scale day-night road race, the likes of which has put Le-Mans and Sebring on the map.

For the record, Carson Baird, a 35-year old native of Laurel, Maryland, won the first-ever night race at Ontario in the number eight Dodge Colt, improving upon his second-place finish last weekend at Laguna Feca.

Baird, who ran out of gas heading for Victory Circle after the final lap, defeated the Gremlin of Howdy Holmes by 13 seconds.

The very fact that the race took place after sunset wound up playing a crucial role in the final results.

George Aldermans' Gremlin led most of the race — right up until it got dark enough to turn on the headlights.

Alderman turned on the lights and suddenly his engine acted up. A bad alternator proved the culprit, but the Alderman crew opted to replace the battery, a quicker and simpler operation than an alternator transplant.

The time Alderman spent in the pits allowed Baird, Holmes and others to slip past him.

From then on, it was strictly a question of whether the Holmes' Gremlin could make a run at the Baird Colt.

It couldn't and the rest, as they say, is history.

A full day of qualifying preceded the evening marathon.

Peter Gregg, 1973 Camel GT champion, captured the pole for today's main event in his Carrera with a top qualifying time of 1.55.699. Gregg, a 32-year old native of Jacksonville, Florida, qualifies as perhaps the best known driver on the circuit.

Gregg has no backup driver entered, but the number-two qualifier, another Carrera, has a two-man crew. Bill Webbe and Hurley Haywood will trade off driving chores for the entry which qualified at 1:59.150.

The first of the four hours of the GT challenge begins today at 1 p.m. The big sports cars are preceded by the tiny VW Super Vees in a 50-mile race at 11 a.m.

Spectator gates open at 8 am. and tickets are priced at $7 a piece.

Rather he plays or not

Bears will honor Butkus contract

CHICAGO (UPI) — Owner George Halas said Saturday his Chicago Bears will pay middle linebacker Dick Butkus' salary if he is unable to play "so long as he lives up to his obligation."

Butkus and the Bears have traded statements through their attorneys and news interviews in a dispute over Butkus' disabled knees, whether he should undergo surgery and the status of his contract should he be unable to play football following surgery.

Halas, in his first personal comment on the matter, issued a statement saying he had been advised by attorneys that the Bears would not be legally liable for Butkus' salary for the remaining four years of his contract if he does not play.

"However, because it is Dick Butkus, with all that he has meant to Chicago and the Bears, we have decided to pay Dick his contract price so long as he lives up to his obligatons," Halas said.

Halas acknowledged that medical opinions differ on whether Butkus who missed several practice sessions and games last season, would be able to return to the field after surgery.

Halas said the Bears would pay medical expenses for consultation and surgery and if Butkus was unable to play, the team would expect him to accept assignments that "would be 100 per cent football-related and would not be demeaning or distasteful or in an unfamiliar area."

The owner added, "there is nothing unreasonable in what we expect from Dick in return for our complete fulfillment of our contractual obligations."

Butkus had responded to a suggestion that he could serve the Bears as a "goodwill ambassador" if unable to play by saying "Dick Butkus, the linebacker, is not noted for his diplomatic talents."

He has accused the Bears of not giving him permission to undergo surgery last November at the Mayo Clinic, but the Bears' lawyer, Don Reuben, said the decision not to undergo surgery then was made by Butkus.

Halas urged Butkus to "keep his hopes alive and close his ears to gloomy prophets who say: 'the game's all over.'"

"He has youth and a bursting competitive instinct going for him," the Bears owner said of Butkus. "How can anyone say this man will never play again. That's not the Dick Butkus I know."

Ex-owner Topping ill

By MARK SCHEINBAUM

MIAMI (UPI) — Former New York Yankees' owner Dan Topping was listed in serious condition Sunday in the coronary care unit of the Miami Heart Institute, after developing breathing difficulty midday Saturday.

Hospital officials were reluctant to discuss the 63-year-old Miami Beach resident's condition but confirmed that he was gravely ill when admitted. The hospital referred all inquiries to Topping's physician, Dr. Solomon Kann, who was not immediately available for comment.

The ambulance service which picked up Topping said they responded to a call at 11:04 a.m. Saturday at a home on Miami's fashionable Pine Tree Drive.

"He had a history of enphysema and was inside a private residence where we administered oxygen," said a spokesman for the ambulance service.

Although only a few blocks from St. Francis Hospital, Topping was rushed to the prestigious Heart Institute not far away and placed in the coronary care unit, the equivalent of intensive care.

A nursing supervisor told UPI that he had improved to "serious" from his "critical" condition when admitted.

S.D.'s Balious sets 440 mark

VALENCIA — San Dimas High's Mike Balious set a new frosh-soph record in the 440-yard run Saturday night in the CIF 2-A track and field finals at Valencia High.

Bailous clocked 51.4, bettering the old mark of 52-flat, to win the event.

One other first place was turned in by Ontario's Jerald Burleson, who threw the shot 54-feet, 7 inches to win the frosh-soph division in the event.

Pearson wins pole for M-D 500

DOVER, Del. (UPI) — Defending champion David Pearson sizzled to a track record Saturday to capture the pole position for this weekend's $92,000 Mason-Dixon 500 NASCAR race.

Pearson, of Spartansburg, S.C., pushed his Mercury to a record of 134.403 miles per hour, breaking the track record he set last September over the one-mile oval track. Pearson is bidding for his fourth straight win at Dover Downs, where he captured both 500 mile events in 1973 and the September 1972 Delaware 500.

Vying for the $15,500 first place purse on the 450 mile course Sunday, shortened because of the fuel shortage, will be veteran Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., who drove his Dodge to 132.367 mph to place second in Saturday's qualifying round.

1. David Pearson, Spartansburg, S.C. 134.403 Mercury
2. Richard Petty, Randalman, N.C. 132.367 Dodge
3. Cale Yarborough, Timmonsville, S.C. 132.352 Chevy
4. Bobby Allison, Hueytown, Ala. 132.134 Chevy
5. Benny Parsons, Ellerby, N.C. 131.023 Chevy
6. Donnie Allison, Hueytown, Ala. 130.956 Chevy
7. Darrell Waltrip, Nashville, Tenn. 130.923 Chevy
8. Ramo Stott, Keok, Iowa 130.095 Chevy
9. Lennie Pond, Petersburg, Va. 129.799 Chevy
10. George Follmer, Arcadia, Calif. 129.753 Ford.

Foyt assured of Indy pole

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — A.J. Foyt captured the pole position Saturday for the Indianapolis 500 without stepping into his race car when none of the eligible drivers managed to beat his average speed of a week ago.

After the first nine cars had qualified Saturday, bringing the field to 24 and leaving nine positions open, a downpour pelted the two-and-a-half mile oval.

More than a dozen cars were lined up at the time, ready to try to qualify. If they were unable to bid for starting positions, the time trials were expected to be extended to Sunday.

Saturday was the second and final scheduled day of qualifications.

Fifteen cars qualified last Saturday and three-time race winner Foyt was the fastest at an average speed of 191.632 miles per hour. However, most of last week's scheduled seven-hour qualifying period was washed out by storms.

Mike Hiss of Tustin, Calif., a former "rookie of the year," was the fastest of the first nine qualifiers Saturday at an average speed of 187.490 mph, to claim the outside position in the first row for the million dollar classic next Sunday.

Major League roundup

Cater paces Bosox past Baltimore

By United Press International

Danny Cater drove home four runs with a double, a sacrifice fly and a two-run single Saturday to spark the Boston Red Sox over the Baltimore Orioles, 10-2, thanks to a six-run seventh inning.

Cater doubled home Boston's first run in the second inning and hit a sacrifice fly as the Sox chased starter Ross Grimsley and reliever Bob Reynolds in the seventh inning with a seven-hit parade before Jesse Jefferson came on to quell the uprising.

Cater also added a two-run single in the ninth for the final Boston runs and Luis Tiant went the distance to record his third win against five losses.

In other games, Milwaukee downed New York 5-2, Detroit nipped Cleveland 3-2, Minnesota routed California 10-4.

Dave May and Johnny Briggs hit home runs to power the Milwaukee Brewers to a victory over the New York Yankees. Kevin Kobel, 20-year old rookie lefthander, needed help from Tom Murphy in the eighth before picking up his second major league win, both over the Yankees.

John Knox singled home Eddie Brinkman with the winning run in the seventh inning and Mickey Lolich picked up his third victory by tossing a five-hitter to pace Detroit's victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Jon Matlack pitched a four-hit shutout and Rusty Staub drove in a pair of runs to lead the Mets to past Montreal.

It was the Mets' seventh win in their last nine games and moved them to within one game of the third place Montreal who have lost 12 of their last 17.

Matlack struck out nine and walked four in boosting his record to 5-1. He was making his first start since May 8 after pulling a muscle in his left leg.

Mike Phillips, filling in at shortstop for the injured Chris Speier, hit a three-run homer in the bottom of the eighth inning to lift San Francisco over the Padres.

Garry Maddox started the eighth with a single but was thrown out trying to steal. Ed Goodson went out on an infield tap and then Gary Matthews kept things alive with a walk. Steve Ontiveros followed with a ground rule double and then Phillips lofted a towering shot that just cleared the rightfield fence for his first homer of the year.

Mike Schmidt belted a two-run homer and Del Unser followed several batters later with a three-run blast to cap a seven-run sixth inning uprising that carried Philadelphia to an easy victory over the Pirates.

Ron Schueler and loser Bob Moose, 1-5, were locked in a 1-1 duel when the Phillies rallied. With one out in the sixth Tommy Hutton singled and rode home on Schmidt's seventh homer of the season, a towering 390-foot shot to left-center.

Dave Cash and Larry Bowa chipped in with run-scoring singles before Unser connected for his second homer of the season off reliever John Morlan. All told, the Phils sent 11 batters to the plate during the rally.

In night action Chicago was at St. Louis and Cincinnati was at Houston.

Meanwhile in the National League, New York blanked Montreal, 6-0, San Francisco beat San Diego, 4-2, and Philadelphia blasted Pittsburgh 9-2.

USC blasts Oregon, 11-6

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Steve Kemp blasted two home runs Saturday to lead defending national champion USC to an 11-6 win over Oregon in the first game of their best-of-three series to decide the Pacific Eight champion.

Kemp blasted a bases-empty homer in the fifth as the Trojans went ahead 3-2. He added a two-run shot in the eighth as the Trojans put the game away.

Marvin Cobb had three hits for the Trojans, including a two-run homer in the fourth inning.

The win improves USC's overall record to 40-17, while Oregon is now 26-18. The two teams, leaders in their respective divisions in the Pac-8, meet again Sunday. If necessary, they will play a doubleheader to decide a conference champion.

LOS ALAMITOS — For the second consecutive year, the exclusive stretch drive replays and results of the nine quarter-horse races nightly from Los Alamitos Racetrack will be broadcast on KNX (1070) starting Wednesday through August 21.

The stretch drive replays will be aired immediately after they are legally available by Bobby Doyle, a veteran Los Alamitos, Bay Meadows and Pomona track announcer.

MVP award to Webb's Gary Zakem

CLAREMONT — Webb School's Gary Zakem copped the most valuable player honors as the Arrowhead League announced its all-league selections Saturday.

Zakem, a senior pitcher from Chino, has posted an 11-4 hill mark so far this season as the Gauls are still very much alive in the CIF 1-A playoffs.

Zakem's efforts enabled Webb to tie Notre Dame for the league championship.

Also named to the all-league squad from Webb were John Baer and Bob Wright, both senior infielders, catcher Wally Pitts (a junior), and senior outfielder Dave Lahar.

With the five selections the Gauls led all Arrowhead League high schools. Notre Dame placed four men on the team, Aquinas two, and Big Bear one.

Don Bayly of Webb made the honorable mention list.

Krogh claims SoCal title

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

ALTA LOMA — Dave Krogh, the nation's leading javelin thrower on the junior college level this year from Mt. San Antonio College, added another award to his trophy case Saturday night.

The Mountie star captured the Southern California title in the javelin at Chaffey College in the Southern Cal Junior College Track and Field Finals.

Krogh, who holds the top javelin mark in the nation at 236-0 this year, grabbed first place in the competition Saturday evening with a toss of 233-11.

His winning performance erased the previous Southern Cal record of 228-3, set by Rio Hondo's Larry Shiveley in the SoCal prelims two weeks ago at Chaffey.

Krogh was the only JC champion from the valley, but he wasn't the only one to qualify for next weekend's state championships in Bakersfield.

Two other Mounties qualified, along with two athletes from Chaffey and two from Citrus.

Citrus' Rick Wilmoth was the only competitor from the Pomona Valley who qualified for the state meet in two events. He ran a fourth place in both the 100 and 220 with clockings of 9.5 and 21.2 — both wind-aided.

Citrus' other qualifier was Gary Costello in the discus, where his 156-7 mark placed him fourth in the competition.

The two other MSAC qualifiers were Steve Miller in the high jump and Mark Lotich in the steeplechase.

What was encouraging for MSAC was that South Coast Conference champion Fullerton ran off with the Southern California championship, piling up 66 points to runnersup L.A. City's and West L.A.'s 46.

Fullerton won the South Coast title this year for the first time in the history of the conference, dethroning the five-time conference champ Mt. SAC.

The Hornets wrapped it up in the final two events of the night — the discus and the triple jump. The new SoCal titlists collected 12 points in the discus behind Mark Murray's victory and eight more in the triple jump behind Jeff Hutton's second-place performance.

Chaffey's Tony Lewis was right in the thick of things in the triple jump, but had to settle for a tie with Hutton for second with a jump of 49-5½.

He had been leading the field before Grossmont's Doug Baldwin leaped 49 feet, 8¼ inches on his last jump.

The only other Chaffey qualifier was long jumper John Tigner, who placed fourth with a 23-8 effort.

A heavy easterly wind plagued the finals as it did in the prelims, and it seemingly cut into many of the performances.

But it didn't seem to bother a streaker, who shot out of the starting blocks at the end of the front straightaway and pranced down in front of the spectators early in the meet.

NOTE: There was a late change in the results of the 120 high hurdles, where MSAC's Dwight Owens apparently did not qualify. At first the results showed him placing fourth and qualifying, but a review of the films after the meet put him in the sixth spot and out of a qualifying position.

Matadors cop CCAA title; Poly tracksters finish 3rd

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

NORTHRIDGE — Third year coach Cliff Abel waited a whole year to get another crack at the California Collegiate Athletic Association track and field championship.

In his two previous years at the helm of the Matadors, Abel's teams have been able to do no better than second.

A well-balanced Cal State Northridge team clinched its first CCAA title ever and amassed 143 points Saturday afternoon at CSUN.

The Matadors doubled their nearest competitor San Luis Obispo (68 pts.), who edged third place Cal Poly Pomona (61 pts.), Fullerton finished fourth with 50 points while CS Bakersfield and UC Riverside had just four points each.

Last year a highly controversial decision gave Fullerton the conference crown and placed the Matadors second and the Brocos third after the teams had apparently ended in a three-way-tie.

Northridge easily outclassed the other teams as Carl Smith and Conrad Gonzalez scored the only double wins of the day.

Smith won the 3,000 steeplechase and set a new CCAA record in the six-mile run with a time of 29:26.2. Gonzalez recorded firsts in the 880 and one-mile run.

Three other league marks fell as SLO's Dave Hamer vaulted 16-5, bettering the old standard by an inch. Art Venegas of CSN tossed the hammer 169-5 and broke his own record.

Montgomery took the triple jump with a leap of 48-8¾ and also placed fourth in the long jump. Frierson captured the 120 high hurdles with a time of 14.4 while McGill's first place clocking was 48.2 in the 440.

The Broncos, who finished with an 8-2 dual meet record under first year coach Fred Jones, did well in the relays placing second in the mile event and third in the quarter-mile group effort.

Poly tracksters also scored well as Larry Joyner ran second in the 440 intermediate hurdles with a time of 53.0.

Russ Reobold lead Poly's field event entries with a third in the discus (146-1) and fourth in the shotput (49-10½).

Administrators resign over coach's contract at Hawaii

HONOLULU (UPI) — Four top administrators at the University of Hawaii have resigned in a dispute with the school's regents over the football coach's contract.

The uproar started Thursday when the regents, acting without administration recommendation or approval, voted to amend head football coach Larry Price's contract to expire Jan. 31, 1979 instead of Jan. 1, 1976.

By Saturday, there were several high level resignations over the issue of who ruins the university — the board of regents or the university president and his administrative officers.

Among those to resign were Chancellor Wytze Gorter, Vice Chancellor Douglas Yamamura, William Henthorn, director of the Social Science Research Institute and Moheb Ghali, director of the Economic Research Center.

Several others were considering quitting.

Price asked for a five-year contract when he was interviewed for the job earlier this year. When he didn't get it, he settled for the two-season pact.

Price said Friday the multi-year contract would provide the football program with longneeded stability. "Our program over the years has gotten the image of being unstable with coaches coming and going," he said.

University President Harlan Cleveland, who is leaving Sept. 1, said the board's action on Price was probably "a first ... in the 67-year history of the university."

But Regent Wallace Fujiyama said the administration, the regents and the government workers union agreed months ago that Price should start off with a five-year contract. He added that the regents are not bound to abide by the dictates of the administration.

Sagehens finish fourth in District Three meet

REDLANDS — Pomona-Pitzer's track team placed fourth in the NAIA District Three meet at Redlands Saturday night.

The Sagehens had two firsts, a second and a third and totaled 51 points in the meet which was won by favored Occidental. Southern California College was second and Westmont third.

Senior Ray Fogg won the shotput, outdistancing national NAIA leader Don Turri of Westmont, with a put of 58-10, tying Turri's national mark and bettering Fogg's previous best and old school record by more than two feet. Turri's best effort was 58-6.

The mile relay team of Gary Goss, Gary O'Neill, Dave Wiggins and Bill Taylor was second with a time of 3:18.3. It was O'Neill's first appearance after being sidelined all season with a hamstring pull.

The 'Hens set three school records and tied another. Steve Mason was fourth in the pole vault but tied his own school record of 15 feet. Dave Estrada was seventh in the steeplechase at 9:32.6, also a school record. Randy Luce finished sixth in the six-mile run in 30:32.4.

Post 78 defeated

CLAREMONT — Claremont Post 78 was dealt its first defeat of the American Legion baseball season Saturday, as Arcadia Legion downed the Cardinals 8-3 in a game played at Pomona College.

Mil Pompa started for the Cards but was knocked out during a Arcadia uprising in the fifth inning and absorbed the mound loss. Jim Hostetler had three RBIs for Arcadia.

Post 78 hitters were led by Harry Brown, who picked up three hits in four at bats.

Claremont, now 2-1 on the young season, will stage a rematch today with Pomona Post 30, a team it beat 3-2 on Friday. The game is scheduled for a 2 p.m. starting time at Pomona College in Claremont, and John Huddleston will start for the Cards.

Riessen meets Laver in King Classic finale

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — Australia's Rod Laver and America's Marty Riessen meet today for the singles championship in the third annual $150,000 Alan King Tennis Classic after upsetting favored opponents in Saturday's semifinals.

The unseeded Riessen continued his giant-killing role by defeating top-ranked John Newcombe of Australia 7-6, 6-2. Laver rallied from a one-set deficit to oust Holland's Tom Okker, the No. 2 seed, 6-7, 6-3, 6-2.

It was Riessen's third straight victory over seeded players. The 32-year-old veteran from Chicago defeated No. 6-rated Tom Gorman in the second round and third-ranked Arthur Ashe in the quarterfinals, both in straight sets.

Riessen's sensational cross court placement when down 5-6 in the first set tiebreaker gave him the edge over the 28-year-old Newcombe, 8-6.

Newcombe faltered in the second set and Riessen coasted home after building a 4-1 lead. The Aussie's reflexes seemed dulled after a tiring seven straight days of competition in Dallas, Houston and Las Vegas.

Laver, 35, got off to a slow start against the 30-year-old Okker, losing the first set tiebreaker 9-7. The former Grand Slam champion gained strength in the next two sets, and took them handily.

Walnut baseball squad romps, 19-6

WALNUT — Walnut's Thoroughbread baseball team opened its season Saturday by stampeding past Rowland Legion 19-6 in a contest played at Mt. San Antonio College.

They routed Bourque and put the game away in the third with a 10-run outburst. The Thoroughbreds put together seven hits and one Rowland error for the 10 scores.

The Thoroughbreds will continue play today at MSAC as they square off against Chino Legion in a single game slated for a 1:30 post time.

LaVerne Legion wins in baseball debut

Ralph Beltran, a righthander who starred for Mt. San Antonio College this past baseball season, continued his mound heroics for Post 330. Beltran fired a three-hit shutout and fanned 12 without walking a man over the nine-inning route.

Beltran singled in Paul Willman in the fourth to give La Verne a 1-0 lead, and Post 330 expanded that to 5-0 with two tallies in both the fifth and sixth innings.

Dave Maloof had three hits and scored two runs for La Verne, while Beltran contributed two singles to the Post 330 attack.

POMONA — Pomona Post 30 split a doubleheader with Ventura Post 333 Saturday night at Ralph Welch Park, winning the opener 5-4 but dropping the nightcap 6-4.

Ruben Ruiz won the first game in relief but dropped the second when Ventura scored twice in the ninth. Post 30 is now 1-2 on the year.

Tracy Cowger paced the Post 30 offense with five hits on the twinbill, while Will Lewallen had four safeties.

Hurler Roger Slayton was felled by a line drive in the second game and forced to leave the game, but will start for Pomona today in their battle with Claremont Legion.

Post 30 veteran skipper Woody Hansen is in the hospital with pneumonia and is expected to miss the next week of action.

AMAZING MARKS — It's difficult for the 'players' at Hollywood Park to cease and desist from discussing the amazing performance of jockey Laffit Pincay.

Through the first 23 days of the 1974 meeting, Laffit boasted the following achievements:

Two riding quints, seven triples, six doubles, six singles and on only two programs did he draw a blank.

★ ★ ★

STRAIGHT HEAD — An unidentified exercise rider for trainer L. J. Brooks had an extremely sore posterior and an extraordinary red face the other morning in the stable area.

The exercise rider, paying more attention to Susan's attributes than to the business at hand, was caught looking the wrong way, slipped, and in front of dozens of witnesses, fell off his horse.

They had the only two $5 tickets sold on the winning 6-2 exacta combination in the seventh race last Saturday night, a payoff worth $14,926 to each patron.

The payoff was believed to be the biggest in California racing.

The big bonanza again raised the often-asked question: What happens in an exacta race when there are no winning tickets sold?

Answer: Those who have the winning number on top and in the place position, share the payoff.

★ ★ ★

FAST CHANGEOVER — The Los Alamitos track crew didn't waste an extra minute in starting to convert the racing strip from a harness oval back to a quarterhorse surface.

Not less than five minutes after the close of the harness meeting last Saturday night, were the bulldozers and tractors in motion to begin the task of renovating the track for next Wednesday's open.

The S.C.R.A. harness meeting attracted 349,118 patrons for the 55-night meeting, an average of 6,347 while the handle for the season totaled $34,413,471, a nightly average of $625,699. Attendance was down 5.1 per-cent over 1973 while handle showed a 3.4 per-cent rise.

STAKES SPLITTERS — Apparently the thumbs down attitude taken by both Hollywood Park and Aqueduct Stewards against jockeys 'saving' purse money in stakes races, hasn't spilled over into quarterhorse racing.

Sunday, in the $160,000 Golden State Derby at Bay Meadows, jockeys John Watson and Terry Lipham split $10,000 after Watson won with Frank Vessels' Timeto Thinkrich and Lipham finished third aboard Vessels' Gofartherfaster.

Lipham had qualified Timeto Thinkrich while Watson was under suspension so the two decided to share their earnings should either horse win.

Timeto Thinkrich became quarter horse racing's leading money-winner when the $72,000 first money boosted his lifetime total to $448,271 edging him past the previous record-holder, Easy Jet at $445,721.

Both Timeto Thinkrich, who has won nine of 22 lifetime starts, and Gofartherfaster are now preparing for the $75,000 Los Alamitos Derby on June 8th at 440 yards

SHOE A CLUE? — The absence of jockey Bill Shoemaker aboard ill-fated Linda's Chief last Saturday at Hollywood Park was something of a tip off that the horse wasn't right.

"I told them to take me off the horse," said Shoemaker, "When I rode him the week before, I couldn't do a thing with him."

That day, Linda's Chief was all over the race track, lugging in and then lugging out.

Many backstretch observers believed all along that the horse, a $1.8 million purchase by Aaron Jones, hasn't been himself since last summer.

The insurance will pay $2 million but, as Jones puts it, "I would have never sold him for that price."

★ ★ ★

HOT WATER AGAIN — Jockey L. J. Durousseau is in hot water again. He was suspended by Oak Tree stewards in October of 1971 for having an electrical device in his possession, a move that brought widespread criticism of California officials.

Apparently, they knew what they were doing.

Last week, at Omaha's Aksarben Race Track, Durrousseau was allegedly caught with an electrical device in the starting gate by track security officers.

He was again suspended and his case referred to the Nebraska State Racing Commission. In the interim, however, he was granted a court injunction, allowing him to ride until his hearing before the Commission.

SHORT STRIDES — Look for Astray (128) and London Company (123) to fly in for the $125,000 Hollywood Park Turf Invitational on Memorial Day . . . Trainer D. W. Sparks, a former aide to Farrell Jones, has won seven races in but 17 starts, also finishing second twice and third once . . . Eight trainers tried to claim King Kiwi last week, with the former Caliente track record-holder going to R. K. Penman for $8,000 . . . Wispering Jack was claimed for the 12th time in 24 starts last week.

Vinci says Broncs still must improve

POMONA — There were mixed emotions among the Cal Poly football coaching staff following the Bronco varsity's 48-14 win over the Alumni.

"The potential is there but we had a drop in intensity too often," coach Andy Vinci declared. "If we don't improve, we won't beat Fresno State in the opener next fall."

Cal Poly opens its 1974 grid schedule Sept. 7 at Fresno State before returning home a week later against Southern Utah.

"We still have a lot of work to do if we are going to be winners. We'll have to be at the stage we were last Saturday against the Alumni after the first two weeks of practice in the fall—and improve from there," Vinci added.

Several additional recruits will be on hand when the team starts workouts in late summer for the 1974 season. They will add strength at the running back, receiver and tackle spots.

Vinci and his staff singled out safety Scott Sanders, quarterback Jim Zorn, center Ken LaVigne, and David Stock, guard Vemon Smith, split back Joe Fabian, guard Bryan Kerms, linebacker Doug Gerdwagen, tackle Leon Hooker and linebacker Jim Castanon as outstanding performers against the Alumni.

The Bronco mentor also had words of praise for the Alumni gridders who showed plenty of plenty of ability and desire after a very brief set of workouts for the game.

Giants' Larson retires from F.B.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Greg Larson, starting center for the New York Giants since their last Eastern Division championship year—1963—Friday announced his retirement from the National Football League club.

Larson, a veteran of 13 NFL seasons, played a career total of 179 games—second only to Joe Morrison's 184 in Giant history. He will enter a sporting goods business in his native Minnesota.

U.S. finishes 3rd

RIO de JANEIRO (UPI) — The U.S. basketball team defeated Mexico 98-83 Friday night in the third and last round of the Rio de Janeiro International Basketball Tournament.

Los Al opens with quarter horse races

LOS ALAMITOS — The only three active world champion quarter horses will be assembled under one roof at Los Alamitos Race Course beginning Wednesday when the 24th season of summer quarter horse racing begins at the Orange Country track.

The trio—Kaweah Bar, Charger Bar and Truckle Feature—have won a combined $850,000 during their careers and earned world championship status in 1968, 1970, 1971 and 1973.

Kaweah Bar will be making a comeback this year following a nine-month rest for the two-time world champion who ruled as king of the sport from 1968-1972. However, the palomino express' last victory came here at Los Alamitos in 1972 in the $100,000 Championship and trainer Larry Kleve is hoping the lengthy rest will put the the 8-year-old gelding back on the wining track.

Charger Bar, meanwhile, is racing again this year in the form of '71 when she was named the horse of the year by the American Quarter Horse Assn. She is currently working on a seven-race winning streak which dates back to last October and comes here off a four-for-four performance at the winter Los Alamitos meeting, where she was named horse of the meeting, and a narrow victory in the $16,150 Peninsula Handicap at Bay Meadows.

Truckle Feature, the defending world champion, was retired from racing at the first of the year but now will return to the track, where he established two new world records and won more than $160,000.

The speedy son of Truly Truckle, who established both the 400 and 440-yard world marks, finished out of the money only once in 17 starts last year, running fourth behind Charger Bar in last December's $50,000 Champion of Champions.

The $2.4 million in purses, including such races as the $100,000 Los Alamitos Championship, $75,000-added Los Alamitos Derby, $50,000 Winner Take All Invitational, $50,000 Go Man Go and $50,000-added Vessels Maturity, has attracted perhaps the finest group of horses in the track's history.

The other seven winners of the AQHA's 1973 honor roll will all be present at Los Alamitos including the champion 2-year-old colt and quarter horse racing's all-time leading money-winner Timeto Thinkrich, champion 2-year-old gelding I'ma On, champion 3-year-old filly Smooth Coin, champion older stallion Plunder Bay, champion mare Charger Bar, champion gelding Come Six and, of course, horse of the year Truckle Feature.

Other prominent names that will be on hand for the 24th summer meeting, which begins with the $12,000 Inaugural, will be Lanty's Jet, Native Empress, Salty Talent, Go Fartherfaster, Mr. Midland, Flight 109, Twelve Five, Don Guerro and Pockatu.

Brad Brown earns berth in volleyball

POMONA — Brad Brown of Cal Poly was selected to the All-California Collegiate Volleyball Conference team as the only local player making the All-League club.

Cal State Dominguez Hills won the first championship at the post-season tournament at UC Riverside. UCR and Cal State Northridge shared the dual match crown with identical 10-2 records. Cal Poly finished at 5-7 followed by La Verne and Pomona-Pitzer at 1-11 apiece.

Joe Crowe of Northridge was selected the Most Valuable Player. Others on the All-Conference team were Eric Kaufman, Cal State Fullerton; Dave Stumpf, UC Riverside; Daryl James, Dominguez; Roy Nichols, Fdllerton; Scott Berndes, UC Riverside; and Don Runyon, Dominguez.

La Verne cagers touring Mexico

LA VERNE — Not one but both La Verne College basketball teams are now on a Mexican tour.

The girls teams was originally scheduled to leave May 2 and return May 21. Main items on the agenda was a tournament in Mexico City May 11-18. However campus unrest at the University of Mexico, site of the tourney, caused its cancellation and subsequent delay of the girls team tour.

Now the girls team, led by coach Nancy Blickenstaff, and an all-star aggregation which includes three starters on this year's men's varsity team is making the trip along with a Santa Fe Springs High girls volleyball team.

Basketball coach Art Bias is taking 10 players and may even participate himself. Center Bill Rockwood, forward Dwight Washington and guard Dave Castaneda from the 1973-74 varsity team form the all-stars' nucleus.

Assistant coaches Greg Granderson and George Agnew, only a year removed from varsity competition, round out the "starting five." Mark Little, Wendell Meyers, John Russ, Duane Smith, and Cory Mehau, all from the JV team, make up the second five.

The teams left La Verne Wednesday and drove to Mexicali. From there they travelled via train to Mexico City where they were slated to arrive Friday morning.

Toluca University was slated to provide the opposition that night. "Tripleheaders" are scheduled at most locations. The first game is girls basketball. Girls volleyball is the second event. Men's basketball tops off the evening.

The teams were to play all-star teams both Friday and Saturday. Today they will play either Toluca or area all-star teams in Valle de Bravo.

Monday is an open day. Tuesday, the teams will be in Puebla for all-star competition. The same is scheduled for Wednesday 22 in Quierto.

The final three days of competition will be against Mexico City all-star teams. The American visitors were hoping to stay at the Olympic complex in Mexico City; but that had not been confirmed at the time they left.

Bias also expressed hope that this men's team would be able to play the Mexican Olympic team.

"This is the beginning of an exchange-type of program between La Verne and Mexico," Bias said. "We're doing it during intra-term. There are other things besides sports in the overall program. I think it's going to be the start of something very fine for both sides."

Bias credits Pete Despart, California representative of the Federation of Sports in Mexico with getting the program underway.

"The Mexican Federation of Sports is similar to our AAU," he said. "Despart is responsible for much of what has been done in the way of setting up different types of exchange programs in Southern Calif."

The group of athletes is slated to return to La Verne May 28.

Matson hurls shot 70-feet

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — J. J. Jackson and Randy Matson each picked up their third victories on the pro track circuit Friday nigst, Jackson outdueling John Carlos in the 60-yard dash and Matson throwing three times over 70 feet in the shot put.

Ben Jipcho also won the mile and two-mile in the next to last stop on the International Track Association 14-meet tour which ends May 29 at Madison Square Garden in New York City.

Jackson, who tied the world indoor record of 5.8 seconds in the 60-yard dash last week at Atlanta, ran a 5.9 Friday night in Texas Stadium. He said he might have run a 5.8 or 5.7 had it not been for the fear of injuring himself on a rope barrier which stopped the runners 20 yards past the finish line.

Bumstead named MVP of Hacienda

There's no doubt that Bill Bumstead of Bonita High has a bright future.

On top of what he did this year to pace the Bearcats to the Hacienda League baseball championship, the sophomore pitcher was named the Most Valuable Player of the league, it was revealed today.

Bumstead went unbeaten in Hacienda League action, posting a perfect 8-0 record on the mound.

Prior to the CIF playoffs this year, Bumstead had a season record of 11-1 and earned a 0.61 ERA, allowing just seven runs in 76 innings.

Four of his teammates were named to the first team of the All-Hacienda League selections.

Walnut and San Dimas each placed one team member on the first team, with catcher Lance Parrish of Walnut and infielder Jim Richards of San Dimas being named.

National League's tempo agrees with Reggie Smith

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Reggie Smith is happy. National League pitchers aren't.

The switchhitting slugger obtained over the winter from the Boston Red Sox came to the National League plagued by reports of friction with his teammates and the press in Boston. The question seemed not to be whether he could perform, but whether he could get along.

The first six weeks of the season put the doubts to rest. The St. Louis Cardinals got off to their best start since the pennant-winning year of 1968 and Smith fit right in, giving the Cards power, speed and a strong rightfield arm in addition to timely hitting and the ability to bring men home.

With a batting average of more than .370 well into the second month of the season, Smith was on top of the league. His mood matched his batting average as he spoke quietly but firmly about his new league and his new life in the majors.

"They don't sit back and wait for things to happen in this league," Smith said. "You see more of the bunt and run, the hit and run. It doesnt mean anything if you're a few runs down —the men move on the bases."

He spoke of National League pitchers going to the American League and having a large measure of success, challenging the hitters.

"I think the American League made the mistake of falling back on the tradition of the Yankees, trying to sit back and bludgeon you to death. The pitching doesn't have to be much more than adequate."

The spirit is better, the team effort is greater in the National League, he said. "They have a lot more pride in what they're doing. That's one of the keys. They've got the talent and the pride to go with it. The American League has been more intent on signing players with the big names, not just those with the raw ability who prove to be better in the long run."

Combining with steady Lou Brock and Ted Simmons and surprising Ken Reitz, Smith has spearheaded a St. Louis offense that was tops in the league in the early going. Through their first 30 games the Cards had not been shut out and were routinely getting about 10 hits a game.

It's not just on the field that Smith's life is going well. It's in the clubhouse. On a team known for its needlers, Smith takes it in stride, saying all the banter is good-natured and keeps the players loose. Not like in Boston, where he said the atmosphere was thick with "back-stabbing, cliques and ripping sessions.'

"Here, if you've got something to say about a ball player, you better be prepared to say it to his face if you're going to say it behind his back. It's a more mature attitude.'

Pride, maturity, hustle and talent. Reggie Smith likes what he sees in the National League and it's made playing ball fun again.

"I can't even measure it right now. I really look forward to coming to the ball park. I don't even like off days that much. I get too anxious. I want to come out and play."

Entry list growing for AAU wrestling

LONG BEACH — With every day's mail the entry list is growing by leaps and bounds for the National AAU Wrestling championships at the Long Beach Arena, June 15-22.

The entry list is taking an international flavor, too, with teams from Japan, Canada and Mexico joining the select field for the eight-day event at the seaside arena.

Another U.S. team, the classy Michigan State contingent, a perennial Big Ten powerhouse, entered the meet and will vie for the team championship trophy, it was announced.

Also filing an entry in the 163-pound senior freestyle event was Shan Dziedzic, an assistant coach for the Spartans, and a recent member of the U.S. team that met the U.S.S.R. squad last March.

Dziedzic was a member of the American World Cup team in 1973 and NCAA champ in the 150-lb. class in 1971.

The Western freestyle is slated for June 15-16-17; the Western Greco-Roman, June 18-19, and the Senior National Freestyle championships on June 20-21-22.

It marks the first time in history that all three events will be held in the same arena.

Tickets are available at Ticketron, Mutual Ticket Agencies and the Long Beach Arena.

Havlicek enjoying vintage years

The 34-year-old Hondo, the team's "old man" and most valuable player in terms of experience, expertise and salary, was a member of six championship Boston teams during his younger days in the National Basketball Association. Yet he believes the vintage years occurred only during the last three seasons.

Havlicek was one of two famous "sixth" men that coaches Red Auerbach and Bill Russell used to rack up most of their 11 championships. Frank Ramsey had the first call as No. 1 sub.

"I only became a playoff starter three years ago and this was the first season that I really felt a sense of accomplishment," Havlicek says.

Coming off a championship season stimulated Havlicek's desire to anticipate with enjoyment the final two years of his current contract.

"If anything, pride will keep me going. We go through an exhibition schedule and a strenuous 82-game regular season and we're pooped. People ask us how we can maintain the stamina into the playoffs.

"It's also a matter of inspiration. You may not have the same kind of tenacity displayed during the regular season, but you are sharper mentally because you realize the playoffs could be over in four games when you're a loser."

Havlicek said Boston's sevengame win over the Los Angeles Lakers in 1969 was much more exciting than the recent sevengame victory over Milwaukee.

"We were considered too old by the experts to win in 1969. We had Russell, Sam Jones, Larry Siegried and Bailey Howell. They called us the 'Over the Hill Mob' as if we were a bunch of doddering athletes."

"The 1974 team is young and I'm glad we won. They kept hearing about the old Celtic dynasty and wanted some of the action."

Havlicek said the current crop of Celts played for recognition rather than a playoff pay check.

Pro basketball players are among the highest priced athletes in the sports market. Havlicek refuses to divulge his salary, but suffice it to say it's well into the six-figure bracket.

Does he think salaries are skyrocketing out of proportion?

"Whatever is happening is a result of the way the owners and the leagues operate today. Who can evaluate a player's worth? A fine college playing career and sufficient fan support contribute to higher salaries. Naturally, a player is out to take advntage of whatever he can get. Especially when he reads about guys like Frank Sinatra drawing down $100,000 for a single night."

Havlicek signed with Boston for an extremely low figure when one considers the current pay scale in pro basketball. During his rookie year of 1962-63, Hondo kept thinking how nice it would be some day to make $25,000 as a player. Today, the minimum salary in the NBA is $20,000.

During the Bucks series, Havlicek scored a high of 185 points for the seven games, showing why he's considered worth every dollar the Celtics pay for his upkeep.

'Saved my life'

Ivory loves track

Ivory Crockett, who last week stunned the track and field world with a 9.0 second 100-yard dash clocking that broke Bob Hayes' 11-year old world mark, admits its "a tremendous thrill to be a first," but it's a bigger thrill just to be able to be competing.

"I love track," said Crockett a few days after his historic sprint at the University of Tennessee's Tom Black Classic on May 11. "I wouldn't be the person I am today without it — and I don't mean that because I broke the world record.

"As it was, I could have been a dope addict or a delinquent had it not been for track. The fact that somebody got me involved may have very well saved my life."

Crockett, who runs for the Philadelphia Pioneer Club, but commutes to meets from Peoria, Ill., where he is employed by IBM as a marekting representative, has nonetheless been savoring his new found status as "world's fastest human."

"The biggest thrill has been the way my friends have reacted to it," he said. "When I arrived at work the Monday after the race, there was a big sign in the office that said 'Ivory Crockett Works Here!' Man, you can't imagine how that made me feel.

"It never entered my mind about getting a big head over all this or being anything like a 'world ruler' or something. I'm just happy for my friends because they've all believed in me throughout and now they're probably happier than I am."

Crockett, who has hovered around the 9.2 and 9.1 marks along with a half dozen other sprinters ever since his college years at Southern Illinois, didn't come by the 9.0 easily. As his coach with Pioneers, Alex Woodley pointed out, the sprinter's life can be as lonely as the long distance runner's.

"We knew this was coming," said Woodley, "but only because of how disciplined 'Crock' has become. It's not easy working out on your own, getting up in the morning before going to the job and then coming home after work and train some more. He's had to push himself beyond the physical impediments."

Says Ivory: "I know Alex has had many an expensive long distance call to me, giving me training schedules and other advise.'

"The biggest factor," said Woodley, "has probably been the quarter mile workouts Ivory's been doing. I've had him run the first 330 yards or so full tilt, then recover and maintain his rhythm and balance through to the finish. This enabled him to maintain his pace at the end of the 100.

"Before then, he was always trying to accelerate at 70 or 80 yards —something that's really impossible —and he was trying to overpower the race instead of just maintaining his own pace."

Woodley felt, however, that the conditions at Knoxville were perfect for the record.

"I told 'Crock' before we accepted to go there that if a world record was going to be set, (Tennessee Freshman) Reggie Jones was probably going to be in the race," said Woodley. "In addition, we had a choice to go to either Bakersfield or Knoxville —both places paying our own way — and besides the financial difference, I told the guys they had a good chance to run some fast times on that Tom Black Track.

"Of course," Woodley added, "now we don't have to go begging any more. These people are coming to us."

One thing, Crockett an Woodley differed on was the impact Ivory's 9.0 will have on the future of the 100.

"The psychological barrier is broken," said Woodley, "and there's at least three or four sprinters who are capable and probably will break 9.1 now."

"I don't know," says Ivory, "right now I feel like my man Roger Bannister. I'm the first. Now I'm rubbing elbows with Willie Mays, Mark Spitz etc. — those kind of people. And that's what makes me feel good."

So what about an even faster time like 8.9?

"Oh no you don't," laughed the new 'world's fastest human. "I aint gonna put noo pressure on 'the Crock.' Whatever happens from here on out...happens."

UCLA opens sale of football tickets

LOS ANGELES — UCLA's 1974 season football tickets have gone on sale for renewals and new purchasers who will have the opportunity to see the Bruin gridders in six Los Angeles Coliseum appearances this fall, athletic ticket manager Jerry Weiner has announced.

The Bruins open their home schedule, which is regarded as one of the most attractive they have had in years, with the debut of new head coach Dick Vermeil and his Veer-T offense against nationally-ranked Tennessee on Saturday, Sept. 7, at 1:50 p.m.

Then they play Big Ten power Michigan State on Saturday, Sept. 28, 7:30 p.m., and then four traditional Pacific-8 Conference rivals, Stanford on Saturday, Oct. 12, 7:30 p.m., Washington State on Saturday, Oct. 19, 7:30 p.m., Oregon on Saturday, Nov. 9, 1:30 p.m., and USC on Saturday, Nov. 23, 1:05 p.m.

Regular season tickets for both the public and alumni are priced at $43 each and the Bruins also are featuring a Family season ticket, in which each adult may obtain reserved seat tickets for $25 and each minor (under 18) for $10.

The Colisum playing field is being moved 20 yards to the east and 10,000 theater-type seats are being installed for increased spectator comfort. Previous season ticket-holders will find their seat locations adjusted to conform to the relocation of the field.

Individual game tickets are priced at $7 for reserved seats for all games except USC, which is $8.

"We have observed tremendous interest and enthusiasm in our upcoming football season, especially during spring practice which was highlighted last Saturday when an overflow crowd of some 4,000 fans turned out to see the televised intra-squad game on Spaulding Field," Weiner commented.

"With the winning records of the past two years (9-2 in '73 and 8-3 in '72) we feel certain that there will be a continued growth in our sale of season tickets and game attendance."

The Bruins' five away games include Iowa Sept. 21, Utah Oct. 5, California Oct. 26, Washington State Nov. 2 and Oregon State Nov. 16.

Applications for season tickets and information on UCLA football game seats may be obtained by writing UCLA Athletic Ticket Office, P.O. Box 24607, Los Angeles 90024 or by calling (213) 825-2101 (dial UCLA 1-0-1).

Indy 500 biggest spectacle in sports

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — "Gentlemen start your engines."

Tony Hulman, patriarch of Indy 500 racing and president of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, sounds the call to glory May 26 for the 58th running of perhaps the greatest single event in the history of sports.

A quarter of a million people will hug the infield fences, roast or be chilled in the stands (according to the vagaries of the weather pattern) and jam all available camping space to watch 33 lethal racing machines hurtle past the starting line in a bid for the richest purse in auto sports.

This Hoosier haven has launched the big-time careers of some drivers and caused the death of others. There are no bounds to the exuberance of the racing faithful and the city fathers estimate that upwards of $12 million is spent here during the merry month of May.

Last year, the start was delayed by rain and a mean smashup in which four drivers and 12 spectators were injured following a 12-car accident.

Gordon Johncock finally won the race that was shortened to 332.5 miles by rain. Swede Savage suffered critical injuries about an hour after the race began and died several weeks later. One of Graham McRae's pit crew was killed when struck by a truck speeding to the accident scene. They were the 48th and 49th driver or mechanic to die in race or prerace preparations since 1909.

The series of incidents strongly suggested to the sponsoring United States Auto Club that stringent measures were required to safeguard life and limb in future Indy events. An energy crisis late last year stimulated further movement toward reducing the hazards of the sport.

Smaller wing spans which force drivers to brake in the turns and a limit of 280 gallons of methanol (a reduction of 95 gallons from previous years) will cut speed and therefore present no threat to Mark Donohue's record of 162.962 m.p.h. set while winning the 1972 race.

Tom Binford, the new chief steward, will view the start from a new two-level tower that should assure the field of a proper launching at the green flag.

"I like the new speed regulations," says 37-year-old Wally Dallenbach of East Brunswick, N.J. "In general, most of the drivers are in favor of the new rules. Cutbacks in speed are the name of the game. Besides, I prefer laps of 170 miles an hour instead of a death-defying 200."

Dallenbach is also pleased over the renovation program on Turn Four, scene of many of Indy's most tragic crashes. The inner wall was removed, a large infield section next to the turn was paved and the pit entrance was widened.

"I'll have to adjust my driving technique at Turn Four to put the changes to my advantage," said A.J. Foyt, a three-time Indy winner. Johnny Rutherford, the 1973 pole position winner, explained that "you have to learn to drive Turn Four all over again. And that's a very important part of the race."

Many observers lean toward Foyt and Bobby Unser as their choices to win this year's Indy. The 39-year-old Foyt is the winningest driver on the USAC championship trail with 45 victories. He is also a cagey wheelman and known to use his experience to psych out the opposition.

Foyt will be driving a Coyote that he designed and built himself. Unser, one of the hottest USAC drivers this year after victories in the California 500 and Trenton races, handles a Dan Gurney Eagle which he claims is so fast it could go into orbit if it weren't for the speed restrictions.

The wheels for the 1974 Indy began turning last January as airports, motels and the police geared for the massive influx of people, planes and pickpockets. Even the streakers got into the act, but they weren't concerned about getting their pockets picked.

Is it worth it? Ask a Foyt, or an Unser or a Donohue.

No streaking at Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS, Indiana (UPI) — The Indianapolis Motor Speedway said Thursday "all possible steps" will be taken to prevent vulgarity, obscene conduct and destructive acts at the second day of qualifications Saturday for the 500-mile auto race.

The speedway, in a prepared news release, did not mention streaking specifically, but said "destructive acts and vulgar and obscene conduct of any kind by juveniles and-or adults will result in immediate arrest and law violators will be prosecuted to the fullest extent."

The speedway said its safety patrol will be expanded to provide "constant surveillance" of potential trouble spots. It said Lt. Col. James R. Dillman of the Indiana State Police had announced "a sufficient number of troopers will be on hand to control the problem."

Support has been assured "from all law enforcement agencies" for the speedway's plan to take "all possible steps" to prevent a recurrence of "deplorable conditions created by a small minority of the persons in the area of the No. 1 turn at the track last Saturday," the statement said.

There were streakers at the track Saturday.

Bob Valentine coming back from injury

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — On May 17, 1973, Bobby Valentine crashed head-on into the center field fence at Anaheim Stadium trying to catch Dick Green's home run.

Only four days after his 23rd birthday, his promising professional baseball career was in jeopardy. Could he come back from breaking his right leg in two places?

One year later, Valentine has answered that question. He has come back for the California Angels.

"It seems more like eight years to me," said the irrepressible 24-year-old sparkplug of the Angels.

If courage was the main ingredient required to play big league baseball, Valentine would be a superstar. He's shown plenty of it in his comeback.

"There were plenty of depressing moments," he said. "And there was plenty of pain, too. In fact, on cold days and nights, the leg still hurts."

"But the doctors say it will be better with time and when the hot months get here. I'm looking forward to the warmer weather."

Valentine still limps. In fact, there are times when he resembles a polio victim.

But there was nothing wrong with his bat through the first five weeks of the season when he compiled a .316 average with three doubles, three triples, one homer and 10 RBIs.

"I'm really happy with my start," he said, "but I'm not surprised. With my leg the way it is, I'm in the lineup for my hitting now and not my defense and base running."

"I knew I'd have to hit right from the start or I might wind up on the bench and I don't want to ever sit again. I never want to come out to the ball park with the idea that I won't play."

As a member of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Valentine sat a lot. When the Dodgers traded him to the Angels after the 1972 season, his sunshine smile couldn't have been brighter.

"When this season started," he continued, "I set two goals. I wanted 200 hits and I wanted to hit .300. But I don't think I'm going to get 200 hits because the club's going to rest me at least 15 games and that's a lot of at bats to make up.

Havlicek, Jabbar top NBA team

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Havlicek and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, prolific scorers who led their teams to the playoff championship round, were named Saturday to the 1973-74 National Basketball Association All-Star first team.

Havlicek, who tallied 185 points in leading Boston past Milwaukee in the seven-game title series, drew 12,214 votes for one of the forward positions and Abdul-Jabbar collected 14,541 in balloting by sports writers and broadcasters covering teams in the 17 league cities.

New York Knicks' veteran guard Walt Frazier was the biggest vote getter as he gained 15,291 votes. Gail Goodrich of Los Angeles received 11,028 votes for the other guard post. Forward Rick Barry of Golden State rounded out the squad with a 9,973 total.

Frazier was a unanimous choice in 11 of the NBA cities.

The second team: Forwards —Elvin Hayes, Washington, 9,407, and Spencer Haywood, Seattle, 8,206. Center — Bob McAdoo, Buffalo, 6,593. Guards —Dave Bing, Detroit, 5,975 and Norm Van Lier, Chicago, 3,413.

Havlicek and Abdul-Jabbar made the first team for the fourth straight year and Frazier was picked for the third consecutive season. Barry now has made it three times, while Goodrich was so honored for the first time.

Alice Cooper muy popular en Brazil

El extravagante cantante de rock recientemente electrifico a su audiencia en Sao Paulo antes de empacar sus viboras, manequies, cerveza y guillotina para salir a Rio de Janeiro.

El primer programa de Cooper en Sao Paulo, el 30 de Marzo atrajo una multitud de aproximadamente 100.000 personas, principalmente jovenes, espectadores dando de alaridos arrollaron las facilidades del parque, que estan mas acostumbrados a exhibiciones automobilisticas y ferias industriales.

Cuando la confusion amenazaba con convertirse en un motin, 500 policias fueron llamados para controlar la muchedumbre.

Aproximadamente 300 personas fueron tratados por los servicios medicos del parque. La mayoria de ellas sufrieron desmayos o lesiones sin importancia durante el breve encuentro con la policia.

Al fin la audiencia se calmo y silenciosamente se sentaron bajo la mirada de la policia y Cooper principio su concierto con la musica extravagante que lo ha hecho famoso.

El siguiente dia, mientras los periodicos publicaban las protestas de padres de familia encolerizados porque ninos hasta de 10 anos de edad fueron admitidos a presenciar el concierto, Cooper, con bastante calma jugaba gold en un club privado en las afueras de Sao Paulo.

Cooper dice que sus actuaciones son reprimidas por ciertas normas.

Los espectadores en relativa compustura observaban como Cooper permitia que una boa se movia alrededor de su cuello, hacia cabriolas alrededor del escenario destruyendo sus manequies y al final presentaba su ejecucion ficticia en la guillotina.

Censo E.U. acusado ser insensible

WASHINGTON (UPI) —La Comision de Derechos Civiles acuso al Departamento del Censo en Estados Unidos de ser "insensible" a las necesidades de las personas de habla espanola al aparentemente haber contado menos en el censo de 1970.

"Los esfuerzos del departamento al enumerar personas de antecedentes espanoles . . . fueron no muy bien pensados y, como resultado, fueron inadecuados," la Comision dijo en un reporte de 112 paginas, "Contando los Olvidados," emitido durante una conferencia de prensa el pasado lunes.

Asi mismo urge al Departamento que mejore sus metodos de contar a las minorias en el censo de 1980, incluyendo el emplear mas personas de habla espanola a desarrollar tecnicas relativas a esto, y a conducir el censo.

Solamente 35 latinos estuvieron entre los 5,432 empleados en el Departamento de Comercio, Administracion de Estadisticas Sociales y Economicas hasta Noviembre de 1972, a pesar del programa del Presidente Nixon, "sixteen-Point Program" para mejorar el sistema de emplear latinos, la Comision ha reportado.

El Departamento conto 9.1 millones de personas de antecedentes hispanos, 04.5 porciento del total de la poblacion en el pais de 203.2 millones en 1970. Esto fue 30 porciento menos de los 12 millones estimado por el Comite del Ministerio en Oportunidades para las personas de habla espanola.

El Departamento reviso sus cifras mostrando que en Marzo de 1973, la poblacion hispana aumento por un 17 porciento a 10.7 millones, atribuyendo el aumento al crecimiento en poblacion.

Pero esta pretension hecha por la comision en derechos quien dijo que esto fue debido a mejoras en los metodos y ajustes en haber contado menos poblacion. Asi mismo cita el calculo del Departamento de 7.7 porciento de poblacion no contado entre los negros en el censo de 1970.

Las cifras en los censos son importantes al determinar la distribucion de fondos federales a los gobiernos estatales y locales para los programas contra la pobreza y programas bilingues, y para enforzar iguales reglas en empleos.

—Eviar cuestionarios bilingues o en espanol a cada familia en las regiones que tienen 5 porciento o mas de origenes hispanos.

—Aumentar el empleo de personas de habla espanola y hacer posible que este grupo este enteramente representado en todos los comites consultivos del Departamento del Censo.

At county museum

Art on videotape to be shown

LOS ANGELES — "Collectors' Video," an exhibition of cassette videotapes, will open in the Hammer Wing of the county Museum of Art May 28.

Fourteen leading artists using this medium, including Richard Serra, Bruce Nauman, Joan Jonas, Keith Sonnier and William Wegman, are represented in the exhibition by significant videotape works, some of which have never been shown publicly in Southern California.

Jane Livingston, the museums curator of modern art and organizer of the exhibition, states: "Videotape, previously regarded as a device used peripherally by artists, has recently come into its own as an art form and is becoming increasingly important in both America and Europe.

The purpose of the exhibition is to show the potential collector what a tape collection can be. Because of the nature of video, which is experienced over a period of time and on a small screen, there are advantages to viewing tapes in the private, informal home situation rather than in a museum or gallery.

The question of purchasing and owning tapes by artists has until recently been problematic. Now, with inexpensive equipment generally available and with the establishment of gallery outlets for tapes, it is feasible for even beginning collectors to compile art tape libraries.

Miss Livingston has prepared a free poster-brochure which contains a complete list of the tapes in the exhibition and explains the details of videotape collecting.

To be shown in Lytton Hall simultaneously with "Collectors' Video" is an installation of hundreds of projected slides depicting artists producing works in a wide variety of media. This presentation, called "Projected Art: Artists at Work,' was organized by Elayne Varian, director of the Finch College Museum of Art.

The exhibitions can be seen 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., through Tuesday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and weekends, July 7. Admission is free. The Museum is located at 5905 Wilshire Boulevard.

The Chaffey College Museum-Gallery Auxiliary was formed last year to work with a college committee in support of the recently opened cultural center. The goals are to inform the public what the gallery offers in cultural enrichment and to provide volunteer assistance to the staff. The auxiliary also puts on receptions opening each show.

The auxiliary now has 155 members. Membership is open to all interested persons.

Hollywood cuties getting tougher

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Out there in Oshkosh, far from Hollywood, the folks have the idea that the movie glamor girls are dainty things, who spend their days reclining on their chaise lounges, polishing their nails and drinking champagne all day.

There may be a few loungers in the crowd here, but not many. Today's Hollywood glamor puss is generally a pretty active creature. The only nails she polishes are of the 10-penny kind. She would rather build chaise lounges than lie on them.

Take, for example, Anne Francis. She's as beautiful as a girl can be but she's as dainty and helpless as an oak tree. She's both mother and father to her two daughters and she runs the house single-handed.

"We all play games," she says. "We like to do things we can do well. With me, it's doinging things. I like to stay busy when I'm not acting. Makes me feel life is worthwhile."

So she does things like cut down limbs of trees around the house. She paints furniture. Her next project is to take a lock apart, because she snapped a key off in the lock and half of it is still trapped inside.

"Now I want to study auto mechanics and plumbing," she says. "They are such mysteries. You are at the mercy of the repairmen. I haven't had time yet but I will learn those things before I leave this planet."

Anne has two daughters, Janie is 12 and Maggie is 4. Maggie is adopted, with Anne being one of the first single female parents to be allowed to adopt a child in California.

Janie's big love now is her horse, Beany. When Janie goes to the stable to ride Anne goes along and takes a long walk—three miles or so—which she says is great for keeping in shape.

Anne says she doesn't date very much nowadays. She has many friends, but adds, "nobody who gets me excited."

"Actually," she says, "I'm not looking. Its the same with acting parts—I'm not looking. It only takes one of each. The part will come along. So will the man."

Bowl to offer pre-season festival

HOLLYWOOD — A three-concert Pre-Season Festival of 17th and 18th century music will be presented in the Hollywood Bowl in July British Harpsichordist Raymond Leppard will be soloist and will conduct the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

July 3 is a Bach Harpsichord Feast in which concertos for one, two, three and four harpsichords by the Baroque master will be performed by keyboard artists including Leppard and John Steele Ritter. Short works by Dowland will alternate with the concertos, giving a British view of the pre-Bach Baroque era.

An all-Mozart program July 5 will signal the bowl debut of the American mezzo Frederica Von Stade, singing arias from "La Clemenza di Tito" and "Le Nozze di Figaro," and the return of Los Angeles-born pianist Stephen Bishop, who will play the Concerto in C minor, K. 491. Leppard will conduct Symphoni No. 25 in G Minor and No. 38 in D.

Nova sets concert

LOS ANGELES — The Nova Orchestra of Cal State Los Angeles, under the direction of Michael Zearott, will present a concert in the Campus Theater at 8:30 p.m. June 6.

The orchestra will play Schubert's Symphony No. 8 ("Unfinished"). Beethovens Symphony No. 5 and Torellis "Sinfonia con Tromba."

Tickets are $3 general, $1 for students.

Foreign buyers continue to acquire U.S. property

NEW YORK — U.S. property has become such a popular commodity overseas that foreign investment in the U.S. could conceivably climb to a $5 billion annual rate in the near future, reports the Dun's Review.

That figure is roughly equivalent to the value of all commerical and residential property in the City of Atlanta.

While the Arabs and Japanese generate the most public excitement with their purchases, they have not yet displaced such traditional investors as the Swiss, Dutch, Canadians and English as America's biggest absentee landowners, said the Dun & Bardstreet business monthly in its current issue.

British interests which even own the General Motors Building in Manhattan, have stepped up their purchases of to-grade real estate in such urban centers as New York, Boston, Baltimore, Houston and Detroit.

Among the more recent and widely publicized of their purchases have been the Gimbels department store chain in New York, Travelodge International with 460 motels across the U.S., and Manhattan's elegant Pierre Hotel.

The royal family ranks high among British investors who have long had extensive holdings in some of the highest rent districts in the U.S.

A growing concern over escalating foreign investment, according to the magazine, is spurred in large part by the entry of the Arabs in the land rush, buttressed with swelling reserves of oil dollars that are estimated to reach $400 billion by 1980.

Among the Arqbs, the Kuwaitis so far seem to be the most aggressive investors. The Kuwait Investment Co. recently purchased Kiawah Island off Charleston, So. Carolina, and plans to spend more than $100 million to develop it as a residential resort over the next 15 years.

The Kuwaitis have also bought a cattle feedlot in Idaho, land in California's San Remo Valley and have put up some of the capital for a $250 million real estate project in Louisville, Ky.

Other Arab projects seem less definite at the moment, but a group of Arab banks is setting up First Arabian Bank and First Arabian Corp. as vehicles for buying interests in U.S. banks.

While some foreign investments attract a great deal of attention, there are thousands of other transactions, most of them made quietly by American representatives acting on behalf of foreign customers, that have been noted only in the ledgers of county land offices scattered across the country.

However, Sen. Adlai Stevenson, (D-Ill.), whose Subcommittee on International Finance has been conducting hearings on the possible impact of foreign investment, estimates that outside holdings in the U.S. now amount to close to $15 billion and could grow to more than $35 billion in the next 10 years. Other estimates, says Dun's, suggest that the Stevenson projection could be far too conservative.

The long-range implications are difficult to discern, but foreign competition for U.S. land, particularly by the Japanese and British, who are accustomed to paying soaring prices, seems certain to drive up the price of real estate. And there may be no viable alternative.

If the U.S. did decide to restrict foreign investment in U.S. real estate, it is almost inevitable that the rest of the world would quickly retaliate and that U.S. businesses, as the world's biggest overseas investors, would suffer most. And Dun's quotes an Administration aide as saying that a heavy Arab investment in the U.S., far from being dangerous or disruptive, would have a stabilizing influence on world economics and politics.

Wally's Workshop:

Fix-it job began a new career

By DOROTHEA BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wally and Natalie Bruner, married less than a month, sank every cent they had into the downpayment on a Washingtonville, N.Y. Victorian mansion, 18 rooms sans plumbing or heat but with 125-year-old black varnish on the floors, a nine year accumulation of grime and what Natalie called "wonderful possibilities."

In what Bruner describes as a "two-and-one-half year ordeal," they restored the house to its original splendor —and added the modern amenities.

Wally insists he would never do it again —"Never!" Still, it was an experience that qualified Bruner, a radio broadcaster by profession, as an authentic do-it-yourselfer and led to a career for the couple as producers and hosts of "Wally's Workshop," a weekly television series which demonstrates home repair and construction projects. Wally is author of a book by the same name (Simon & Schuster $7.95), and is a do-it-yourself consultant to U.S. Plywood.

Anything possible

Bruner's advice to less experienced do-it-yourselfers is down-to-earth. He believes anyone can do just about anything —if he wants to and if he has the time, and the patience. This doesn't mean he thinks everyone should tackle everything. It's necessity, not choice, he says, that makes ost do-it-yourselfers. He says each individual must determine for himself what he can and can't, should and shouldn't do.

For instance, speaking of his own indoctrination, Bruner says while he and Natalie "made money on the restoration and enjoyed doing most of it," (they sold the mansion and now live in a house they've remodeled in Indianapolis). His job as a television show host required him to be on the scene only one day a week. Tackling a job the size they did without the time could be disastrous.

For the neophyte, Bruner says, the biggest stumbling block is fear of the unknown. "You've got to take the first step, to learn. There's no mistake that can't be fixed." Bruner says he has done some jobs as many as four times.

It is wise, of course, to start with the smaller projects and work up. Bruner sees plumbing, especially the simple repairs, as do-it-yourself work —"the worst that can happen is a flood." When it comes to electrical work, however, he strongly recommends a professional, except for the simplest repairs, like 'rewiring a lamp or changing a plug' or work like drilling holes and pulling wire under professional supervision.

Read up. There are many books written just for the do-it-yourselfer. Then, if at all possible, try to see it done. "If you're going to install drywall, watch a professional at work." Ask questions of the professionals. Ask friends who've done the job what they learned from the experience. Ask the people where you buy your materials.

Tips

Bruner offers a few tips from his own experience:

—You can do it, but it won't beu simple.

—Try to reach agreement with your spouse before you start. Women, he notes, are pretty good do-it-yourselfers themselves, and even better supervisors. Most of them, he says, tend to be a bit more particular in performing a task than a man. "It usually takes them forever to get it done, but when it is completed, it's a lot closer to perfection than when the average man tackles the same job."

—There are no 30-minute jobs. It takes that long to find the screwdriver.

—Don't count on delivery — add two weeks.

—Measure twice, cut once.

—Use your ingenuity.

—Finish one room before you start another.

Bruner says it isn't likely you'll save much money with do-it-yourself, certainly not if you count the value of your time. But you probably will be able to afford a better job for the same money, putting what you have to spend into materials.

Sales management seminar scheduled

CLAREMONT — A real estate seminar on sales management will be held May 20 at Griswold's Restaurant.

The all day session is sponsored by the California Real Estate Association (CREA) and its 26th district education committee.

The program is open to the public and will learn a unit of credit for board of Realtor and CREA members toward the Graduate, Realtors Institute (GRI) certificate and designation.

"This is an opportunity for real estate practitioners to broaden their knowledge and understanding of their profession," said J. Stan Heckmer, district education chairman.

"The course features advanced materials designed to help Realtors and their salesmen who already have a good working knowledge of the real estate business but who want to learn more, especially new techniques for helping their clients."

The faculty and materials are provided by the CREA with the local board making other conference arrrangements.

Registration is $15 which includes course materials, examination, coffee and lunch. This starts at 8:45 a.m. For more information, persons may contact the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors, 665 N. Garey Ave., Pomona. The telephone number is 623-1607.

So declares Angeline A. Kopka, president of the Women's Council of the National Association of Realtors. She spoke recently at the council's 35th anniversary.

"Women have free entry into the real estate field and they can readily become salesmen or brokers as long as they have the proper licensing for their particular state.

"In additiona, women have always been given equal pay for equal work." Mrs. Kopka, a mother and housewife, is one of the principal operators of a 42 person real estate firm in Nashua, N.H.

"I believe that many women have a distinct advantage over men for counseling in real- estate because of their greater knowledge of the home," she said.

"Women spend more time in the home and they get to know key areas of the home better than men. How many men know if a kitchen has an efficient layout, accessibility to appliances and adequate cabinet space?' she asked.

"How many men can tell whether the laundry area is in a convenient location, whether there is enough closet space, and whether the traffic pattern is favorable."

Because women have this inherent knowledge of the reat estate product — the home — they start out with a greater insight into home buyers and sellers needs than most men do.

"Don't misunderstand me." Mrs. Kopka said. "Men play a very important role in the residential real estate profession but women in the field outnumber men by a wide margin. If a man and a woman without previous experience enter the real estate field, at the outset of their careers the woman will generally have an advantage because of her greater knowledge of the home."

"A home may be a man's castle but it's a woman's workshop," said Mrs. Kopka, who has been a realtor since 1955. "That's why, despite the current tight-money crisis which is hurting home mortgage financing, opportunities for women in real estate are better than ever. Many women start in real estate on a part-time basis because they find it a perfect balance between career and home."

Buyers save gasoline at Franklin Square

CHINO — Residents at the Franklin Square West condominium complex don't need much gasoline for traveling to and from shopping centers.

The development is surrounded by three shopping centers which include discount stores, markets, specialty shops, restaurants, medical offices and banks.

And for those who take occasional trips into Los Angeles or the desert, the Pomona Freeway is nearby.

Buyers have their choice of two and three bedroom units which include automatic garage door openers, trash compactors, built-in kitchen appliances, carpeting, private patios and air conditioning.

The complex also features an olympic-size swimming pool, a jacuzzi whirlpool, a "quiet area" and a gazebo.

The grounds are professionally landscaped and maintained.

Prices range from $21,950 to $26,950. Due to previous financing commitments, these are sold at interest rates below current levels and with as little as 10 per cent down payments required. About half of the units have been sold.

Persons can reach the project by taking the Pomona Freeway to Central Avenue, go south to Walnut Avenue, west to Telephone Avenue and then south to the entrance.

For more information, persons may phone 627-6062 or 982-2215.

FUTURE HOME — This is an artist's concept of a new home being constructed by Lewis Homes of California near 14th Street and Mountain Avenue, Upland. The 39 homes being built represent a $1.25 million valuation. Buyers will have a choice of one or two story designs.

Lewis Homes begins new Upland project

UPLAND — Lewis Homes of California has begun construction of 39 homes on 14th Street west of Mountain Avenue.

This is the second phase of the Lewis Homes-Upland development and will represent a $1.25 million valuation.

Buyers will have their selection of one and two story homes designed in five basic floor plans. The purchase price has been tentatively set at $33,950, said Richard A. Lewis, president.

"We consider it a bit of a scoop that even though construction began on the new homes on the very day newspapers were reporting ballooning interest rates around the nation, we got commitments enabling us to offer 7¾ths per cent financing to qualified veterans," he added. This represents 8 per cent at annual per centage rates.

The homes will feature shake roofs, wood burning fireplaces and garden kitchens. Some models will include built-in homemaker desks and eating bars.

Persons wanting more information may phone 985-3410.

The national cost of living index was up a whopping 10% higher in February over just a year ago. The energy crisis, inflation, material shortages, and consumer demands all add to rising costs that the industry predicts will cause new homes to inflate 8% and possibly 14% by year's end. But you can beat inflation by investing in a new Kaufman and Broad home today. And when 1978 rolls around, you can look back to 1974 and know you made a wise investment.

Basic housing needs must be reexamined

ATLANTA — Government, banks, builders and thrift institutions must reexamine the basic approach to the nation's housing needs.

So declared Willis W. Alexander, executive vice president of the American Bankers Association (ABA), in speaking to 600 bankers attending the national conference on real estate finance here.

"Bankers are willing to join with all groups who service housing to find a more reasonable definition of what is meant by the nation's housing needs," he said.

"In the light of current social and economic conditions, housing needs have changed significantly since 1967. At that time, a president-appointed committee report revealed that 26 million housing units would be needed by 1978.

"And this goal of 26 million new units by 1978 became one of the most quoted figures in national housing and financial publications," he noted.

A report prepared by the Harvard and MIT Joint Center for Urban Studies estimates that 23.3 million new units will be built during the 1970-80 period. This is not significantly different from the 1967 Kaiser Committee report, said Alexander.

What is significantly different in the joint study report is that an estimated 13.1 million households are considered to be "housing-poor." That is, living in conditions that are physically inadequate or too expensive or too small for the number of people, he explained.

"Taking into account the broadened definition of inadequate housing used by the Harvard-MIT study, it seems clear we have not made significant progress in meeting our national housing goal since 1967," Alexander stated.

The current skyrocketing costs of housing today have put the prospect of owning a house beyond the reach of a good many Americans, he observed. "More people are turning to townhouses, condominiums, co-ops, mobile homes and apartments to meet their shelter needs.

"We need to reexamine exactly what it is we're talking about when we say we are going to need 23.3 million new housing units by the end of this decade. It is possible that we are still talking about housing to meet yesterday's needs."

"We've seen an unbelievably diverse list of bills proposed and sometimes passed on the promise that they would help housing. All of this adds up to little more than a bandaid approach to the problem."

The system of specialized financial institutions, limited to shelter-related lending does not serve the best interests of the citizen it was designed to benefit he said.

"Such a system must still compete with the unregulated money market for funds. During periods of rising interest rates, these specialized thrift institutions will always be at a disadvantage in competing for scarce funds."

As an alternative, Alexander suggested that incentives to encourage all financial institutions to lend money for housing would better serve the industry.

"Any system designed to generate housing money must take into account the forces of a free market. A system of incentives would do precisely that," Alexander stated.

"We must reevaluate the nation's housing needs within the context of present-day housing requirements and we must establish a comprehensive approach to financing that housing."

GOOD VALUE IDEAS FROM WRIGLEY'S GUM

Hot water thrift tip. Remove one gallon of water from the bottom of your water heater each month to get rid of sediment that impedes transfer of heat from heater to water.

Storage tips for eggs. To maintain freshness and quality, store eggs promptly in the refrigerator, large end up.

Keep snowtires in good shape for next winter. Store them lying flat in a cool dry place, away from electric motors. Motors give off ozone, which is harmful to tires.

CARNIVAL

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — If the clothesbasket handles break, cut the handles off. Cut two pieces of rope about 12 inches long and put a piece of rope through the holes on each side, tie, and there are your new handles. — FLORENCE.

●

DEAR POLLY — When dusting it is very hard to get into tiny cracks, I save my old cotton-tipped sticks and spray the ends with furniture polish. They are great for this chore. — JULIE.

●

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, % this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — Here's how to make shoe bags for gym shoes or for traveling. Cut legs of worn-out blue jeans to the needed lengths and make a hem in one end of each deep enough to allow a cord to run through for a drawstring. Stitch the other end closed and the bag is ready! — MRS. D.M. of Kansas.

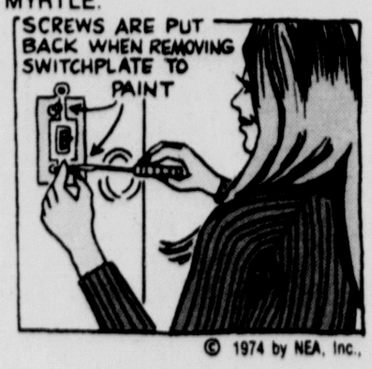
●

DEAR POLLY — My husband has a belt to go with nearly every pair of pants he owns. They were all over his closet. The belt hangers they sell do not seem to do the trick so I made one. I screwed 10 round-head wood screws, evenly spaced, along the top part of the frame of a heavy wood coat hanger. the hanger was then painted so it is easily spotted. Each belt is hung by its buckle to a screw and the others hang over the hanger bar. — ANITA.

●

DEAR POLLY — The plastic cover from a one-pound coffee can will fit snugly over the top of a quart can of motor oil or transmission fluid. This keeps the dirt out of a partially used can and prevents spilling. — J.L.B.

DEAR POLLY — When I remove lighting fixtures and switchplate while walls are being painted or papered, I put the screws right back. When the job is finished there are no lost or misplaced screws. — MYRTLE.



●

DEAR POLLY — With today's high prices many of us must cut every corner we can. I needed a larger size colander, so I made holes in a quart-size plastic ice cream container with a hot icepick. It works perfectly and cost exactly nothing. — MRS. T.H.C.

●

DEAR POLLY — About a year ago we installed a new glass tub enclosure. To avoid a build-up of water spots and soap scum when showering I hung a small hand towel on the rack inside. After each shower the towel is wrung out and used to wipe down the glass. Our enclosure still looks like new. — MRS. S.B.

SHREWS ARE AMONG THE TINIEST MAMMALS ON EARTH. SOME KINDS OF SHREWS ARE ONLY 2 TO 3 INCHES LONG AND WEIGH ABOUT AS MUCH AS A PENNY.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

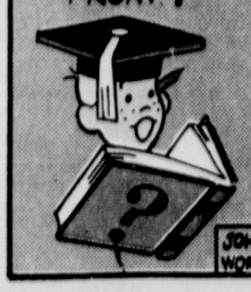
"WHERE DO MY TEARS COME FROM?"



DO YOU KNOW THAT THERE ARE TEARS IN YOUR EYES ALL THE TIME-- EVEN WHEN YOU ARE NOT CRYING? THE TEARS COME FROM SMALL GLANDS THAT ARE IN THE CORNER OF YOUR EYE. EVERY TIME YOU BLINK YOUR EYES, THE MUSCLES IN THE EYELIDS SQUEEZE DROPS OF TEARS FROM THOSE GLANDS WHERE THE SALTY FLUID IS STORED. THE TEARS WASH YOUR EYES AND KEEP THEM HEALTHY. WHEN YOU FEEL WEEPY AND CRY, THE TEARS FLOW TOO FAST TO BE DRAINED AWAY. THEN THEY SPILL OUT OF YOUR EYES AND RUN DOWN YOUR CHEEKS.

'AWAY WE GO . . . AGAIN!

Jackie Gleason — "The Great One" — makes a rare guest-star television appearance when he joins Julie Andrews on the ABC special, Wednesday at 9PM, "Julie Andrews and Jackie Gleason Together."

A dedicated Gleason fan, Julie devotes this hour to paying tribute to Jackie's varied and enormously successful career. Together, they re-create some of the characters Gleason first made famous on television in The Honeymooners, and on The Jackie Gleason Show — the Poor Soul, Reggie Van Gleason, Joe the Bartender. They do

There's a wonderful chemistry between Miss Andrews and Gleason which provides an unusual opportunity for first-rate entertainment—a combination that allows Miss Andrews to use her superb talent for comedy, and affords the viewing audience the chance to enjoy the tremendously versatile Jackie Gleason.

The special, taped in London, posed a difficult problem for Gleason — he never flies. But in honor of this very special event, the man who placed "Away-y-y-y we go" into the language will make his first trans-Atlantic flight in over 20 years. Through all of the many years of his popularity, Gleason's railroad excursions have always provided interesting and often hilarious copy for the press and the public. Gleason and company embark from Miami, Florida in early April, allowing time for some London sightseeing before rehearsals began.

'Lady Boss'

Guest star Jessica Walter, as head of the Police Department's lady cops, clashes with male detectives on a big narcotics case, then is named their boss in the Ironside colorcast of "Amy Prentiss, aka: The Chief," Thursday from 9 to 11PM on NBC. Other guest stars in this special two-hour episode, an NBC Program Development project, are William Shatner, Johnny Seven, Robert Webber and Pippa Scott, as a news gal. Co-stars include Jack Soo, Barry Atwater and Art Metrano. All join series star Raymond Burr and series co-stars Don Galloway, Don Mitchell and Elizabeth Baur.

In order to trap narcotics kingpin Zino Bates (Zitto Kazann), policewomen under the command of Mrs. Prentiss (Miss Walter) are used as drug-buying street people. One of them, thinking she's covered by police, arranges a buy in a pusher's apartment. Instead she's robbed, then assaulted. Amy blames the officer in charge, Det. Lt. Parkins (Shatner) for letting the girl out of his sight. Meanwhile, the city's police chief is ordered by his doctor to quit at once. Commissioner Randall (Gene Lyons) consults exam scores, then Ironside (Burr) and names Det. Chief Hubbard (Atwater) to the top position and Amy to Hubbard's post as Chief of Detectives. The staff of plainsclothesmen (played by Seven, Webber, Soo and Metrano) resign in a body, leaving the new chief with a hot case and no staff.

'Hall of Fame'

Gene Kelly is host for a Wide World of Entertainment Special, "The Entertainment Hall of Fame Awards," a tribute to show business talent, on ABC, Thursday at 11:30PM. There will be 10 awards to gifted individuals who have made outstanding lifetime contributions to the lively arts, with awards divided equally among posthumous and living creators and performers. Posthumous inductees are Judy Garland, George Gershwin, D.W. Griffith, Eugene O'Neill and George Bernard Shaw. The other five inductees are Katharine Hepburn, Charlie Chaplin, Irving Berlin, Laurence Olivier and Tennessee Williams.

THIS WEEK!

MEET THE "BEAUTIFUL PEOPLE" OF P.O.P.

Pacific Ocean Park pier, once a grand and gaudy boardwalk amusement park, has fallen on hard times. It has become a pathetic ruin, constantly set on fire, stripped by scavengers and used as a flophouse for social misfits. The innocent joy-rides are gone. Now the merry-making is mostly X-rated. Homosexuals, transvestites, drunks and drifters are the big attraction. This week, in a special series of reports, KNXT Newsman Bill Applegate explores the bizarre sub-culture that is thriving on the sands.

COVER CLOSE-UP

'MOM STARTED IT ALL'

For a guy who started training for his show business career in the bathroom, Demond Wilson isn't doing badly. Wilson (star of NBC's Sanford and Son) will be a guest star on the "The Bluffers," Tuesday, at 8PM, immediately after the Emmy Awards, on NBC.

Wilson's mother admired dancer-actor Bill Robinson and wanted her son to grow up to be like him. But the family lived in a Harlem flat where the floors were covered with linoleum tile and tap dancing destroyed the linoleum. So little Demond was put in the bathroom, where the floor was covered with a harder, mosaic-type tile, and told to dance. "I didn't really mind," said Wilson. "Looking back I know my mother was what we call a stage mother, but the only times I objected to her was when she made me go on interviews when I wanted to play. I thought I was rather lucky. At 4½, my mother took me to try out for a part in the Broadway play "Green Pastures" starring William Marshall. I got the part — playing a cherub in heaven. And I really believed Marshall was God. You couldn't tell me he wasn't God. How many kids get to be in a play with God?"

Besides his mother, Demond's family consisted of an older sister, Leaunes who was once a pianist and organist, but she fell in love, got married and has a son who is three years older than Demond. The sister is now a supervisor for Ma Bell in New York. The nephew, of whom Demond is quite proud, is a Wall Street stockbroker. Demond's father is named Grady Wilson, also the name of the character in Sanford and Son played by Whitman Mayo. "My father is a black Perry Como. I don't mean he sings like him, but he's verrry easy-going. He doesn't move unless it's absolutely necessary. And it works very well for him. He's 70 and you'd never believe it. His hair is just beginning to gray."

Demond's mother is still a stage mother but a long distance one. "She won't fly," said Wilson, "so she just stays in New York. If she could be here to talk she'd talk you to death. She's always saying, 'I knew he'd make it. I just always knew it.'" They say she even goes to supermarkets and tells all the ladies that she's Demond's mother, the real live mother, not Elizabeth the deceased one to whom Redd Foxx is always calling. After Wilson outgrew his mother's prodding he enrolled in Hunter College in New York where he studied drama and the arts. Two and a half years later he dropped out to make some money, then he got drafted and was sent to Vietnam, to Pleiku in the Central Highlands.

"Vietnam changed me. Everything was cool up until then, but when you're in a war, you suddenly find yourself considering life very seriously. I used to day-dream about what studio I'd be working in when I got back to the states and went to Hollywood. What was worse was that I day-dreamed out loud and the other guys thought I was kinda weird. Now when I meet them they shake their heads in disbelief. But we were very close friends there listening to the howitzers going off around us. Whenever one of us would get a letter, all of us would read it and feel really good about it. I've never had friends like that since, not the male variety."

After being discharged, Wilson tried show business again and went on tour with "The Boys in the Band," a play with a homosexual theme. "That was the one thing my folks weren't too happy about," said Wilson, "I guess they were relieved when I got in my old car and drove to Hollywood." Things happened fast. He got a part in "The Organization" starring Sidney Poitier. Then he got a part in a segment of All in the Family as a burglar. It was from this role, that he was asked to audition for the role of Lamont Sanford. He has heard that some older actors and entertainers criticize him for making it too soon, but he says, "I'm 27 years old and I've been trying to make it since I was 4½. How is it too soon? They just never heard of me until Sanford and Son but I was here all the time."

Away from the TV studio, Demond Wilson is a talkative, smartly dressed bachelor who smiles mysteriously when one asks when his bachelorhood will end. "I have a lady friend who is very special to me, but I'm not saying anything, mainly because my mother may read this and want to know what's going on that I haven't told her about." He will talk about his plans which include staying with Sanford and Son as long as it lasts, playing The Hollywood Squares whenever his schedule permits, doing guest shots in other television series, and perhaps a movie or two if good ones come up. And of course, keeping his mother happy.

'THEATRE IN AMERICA'

With Faye Dunaway, Robert Foxworth, and George Rose in the leading roles, Theater in America encores the highly-praised television production of William Alferd's prize-winning off-Broadway drama, "Hogan's Goat"—the story of a man's destructive drive for political power among the Irish in turn-of-the century Brooklyn. The program airs on KCET, Channel 28, Monday at 10:30PM.

In this production, Miss Dunaway recreates the role she originated when "Hogan's Goat" premiered at New York's American Place Theatre in November, 1965.

The story, written in verse, centers on Irish immigrant Matthew Stanton, who is played by Foxworth. Stanton's long struggle for power has culminated in a chance to unseat the corrupt mayor of Brooklyn (at the time Brooklyn was a city separate from New York City). But his pride and his arrogant manipulation of those who love him, especially his wife, Kathleen, brings tragedy in place of victory.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR JEAN STAPLETON of "All in the Family"*

Have you had very many reactions from Women's Lib about your role of Edith on "All in the Family"? —Monica DuBoce, Hayward, Calif.

● Oh, yes, many advocates of Women's Liberation have commented on the character of Edith. Several oppose her seemingly subservient place to Archie and think she is hurting the movement, while others think she is good for the movement because she brings to light the domineering husband. And still others just love her for what she is—a very honest, straightforward woman, who puts her family and her home above everything and everyone else. Not even the strongest Women's Libbers can fault her affection for all God's creatures, human or animal.

FOR SEN. JACOB K. JAVITS (R-N.Y.)*

Isn't there a danger that the law Congress just passed on war powers will tie the President's hands in the Middle East?—R. Koblitz, San Francisco, Calif.

● If we are to run the risk of war in the Middle East, then it should be by the concurrence of the President and the Congress. That goes for any war, including the Middle East war.

FOR DIONNE WARWICK

Songs by Burt Bacharach and Hal David may be beautiful, but didn't you find working with them restrictive? Will you make any movies?—Mrs. George Moore, Teaneck, N.J.

● No, I wasn't restricted. I felt Bacharach and David are the best songwriters in a thousand years, and I loved doing their songs. As to doing movies, right now I'm not interested. We've all been offered films where you have to take off your clothes, but I'm not going to jump on that bandwagon. It's stupid.

FOR CAROL CHANNING

I've heard that actors have a hard time winding down after their performances. Do you find it hard to relax afterward?—I. Bosler, Medford, Mass.

● Oh, no, it's no problem. I can fall asleep right away. Sometimes after a show I'll get new lyrics to learn for the next day. I'll read them over before I go to bed and then I'll wake up every three hours and go over them during the night. But I go right back to sleep.

FOR DICK WILLIAMS, former manager of the Oakland A's*

Some athletes and managers say that once the game starts they are oblivious to booing. Do you agree?—Vince Morton, Durham, N.C.

● I never minded being booed by the fans in another city. But it always bothered me when my teams were booed by the fans in their own city. That bothers players, no matter what they say.

FOR SEN. GEORGE S. McGOVERN (D-S.D.)*

I prefer organic foods myself. Why all the fuss over a scarcity of chemical fertilizer? — Dennise O'Neill, Ft. Mitchell, Ky.

● Because about one-third of the total food and fiber production in the U.S. is directly attributable to the application of fertilizer. It's that simple. In my judgment, what we are dealing with is nothing short of a national emergency.

FOR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

You talk sex, but why do you wear such unsexy, cover-up-to-the-neck clothes?—Nora Wvcinski, Trenton, N.J.

● Clothes must fit one's own life-style. My life-style is one of communications, and my clothes ought not to distract from this. But my fashion image has changed a great deal in the past two years, and I've become much more style-conscious and appreciative of fine clothing.

FOR REX REED, film critic*

Some people consider Sam Peckinpah's "The Wild Bunch" about the bloodiest Western ever made. Do you approve of movies like that?—Tom Todd, North Highlands, Calif.

● I thought "The Wild Bunch" was sloppy, turgid, rhetorical and dull, with a slaughterhouse of carnage simmering underneath it all, like a rotting fungus, giving Peckinpah a good leer at the expense of a gullible public that likes to be outraged. Trash is still trash, even when the blood spurts in slow motion disguised as art.

FOR ORSON BEAN

What has become of you? I used to see you on TV all the time. Then you seemed to disappear.—Mrs. M. A. Palmer, Covina, Calif.

● What became of me? Well, I decided that there were more important things in life than pursuit of success. I still like to work on occasion (and have to work on occasion to eat), but mainly I'm with my wife and four kids—enjoying life, communing with nature and being a house-husband. And I appear most every evening in the kitchen doing the dishes after dinner.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

● You don't hear too much about her now because she doesn't want to work in the theater anymore and is constantly rejecting offers for the stage. She prefers to make records and an occasional TV appearance. She recently cut two albums in London—"Miss Merman Sings Merman" and "Ethel's Ridin' High." And, although this is not publicly known (Miss Merman likes to keep it quiet), she works as a volunteer one day a week at a New York hospital, as a saleslady in the gift shop.

that." Thereupon, he turned his Senate office thermostat as low as it can go – 60 degrees – and that's where it remains. "We all wear sweaters around here," says a secretary, "and sometimes a sweater on top of a sweater. But we're with the Senator in anything he thinks will help our country."

Rep. Claude Pepper of Florida has a thing about razor blades: "I have to force myself to buy new razor blades," he told this reporter. "I keep thinking, 'I know I can get more shaves out of this.' I'm the perfect man for the Wilkinson ad. I will go the greatest number of shaves possible on a blade and then I will have to strain myself to get up to the counter and get some more." According to his aides, Representative Pepper also saves everything else, even old license plates. "He loves to save," confides an assistant, "and he tells himself that it's justified because it helps make a complete record of one man's life in public service."

Albert: "I won't be back, will you turn out the lights?"

Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma: The Speaker of the House is a different kind of ecology hound. The man who was just a heartbeat away from the Presidency after the resignation of Spiro Agnew goes through the office turning off all things electrical. He turns off all lights that are not actually helping anyone and he turns off all electric typewriters he hears buzzing. And as if that doesn't make his point, he never fails, when leaving the office early, to turn to his secretary and say, "Well, I won't be back, so will you turn out the lights?" With his wife, he practices another economy—bulk buying, actually accompanying her to the grocery store to help her figure out the best buys.

Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin: "My favorite economy is walking several miles each way to and from work," says the slim, trim Senator, who keeps a set of hiking clothes both at home and at the office. "I once figured out that I save $1,200 a year by walking and jogging instead of taking cabs. It's an economy that I'd like to see spread because it cuts down on the consumption of gasoline and protects health by keeping the body in good tone."

Gerald Ford is another man who makes a point of turning out unused lights, including those in halls, but he has another pet economy that intrigues his office staff—he uses a pencil right down to the stub. "That comes of sending kids to school," he explains. "If you want to raise thrifty kids, you have to set the example."

Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, amazes his staff and all who know him by bringing his lunch to work. "Yes, I brown-bag it every day," he smiles. "I get exactly what I want—plenty of fruit, luncheon meat, the kind of bread I like, and I save a couple of dollars a day. But even more important is that I can sit and think as I eat and read, and do some work. It's a great time-saver." The Senator keeps a small refrigerator in his office.

Why Models Stay Young Till Sixty!

—rinse so much shine into their hair that it has to be powdered down so it doesn't glare into the TV cameras!
—smooth out ugly veins from their hands and feet, in exactly the same way that they smooth out ugly lines from their necks and faces!

These Beauty Secrets—And Dozens More Just Like Them—Earn These Women Up To $100 An Hour! Now They Are YOURS For Only A Few Pennies Apiece!

What we are offering you, in fact, is the world's first "inside" manual on how ordinary women (with perhaps a slightly better face and a slightly better figure than yours) are transformed overnight into stunning beauties! With pounds carved painlessly off their figures! Years smoothed effortlessly off their faces! Every good feature perfected, and every bad feature either corrected or disguised!

And then—when the absolute exquisite face-figure has been created out of the raw girl who first came into the studio—this dazzling physical beauty is then "frozen" against time and weight-gain-of-even-an-ounce for ten . . . twenty . . . even forty years!

For great models are not born; they are made! (On page 10 of this eye-opening volume, you are taken behind-the-scenes in the most glamorous "sorority" in the world, and you are shown that there is scarcely a model alive who did not need to have ten or twenty pounds whisked off her figure, and a major transformation made on her face, before a top model agency offered her a contract!)

But these women made themselves slim, and made themselves radiant far more cleverly and easily than you have ever dreamed. Let us prove that to you right now:

Take Slimming, For Example! How Would You Like To Eat What You Want, When You Want It—And Still Get And Stay Slim Forever!

Let us just quote one of the models whose "forever-young, forever-slim" secrets are revealed here! She says, quite frankly, "I positively adore food. And I never, but never, starve myself. Yet I weigh the same today as when I started modelling more than ten years ago." (Italics ours.)

Why? Because she uses the "Self-Maintaining Diet"! The diet that's fun, that's the happiest of adventures! That actually tames, overnight, those sudden wild urges that destroy your figure! That re-educates your taste buds and your metabolism, so that you find yourself able to eat what you want, when you want it, without gaining so much as an ounce—and (at least at the beginning) losing as much as a pound a day!

Using this diet strategy, food becomes an ally rather than an enemy! It fills you up, but never out! Using this strategy, one model went from 140 pounds to 123 pounds in well under a single month—and she still ate what she pleased on weekends!

Using this strategy, every other model (with the exception of one or two) who faithfully followed it for ten days lost ten big pounds—to start! Another (a perfectionist) went from 133 to 97 pounds! Another, who was bottom-heavy, not only shed ugly pounds all over her body—but spot-exercised the flab right off her bottom so perfectly that she now does bathing suit ads!

For example:
Of all women, a successful model must always be a healthy, sexually vibrant, powerhouse of energy! She must be able to "turn on the dazzle" at a moment's notice—despite the fact that she has been dashing all over the city, toting pounds of clothes, a make-up kit, and often a wig box! Here are the "glamour vitamins" that turn on such amazing stores of physical vitality—ready to go to work for you within seconds after you read page 42!

Nor can an $80-an-hour model afford the slightest trace of dandruff! After trying all the expensive treatments and preparations, here's how they simply rinse the ugly flakes away, at home, in seconds—for pennies! (Page 63.)

And glasses are out too! Weak eyes, aging eyes, dull eyes can cost a model her career! These top models believe that most women take to spectacles simply because of lazy eye muscles, just as most women take to girdles because of lazy body muscles! And if you want to escape the "eyeglass-prison"—perhaps far faster than you've ever dreamed—check page 68 the moment you get this book!

And how about strong, sexy teeth! Did you ever hear, for example, of the new sealants that can be applied to your teeth in seconds, to shield them from harmful bacteria! (See page 73.)

SPECIAL BONUS SECTION: Tips from top hand models that may solve your rough, red problem forever! They say bluntly that there is simply no excuse any longer for hands that are anything else but silken smooth—and nails that are as strong as steel! One glance at the "magic" hand exercises on page 81 may convince you, for good!

PLUS, of course, the same "million-dollar know-how" for your feet as well! Including a natural-fruit way to keep their skin exquisitely white and fine-pored! And a simple little action that builds a natural-shield against calluses right into them!

Just MOVE the way you're shown on pages 89 to 103 . . . and watch inches seem to evaporate into thin air—as though you could practically "smile" them away!

Here are special, super-effective slimmers for the stomach, legs, hips, calves, derriere, arms, bosom—and especially that embarrassing "below-stomach bulge" that otherwise grows larger and larger! Also two startling "firmer-uppers" for neck lines and for bags under your eyes that you must try at once if you suffer from either one!

How to achieve the illusion of a near-perfect face (for example, if you have a receding chin, how to "add" to it in seconds) . . .

And Much, Much More! But Read Them All—Prove Them All, From Cover To Cover—Without Risking A Penny!

This book is for people who want to get things done! You owe it to yourself to try it! We take all the risk! Why not send in the coupon—TODAY!

RUSTY STAUB:

He's the "Galloping Gourmet" Of Baseball!

Baseball fans know Daniel "Rusty" Staub as the $100,000-a-year outfielder who helped the New York Mets win the National League flag. Gourmets, however, know him as the best cook in baseball. He has had as many as 80 people in at one time to enjoy his culinary skills and receives kudos for his service as well as his recipes. "I like to serve in the elegant manner," he says. "I favor Waterford crystal, Wedgwood china and, of course, sterling." . . . Staub, 29, is a redheaded native of New Orleans who developed into an amateur chef through his mother's coaching. He keeps a loose-leaf book titled "My Recipes" next to his kitchen stove. . . . When he signed his professional baseball contract out of Jesuit High School in New Orleans, Staub found he had to do a great deal of traveling. He didn't like to eat out so he started to cook for himself in his apartment. Teammates spoke so highly of his skills that girl friends and wives began asking him for recipes. . . . Staub was bedeviled by injuries in 1972 and 1973 but nevertheless sparked the Mets' comeback drive, which enabled them to win the division title on the last day. His shoulder was damaged when he crashed into a wall during the play-offs against the Cincinnati Reds, but despite this handicap, he batted .423 in the World Series. . . . Staub has the reputation of being a great "swinger" as well as a great chef but claims this is an exaggeration. "If I went out with as many girls as they say I do, I'd never have the time to play baseball," he tells you.

The Diet Watch

What Are the Dangerous Weight-Gaining Ages?

At what stages in your adult life should you be detective-alert to the possibility of putting on weight? For women, critical periods are during a first pregnancy and after menopause. This is due to hormonal factors. Another critical period for women is just after the age of 21, because a girl begins to exercise less and doesn't lower her caloric intake to compensate. Men? A critical period is between the ages of 25 and 40, when men generally decrease their activity, but don't change their adolescent big-eating habits. Both men and women inadvertently tend to gain weight after 50 because of a lowered basal metabolic rate and decreased exercise—unless they adjust their calories accordingly. If you're in one of these susceptible periods, increase your activity and cut down calories. Even if the susceptible period is a temporary stage (as in pregnancy) you can later go back to former habits—but you may happily find yourself adjusted to staying on the slimmer (and healthier) side.

Group Marriages: What Makes People Join?

Why do some young adults take so enthusiastically to experiments in group marriage or communal living? Some are idealists trying to remake society. But a new study suggests that many grew up in homes in which the parents did not present a "united front." Frequently the parents had markedly contrasting religious and political views. They also differed on what their children's life goals should be and didn't give them any pattern of values. Young men and women from such homes sometimes report that they obtained their life philosophy from TV or other media rather than from their families. They may be attracted to group marriage or communal living in hopes of finding "the acceptance, security and meaningful relationships" they've failed to find in their original families.—By Shirley Sloan Fader

The Doctor Lets You In

Sinuses: Why on Earth Do We Have Them?

Did Nature goof when she made sinuses? Many sinus sufferers have thought so. Actually, there are about 25 sinuses, or air cavities, in the body. The ones that bother us are those called the paranasal sinuses that are located in the forehead and on each side of the nose. We do know that they do two things: give resonance to the voice and help to make the skull lighter. It is also believed that they act as a reservoir to make air moist and warm. Sinus trouble—or sinusitis—is caused by an inflammation of the lining of the sinus, usually through germs but sometimes through allergy. How can you fight it? First, shrink the tissues, either through the use of tablets or a vasoconstrictor nose spray. (One word of caution: Overuse of these products—particularly the nose sprays—can cause a "rebound" effect.) Second, do try to breathe through the nose. This helps ventilate the sinus passages. Finally, drink fluid and take aspirin to reduce the headache. In some severe cases, it may be necessary to have your sinuses drained by a doctor.

Smart Cooking Kids in the Kitchen

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen talks about peanut butter. Says Marilyn, "Feeding the kids a peanut butter sandwich comes in handy. It's quick, easy, right at your fingertips, and kids love it. What Mother may not know is just how nutritious peanut butter can be!"

"The Do-It-Yourself Complete Peanut Butter Sandwich Meal"

Elizabeth Gee

A peanut butter sandwich, a glass of milk and an orange will provide 30 percent of all the nutrients experts say you need for a full day.

THE DO-IT-YOURSELF COMPLETE PEANUT BUTTER SANDWICH MEAL

2 tablespoons peanut butter
2 slices whole wheat bread or enriched white bread
1 (8 ozs.) glass of milk
1 orange, quartered

1. Spread peanut butter on one slice of bread. Top with second slice of bread, cut in half. Place on plate.

2. Serve sandwich with milk and orange.

Makes 1 complete peanut butter sandwich meal

A sandwich made with two tablespoons of peanut butter and two slices of whole wheat bread provides 30 percent of a child's Recommended Daily Allowance of protein, 40 percent of the niacin and 15 percent of the iron, along with other vitamins and minerals. Vitamins A and C are about the only "notable absences." Drink an eight-ounce glass of whole milk with the sandwich, and there is a jump in all three major nutrients plus vitamin A, calcium, phosphorus and riboflavin. A peanut butter sandwich with whole or skim milk is close to being a nutritionally balanced meal. But where do you find vitamin C? In an orange, of course! So make an orange the "dessert"! Such a "meal" will bring all the nutrients to good energy levels, with most of them at 30 percent or more of the Recommended Daily Allowance.

PEANUT BUTTER SNACK BARS

¼ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons plus ⅓ cup peanut butter
¼ cup honey
⅓ cup brown sugar, packed
3 cups natural cereal
½ cup semisweet chocolate pieces

1. Line a 9-inch-square baking pan with foil.

2. In 1-qt. saucepan combine butter, 2 tablespoons peanut butter, honey and brown sugar. Heat over low heat, stirring occasionally, until smooth and sugar is melted.

3. Pour hot mixture over cereal in large bowl, stir well. Turn cereal mixture into foil-lined pan, press down evenly. Cool completely.

4. Make frosting: Combine chocolate pieces and ⅓ cup peanut butter in top of double boiler over hot (not boiling) water. Stir until chocolate melts and mixture is smooth. Spread over cereal mixture. Chill until firm. Cut into bars. Makes 3 dozen bars

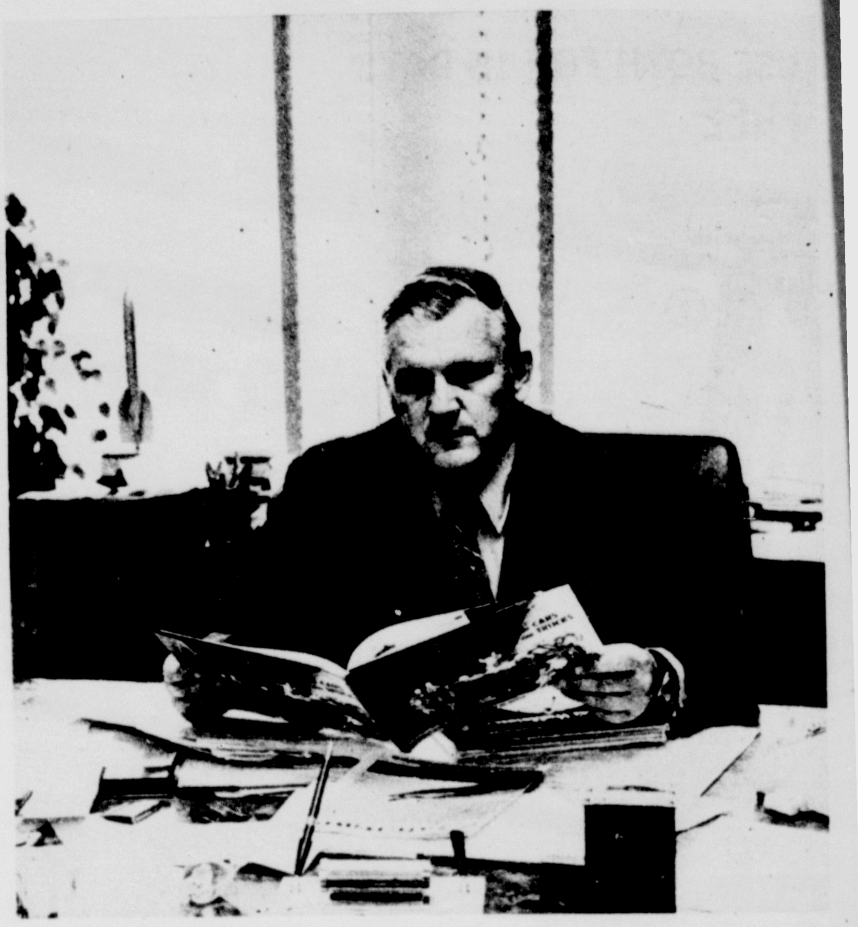
If you ever wanted to write...for pleasure or profit...here is your opportunity.

by Francis R. Gemme



Francis R. Gemme, consultant to the Institute of Children's Literature is President and Publisher of Young Readers Press.

We need writers. There are over 200 publishers of books for children and more than 400 magazines for young readers . . . that need writers.

We know that many people could help fill this void in children's literature, if they could only get started. Are you one of these people? Do you have the urge to write and the ambition but are unable to get professional training or are tied to your home or job? Perhaps you are too unsure of yourself to start.

Have you ever read a children's story and said, "I can do better than that"? Have you ever deplored the lack of good new literature for young readers? Do you love children? Do you want to do something important with your life? And earn the rewards and satisfaction of writing for children? That very attitude may be the signal that you can do it. For the desire and interest must come first.

Stories only you can write.

Once you understand and utilize the basic techniques, writing for children may be easier than you think. Your personal experiences, fantasy, human nature, nature itself, hobbies, all lend themselves to good subjects. Many of these have been written about – plainly and simply – and have been published. You probably have within yourself many children's stories only you can write.

The Institute of Children's Literature was founded to encourage more and better writing for young readers. Top writers and publishers have worked together to create this professional course to teach you to write for children and teenagers. People like Lee Wyndham, a teacher and author of forty-eight books, ranging from the picture book age into the high teens, and over two hundred short stories, articles and serials–Hardie Gramatky, author and illustrator of many famous children's books like his Little Toot – and John Ledes, President of Astor Honor Books, who has published many award-winning children's books. Together we have written and published hundreds of books and magazine articles for young readers. We know how to write – how to teach – and how to help you get your writing published.

Learning to write and sell.

The early success of the course has been repeated time and time again by people like yourself who knew in their hearts they could write good things for children.

This course will train you step by step, from writing an opening sentence through the writing and selling of a finished manuscript. Yes, you will have a completed manuscript when you finish the course.

Because writing is such a personal profession, we believe that the teaching of this course must also be personal. That is why in addition to writing materials, text books, instruction and assignments, you will receive personal guidance from your own instructor on every lesson.

The instructor chosen for you will be a professional writer who will stay with you throughout the course. He will show you how to utilize your personal feelings, experiences, imagination and interest to write for children–in your spare time at home.

Work at your own pace.

A writing course is best learned at home when you feel like working. There is no bell to end the class, no interruption from other students. You and your instructor can work together at the pace and depth desired. This personal pace allows more time for each student than is possible in a classroom situation.

You mail your completed work to your instructor who carefully reads and edits each assignment. He then writes you a long personal letter explaining in detail his corrections and makes specific recommendations. You receive professional advice and guidance from the same instructor throughout the course. And you work where you want and when you want.

The rewards.

Although many writers of children's books earn $10,000 to $15,000 and more a year, the benefits of a writing career include the challenge, the excitement, and great satisfaction of doing something important with your life. When you complete this course you will be a qualified writer with a future. And what a future!

The market is unlimited. It is the constant cry of editors and publishers, of both books and magazines, that they need more good manuscripts for young readers.

More than 200 publishers of children's books produce over 3,000 books each year with total sales of $170,000,000! And over 400 periodicals for young readers have a combined circulation exceeding 80,000,000. Books and magazine articles for children are made into TV shows and movies. And there are twenty-four children's book clubs and a rapidly growing children's paperback market.

Writing is only satisfying when your work is published, and for writers of children's literature it is easier now than ever to find a publisher.

Will you take the first step?

You may be a teacher, be taking care of your home, or be a concerned grandparent. You may believe that you do not have the necessary background to become a successful writer. But as an author you will be judged by your writing ability, not your sex, age or education.

For instance, women writers are on the best seller list as often as men. And in the field of children's books and magazines there are as many women editors as men.

Free test.

To find qualified men and women with writing aptitude worth developing, the Faculty and Consultants of the Institute have prepared a special Aptitude Test. It is offered free and will be graded free by a member of our staff.

If you want to be a writer send in the coupon below for this free test and a free brochure which fully describes the Institute course and faculty, the current publishing market for children's literature and a new future for you. If you have writing aptitude, you will be eligible to enroll. Of course, there is no obligation.

Glenda Jackson:
The Quiet Woman Who Just May Be Our Greatest Actress

"You see, I am something of an ugly duckling. My eyes are too small, and I have rotten skin. As a matter of fact, I don't think anything about me is physically attractive!"

In 1971 Glenda Jackson won an Academy Award for her performance in "Women in Love." A year later she was an Oscar nominee for her part in "Sunday, Bloody Sunday." This year she won her second Oscar for her role in Mel Frank's sophisticated comedy "A Touch of Class." There is not much doubt about it. When I talked with Glenda, I was talking with the best actress in the world today.

FAMILY WEEKLY: How do you feel about winning a second Oscar?

GLENDA: Surprised. And flattered. I was very happy to win one. I didn't expect another.

FW: Your role in "A Touch of Class" was quite a change of pace for you, wasn't it?

GLENDA: Yes, and I enjoyed it immensely. It was my first chance to make people laugh.

FW: You appeared nude in "Women in Love," "Negatives," "The Music Lovers" and "Sunday, Bloody Sunday." Would you consider yourself a sex goddess?

GLENDA: I don't look at it that way. I analyze a scene only by the content of the script, of the story itself. Besides, I consider myself a "character woman."

FW: Then you don't mind nudity in films?

GLENDA: I don't.

FW: How does your husband feel about it?

GLENDA: He doesn't mind either—provided it's well played and an integral part of the story. I look upon myself as the actor side of the actor-director partnership. I thought what I was asked to do was valid, so I did it.

GLENDA: I can think of nothing I would not do in a film if I thought it was valid, apart from murder or something cruel.

FW: How long have you been acting?

GLENDA: For over 20 years, 15 of them in the theater.

FW: Do you enjoy it?

GLENDA: No, I don't. I savor it. I don't know if that's the right way to put it, but there are so many insurmountable

Can YOU Collect $1,000's In Free G.I. Veterans Benefits?

Amazing Facts Revealed — 265 Free Benefits For Qualified Veterans Of Vietnam, Korea, WWII — Up To 30 Years After Discharge!

by Paul Michael

© Copyright 1974, Good News Publishing Company

No matter what your branch of service—whether you've been a veteran for 30 days or 30 years—start collecting your free G.I. benefits immediately!

You don't know me from Adam, but I have dug up some absolutely startling facts and information that can mean thousands of dollars in YOUR pocket!

You gave some of the best years of your life to Uncle Sam—in the service.

You served honorably to protect your country in time of great national emergency—in World War II, Korea, Vietnam!

But, when was the last time YOU got something from your Government?

Last week? Last month? Last year? Never?

If you are like most of us, you believe that you are not entitled to any free G.I. benefits and services—or, that all your benefits ran out a long time ago.

NOT TRUE!

For example, did you know that . . .

- If YOU are a World War II veteran YOU are entitled to up to $12,500 in G.I. loans to purchase, construct, refinance or improve your home—to buy a farm, farm machinery, supplies, equipment!
- If YOU are a Korean veteran YOU are entitled to borrow up to $10,000 to buy a mobile home—up to $17,500 if the site is included!
- If YOU are a Vietnam veteran YOU are entitled to up to $210.00 a month for 36 months to pay for your education or retraining.
- If YOU are the wife, son or daughter of a soldier who was killed or wounded in Vietnam, Korea or World War II—you have $1,000's in free benefits and services owed to you right now!

And, as a veteran or dependent, you may well be entitled to FREE medical treatment, FREE dental treatment—FREE education for your children—FREE job-finding assistance—Civil Service preference—special low-interest loans and mortgages—thousands upon thousands of dollars worth of benefits and services!

I made this discovery quite by accident. A friend of mine down in Miami told me that I was entitled to $210.00 a month in educational benefits, even though I was discharged over 20 years ago. He was right!

It started me thinking and digging into the mass of confusing rules and regulations on free G.I. benefits due to all veterans. Here are some of the things I found out:

- Free G.I. benefits and services DO NOT come to you automatically. You will NEVER get a letter from the Government or the V.A. telling you about them. YOU must know about them—YOU must qualify for them—YOU must apply for them!
- You are probably being "cheated" out of $1,000's in these free benefits and services.
- You are entitled to these free benefits and services—whether you have been out of the service for 30 days—or even 30 years!
- The money to pay for these free services has already been set aside by Congress. It is just sitting there waiting for you and/or your dependents to claim it.

It's a darned shame that you haven't been told until now. The veterans' rights mess is such a scandal that some Congressmen are calling for an investigation!

But, it's not too late. The important thing is that NOW you can claim your rightful share—the share you "paid for" with your time in service. Last year alone it added up to a $9 billion bonanza! Don't be too surprised to learn that you may be entitled to:

- G.I. Bill aid worth up to $8,000 during four years of enrollment in a qualified college or educational institution!
- The nation's best buy in life insurance that offers real protection!
- Fulltime or outpatient medical care in a VA hospital!
- Pensions as high as $130.00 per month even when the disability is not connected with military service!
- Preference in competing for and retaining a job with the federal government!
- VA guaranteed or direct loans to buy, build or improve a home in which you intend to live or a farm which you plan to operate!

These free benefits and services could fill a book. And now, with the help of a friend, that's exactly what I've done. I call it "How To Get What The U.S. Government Owes Veterans And Their Dependents!" It shows over 265 benefits and services available to qualified veterans of Vietnam, Korea and World War II. But it doesn't just list them, mind you, it tells you how to get them. It tells you what to do to qualify, who to contact (including all necessary names and addresses) and what to say. And perhaps most important of all, the editors have taken out all the technical language and have cut through the usual red tape to make it easy for you to apply for and get all the free benefits and services you are entitled to without problems or hassles!

Although this book can mean hundreds and perhaps thousands of dollars to you, it is priced at only $4.95. Remember, it is not enough to qualify for veterans benefits and services—you must know exactly how to apply for them.

2 Extra Reports—Free!

Yes! When you order right away, you get 2 Extra Reports—Free! Free Report #1: "How Veterans Can Get All The Help They Need From Veterans Organizations!" Free Report #2: "How Veterans Can Get All The Help They Need From The Red Cross!"

$100.00 In Benefits—Guaranteed!

In fact, you have a double, 100% no-risk guarantee. If you don't like the book when it arrives, return it for an immediate refund of your $4.95, no questions asked. Or, keep it and use it for a full year. If you don't collect at least $100.00 in free benefits and services, send it back next year. You still get your $4.95 back!

Just One More Thing . . .

We all see newspaper ads by fly-by-night operators. They use phoney names and hide behind post offices box numbers and care only about getting your money. I can assure you that I am a real person; a veteran (US 51347738); that I really work for the Good News Publishing Company (you can look us up in the telephone book —or stop by for a visit); that I'm really interested in helping you and other veterans claim your rightful share of free G.I. benefits. Think about that for a moment!

problems in each picture, in each scene, that when one is done well I get satisfaction out of it. Well, maybe even that isn't the right way of putting it. Let us say it is continually interesting.

FW: Are you ambitious?

GLENDA: I'm lazy by nature, so I really don't want to work hard unless I'm interested in something. Yet every time I accept a script I'm immediately sorry about it because I have to devote so much time to it and away from my family.

FW: What does your family consist of?

FW: Is your husband an actor?

GLENDA: He used to be. Then he became a director. Now he's an art dealer.

FW: Did you always want to become an actress?

GLENDA: No. When I was little I wanted to be a ballerina.

FW: What made you change your mind?

GLENDA: I just got too bloody big! There wasn't anybody around who wanted to lift me!

FW: And you went directly into acting after that?

GLENDA: No, I left grammar school when I was 16 with no special ambitions and for two years I worked at a pharmacy. It was at that time that I joined the local amateur-theatrical society because I thought there must be more to life than the chemist's shop. And then I applied to the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts and they accepted me. I am not very adventuresome, but when something comes up that I like I become very tenacious.

FW: I understand you have been married only once, yet you have had four wedding rings. Isn't that a bit unusual?

GLENDA: The first one was very cheap, really. It simply broke. The second one wasn't much more expensive and dissolved when I washed some diapers in too much bleach. The third one slipped off my finger and down the drain. [She showed me a beautiful wide gold wedding ring set with diamonds.] I hope this one will last!

FW: Do you like jewelry?

GLENDA: I wore earrings once, but somehow they weren't me. I'm not much for jewelry, or for that matter, fancy clothes. If I don't have to get dressed up for official functions, I prefer wearing plain trousers. They're the most comfortable, and I'm all for comfort.

FW: What is your biggest problem in acting?

GLENDA: To find the proper material. That's how you end up doing revivals of plays and films —and some of them are done very well. It's depressing and boring. As I said, I am a "character woman" and there are not that many good parts about. You see, I am something of an ugly duckling. My eyes are too small, and I have rotten skin. As a matter of fact, I don't think anything about me is physically attractive!

FW: Is that why you did "Mary, Queen of Scots" a few months after portraying Queen Elizabeth on TV in "Elizabeth R"?

GLENDA: Yes. But I did it a second time because I wanted to play opposite Vanessa Redgrave. And besides, after years of sex stuff and playing neurotic ravers, I thought it would be nice to play a part my mother could see in the cinema and say, "That's my Glenda."

FW: One last question: How do you feel about the fact that within a comparatively short time you have become the most sought-after movie star in the world?

GLENDA: I wouldn't say I am surprised—STUNNED is the word!

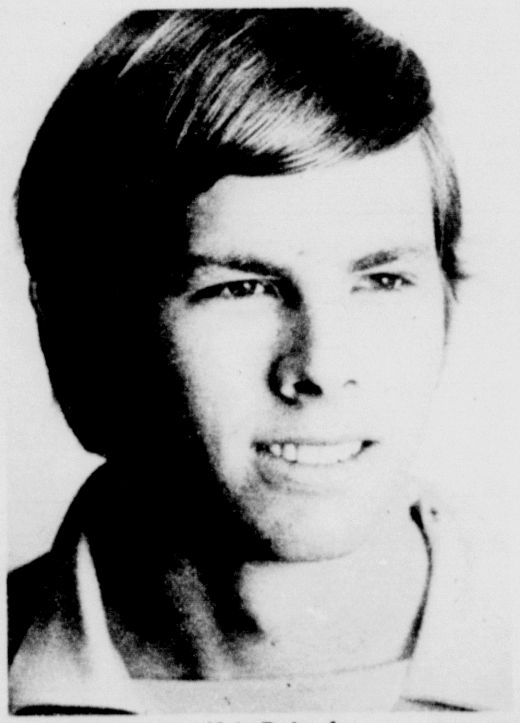
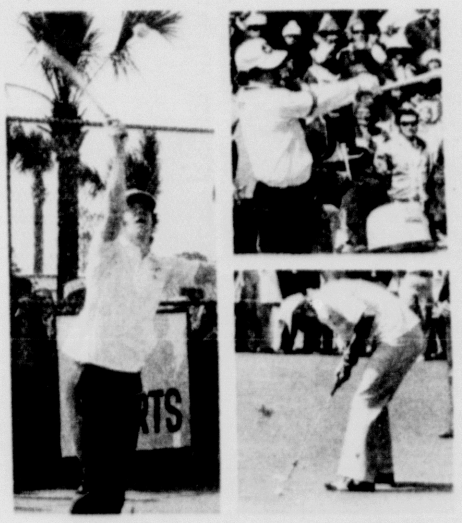
Kyle Rote Jr.: / The Unknown

"When the dust finally settled, one man stood alone in first place. It was not O. J. Simpson. It was not Seagren, Havlicek or Rose. It was Kyle Rote Jr."

By Larry Bortstein



Soccer star Kyle Rote, Jr. . . .



. . . and some of the "Superstars" events he competed in.

Last February, a group of the greatest athletes in the world gathered in Rotonda, Fla., to compete in the "Superstars" competition. O. J. Simpson was there. So were Bob Seagren, John Havlicek and Pete Rose. Each was required to compete in seven of ten events—not including their own specialties. A lot was at stake. Not only would the winner get more than $50,000—but there were all the intangibles of pride and ego.

When the dust finally settled, one man stood alone in first place. It was not O. J. Simpson. It was not Seagren, Havlicek or Rose. It was a relatively unknown young man with a very well-known name: Kyle Rote, Jr.

The name Kyle Rote, of course, is synonymous with football. Kyle Rote, Sr., was an All-America halfback at SMU and fashioned an excellent 11-year NFL career with the New York Giants before retiring to enter the field of sports broadcasting.

It seemed a sensible route for his son to follow--except it wasn't the one Kyle Jr. wanted to pursue. First, after graduating from high school in Dallas, he accepted a football scholarship to Oklahoma State University. "I know people at SMU were disappointed," Kyle says, " and quite a few other people were upset by my leaving Texas and the Southwest Conference."

But young Rote's biggest decision was yet to come. After a year, he questioned the relevance of big-time collegiate football. "I was the type of student who had to avoid distractions in order to get good grades. The atmosphere for football players at Oklahoma State wasn't conducive to classwork. I had to find a small school where I could get along and do what I wanted."

Kyle found his answer at the tiny University of the South in Sewanee, Tenn. Once a major football power in its own right, Sewanee now nestles quietly atop the plateau of the Cumberland River, far from the glamour and crowds of big-time athletics. There were no athletic scholarships for Sewanee students. But Kyle Jr. would have had to search high and far to find any college with a scholarship in the sport he decided to embrace.

The sport was soccer, and by the time he enrolled at Sewanee in 1969, Kyle had played it only two years, and then only on a rudimentary level. Soccer has long been a stepchild of American sports, appreciated mostly by immigrants from nations where it is the sport. Kyle barely knew of its existence until he and several high school football teammates tried it as a summer conditioner. Then one

Ron Griffith, an Englishman from Blackpool who was a sports correspondent for a Scottish newspaper, came upon Kyle and his friends kicking a soccer ball around one hot summer afternoon. Griffith offered to teach them the finer points of the game.

"At first we were offended by this guy butting in," recalls Kyle. "But we soon realized he could help us a lot. Pretty soon we formed a team called the Black Bandits and we scrimmaged other local teams."

Armed with a degree in psychology and a new wife, Mary Lynne, of Rossville, Ga., Kyle returned to Dallas in June, 1972, uncertain of his future. The Dallas Tornadoes of the North American Soccer League offered him a playing contract that, by their own admission, was more of a public relations ploy than a serious attempt to recruit a new player.

"I had a lot of local appeal," Kyle concedes, "and I had played soccer, so it was a logical move on their part. Except they didn't really feel I would ever be an important player. The job they offered me was a combination player-public relations director."

Joining the Tornadoes with the 1972 season more than half completed, Kyle only played in practice, but his potential for the game began to emerge.

"My size [six feet and 185 pounds] is bigger than average for soccer," he points out, "and I learned how to use it to good advantage." Rote also discovered he had a natural aptitude for "heading" the ball. Since the use of arms and hands is prohibited in soccer, except by goaltenders, players must pass the ball either by kicking it or hitting it off their heads.

"It's mostly a matter of timing," Kyle explains. "You have to time the movement of your head with the flight of the ball."

When the 1973 NASL season began the following April, Kyle was a regular member of Dallas' playing roster. He quickly proved that Tornado Coach Ron Newman was correct in his judgment of the young Sewanee graduate by scoring a goal in the first game of the year. By the end of the season Rote was the league's scoring champion (ten goals, ten assists) and rookie of the year.

Playing center forward, a position analogous to center in basketball and hockey, Kyle helped the team go all the way to the championship final of the NASL, before bowing to the Philadelphia Atoms.

That Kyle is a "different breed of cat" is illustrated by the fact that he is using part of his "Superstars" prize money for his tuition at the Perkins School of Theology. Kyle plans to be ordained in two years.

He isn't certain if he will go into active preaching. He intends to remain in soccer for several more years. His rise to stardom in the sport comes at a time when soccer may be experiencing its long-awaited boom in the U.S. In Dallas alone, the number of people playing soccer on all levels has risen from 192 five years ago to more than 40,000 today.

"I'd like to be remembered," Kyle says, "as a pioneer in soccer in this country. I think the public is waking up to how great a game it is. Before I leave it, if I ever do, I want to be sure I've done something for the sport."

The original cigarette.

The Original Length.
Others have added millimeters, filters and traps, but nobody ever found a way to pack in more flavor than the original Camel.

The Original Camel.
His name was Old Joe and he was just another face with Barnum & Bailey. Our artist sketched him, and 60 years later Old Joe remains world famous as the symbol of the finest cigarette made.

The Original Disappearing Pyramid.
Once we took this pyramid out to give Old Joe more walking room. Several tons of angry mail later, it was back in place forever.

The Original Blend.
The original measure of a cigarette was taste. So we blended the Burley, Virginia and Turkish tobaccos that deliver the most taste. Result: Camel, still the best tasting cigarette in the world.

Camel.

I spent my life on a "starvation" diet, then I ate and lost 72 pounds.

By Mary Gioia — as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

When I say I "starved" myself, the menu for my day went like this. No breakfast. But as soon as I got to work, I'd have diet soda and a piece of coffee cake. Twenty minutes later, coffee to wake me up, with cream and sugar. Then, about eleven thirty, maybe a bite of cake someone's mother made. At lunch-time? I took just a skinny sandwich. But since I didn't have breakfast, I figured I could afford a little scoop of ice cream. Then, mid-afternoon, so I wouldn't cave in, I ordered a malted. Never anything solid. Too many calories! Naturally, by evening, I was starved. I couldn't wait for my first meal of the day. A good healthy Italian dinner. Of course, when my mother put dessert on the table, I didn't want to hurt her feelings, so I ate it. And that, quite frankly, is how I dieted up to 205 pounds.

Now in between all this hunger, I would also take reducing pills. But they always made me very nervous. So eventually I'd give them up until I couldn't stand hearing any more comments, like: "You've got such a pretty, rosy-round face. Too bad you can't lose any weight." Then off I'd go again on my crazy "starvation" diet and add a lot of pounds.

As I talk about it now, I wonder how Carmine, my husband, ever married me. Maybe because, basically, I had a happy disposition. Still, I used to get hurt by remarks. I remember once we were dating and Carmine saw a girl with a beautiful figure. Suddenly, he turned to me and said: "If your head was on that girl's body, you'd be great."

In an effort to make his dream come true, I turned to diuretics, followed by about every reducing pill in the drug store. But they made me feel so sick, I finally broke down and said: "I can't lose weight, Carmine. You have to accept me as I am." And, thank goodness, he did!

At 205 pounds, I stayed on the shore, because I was so afraid that no lifeguard could ever save me if I were drowning.

Now that I'm 133 pounds, I love checks, plaids and pants – especially after years of wearing a blue and black wardrobe.

After we were married, I ran my kitchen like my mother's — with lots of good food which, unfortunately, only added more fat to my hips and thighs. It was too bad, because Carmine always wanted to buy me clothes. And I was so hard to fit.

I think he would have died if he'd known that the pants suit I wore on my honeymoon had a maternity top. Of course, I wasn't pregnant, but it was the only one that was fashionable and a good fit.

Actually, it took another clothes crisis in my life to finally make me reduce. You see, I was to be a bridal attendant at my brother's wedding and I wanted desperately to look nice.

Luckily, I'd been reading those ads about people who'd lost weight on the Ayds plan. But, quite honestly, I thought the whole thing was a gimmick. Then I saw a cardboard stand of an Ayds plan loser in the drug store and the girl looked so terrific I said to myself: "It's probably money down the drain, but here goes." I read the ingredients on a box of Ayds® Reducing Plan Candy and learned they contain vitamins and minerals, but no drugs, so I went home with the chocolate fudge kind.

I started on the Ayds plan the very next day, taking one or two Ayds with a hot drink like the directions say, and the results were astounding. They really helped curb my appetite. What's more, for the first time in my whole life, I began to eat sensibly. Three meals a day and none of the garbage in between.

I also came to realize that there is no magic anywhere when it's a matter of reducing. Maybe I knew it before, but somehow I could never face the fact — or help myself — without the Ayds plan.

In the end I went down to 133 pounds on the Ayds plan. I was so thrilled when I had finally done it that I went out and bought the clingiest orange dress I could find. And I wore it to a big family affair in my hometown, Bayside, Long Island. And guess what? My husband had to re-introduce me to one of my very own cousins.

Believe me, you only have to have something like that happen to you to know that there isn't a "starvation" diet in the world to compare with being able to eat three meals a day on the Ayds plan and still lose weight.

Johnny Winter: My Ten Favorite Records

Johnny Winter, the phenomenal blues guitar player from Texas, has emerged as one of America's hottest performers. "Listening to music," Johnny says, "should be an emotional experience. The way it makes you feel is much more important than the technical ability of the artists or performers. When listening to something you don't understand, try to be open and hear what the performer is trying to project, rather than judge it by guidelines you've already set up."

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

The Two Basic Personality Types: Which Is Better?

True or False: Introverts have better memories than extroverts. (See number 5)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Women tend to be much more introverted than men.

2. If a person is a nonsmoker, the odds are better than even that he's an introvert.

3. Introverts not only differ from extroverts personality-wise, but even their body chemistry is different.

4. Introverts are more fearful than extroverts.

5. Introverts have better memories than extroverts.

6. When life hands the introvert more pressures, stresses and emotional conflicts than he can handle, he reacts in an entirely different way than the extrovert.

ANSWERS

1. False. In a recent psychological survey, men and women subjects were asked to indicate whether they considered themselves introverts or extroverts. More than three times as many men as women rated themselves as introverts. And studies also show that women, much more than men, tend to share such extroverted traits as sociability, impulsiveness, talkativeness, interest in the personalities of others, etc.

2. True—according to studies conducted by the Economic and Social Research Institute, which show smoking to be definitely associated with extroversion, and that "in nations where the level of extroversion is high, the population's consumption of tobacco is high also."

3. True. Studies at a leading university showed that introverts' body temperatures increased more during the morning hours than did the extroverts'. The opposite was true for the afternoon. Tests also showed that each personality type tended to be most alert during the times of the day when their body temperatures were elevated.

4. True. Consensus of studies shows that "introverts are predisposed to develop conditioned fears, and take less readily than extroverts to potentially dangerous activities." It's interesting to note in this connection that research has shown that it is much harder to teach introverted children to swim, and it is more difficult for them to overcome their fear of the water.

5. True—as demonstrated by psychological studies at the University of London. While extroverts did better on short-term memory tests (retaining learned material better for brief periods), it was found that "after 24 hours, introverts remember almost twice as much as extroverts."

6. True. Studies at Britain's Institute of Psychiatry have shown that introverts in such situations are predisposed to become neurotic, while extroverts are more likely to become involved in some form of antisocial behavior. To put it another way, when the introvert is under greater pressures than he can cope with, he tends to explode inwardly. But the extrovert explodes outwardly—and lets the chips fall where they may!

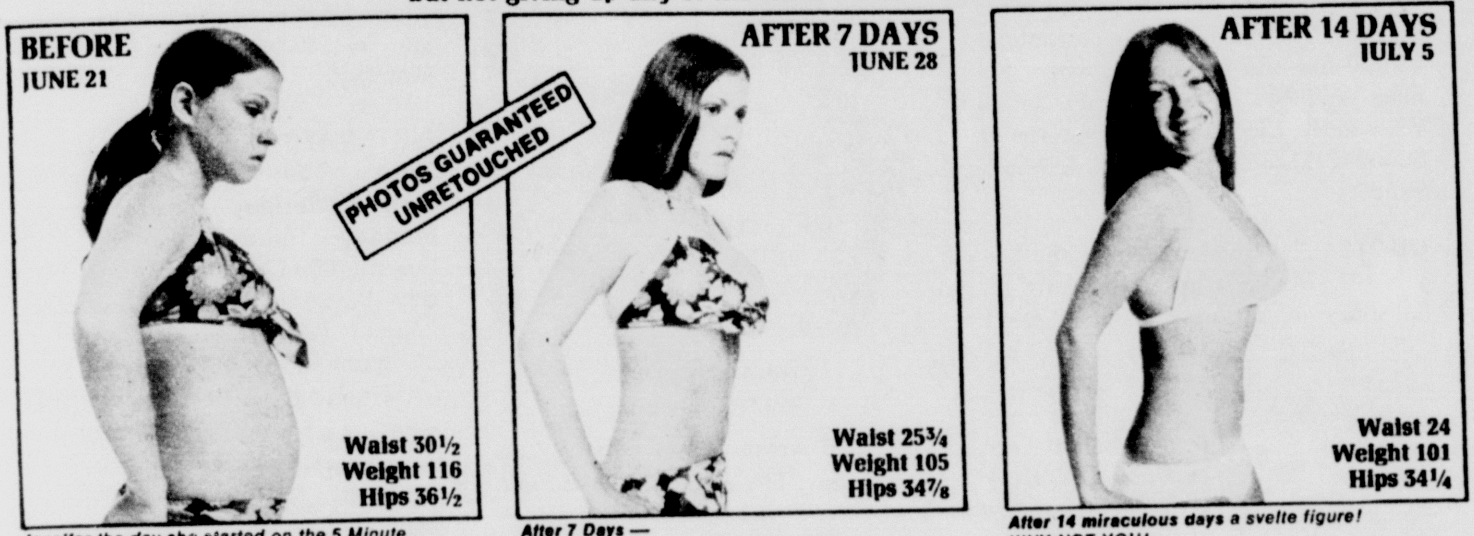
THE MOST AMAZING AND SUCCESSFUL BODY SHAPER EVER CREATED

JENNIFER McCARTHY writes to tell us... CASE #2116

"I lost 6½ inches off my waist, 15 pounds of excess weight, 2¼ inches off my hips...shaped up in just 14 days!"

One 5 Minute exercise, twice daily, lying on my back watching T.V., reducing my food intake only by 20% — but not giving up any of the foods I love — DID IT!



Jennifer the day she started on the 5 Minute Body Shaper Plan.

KEN WALLER writes to tell us... CASE #136

"I lost 3 inches off my waistline, 6 pounds...and shaped up - in 5 days!"

One 5 Minute exercise, twice daily, lying on my back watching T.V., reducing my food intake only by 20% — but not giving up any of the foods I love — DID IT!

Only 5 Days Later — Gut gone, and shaping up. Fast Enough?*

Joe Weider, fitness expert and trainer of champions since 1936 says:

"Give me 5 minutes twice daily for only 7 days and you'll lose up to 3 inches from your waistline, up to 6 pounds of unwanted weight, and 'shape up' — or I will return every penny."

LET'S FACE THE FACTS WHY YOU'RE OUT OF SHAPE

You eat the wrong combination of foods, you do not get enough exercise to thoroughly work your muscular, metabolic and respiratory systems daily. Because of this, fat accumulates around your waistline, heart and other body organs, slowing you down, aging your body and destroying your vitality, virility and youth. There is only one way to firm up and shape up: that is through proper exercise and proper nutrition. Effortless exercisers, reducing pills, sauna shorts, weighted belts, dangerous and painful diets and other gimmicks designed to appeal to your laziness will not work and have been exposed by the medical profession as frauds, ineffective and in some cases dangerous. They can only reduce your pocketbook.

Face up to it...If you want to slim down, firm and shape up, you must work off the inches, and there is no safer, faster and more enjoyable way to do it than with our patented, truly miraculous "5" Minute Body Shaper Plan.

HOW DOES THIS INGENIOUS "5" MINUTE PLAN SLIM, FIRM AND SHAPE YOU UP?

The Weider "5" Minute Body Shaper plan is based on doing ONE CONTINUOUS, RHYTHMIC CO-ORDINATED EXERCISE, twice daily. That's all you do. No dieting. Eat the foods you like—however, we suggest you consume 20% less food, while on this plan, for maximum results. This one five-minute exercise is designed to attack the Waist and Hips (where fat accumulates quickest, giving your body a flabby, weak and distorted look)—as well as burn off excess fat fast by speeding up stored calories and reshaping your chest, abdomen, firming up your legs and arms—your total body!

It's safer than strenuous workouts, beats the time consumption and dangers of gym workouts . . . or any other vigorous sport.

Patent Pending. Copyright Joe Weider, 1974

WHAT SATISFIED CUSTOMERS SAY:

"I lost 18 lbs. and 4½" off my waist in 14 days," R. Mathews • "I lost 13 lbs. and 4" off my waist in 14 days," M. Harvey • "I lost 15 lbs. and 2½" off my waist in 14 days," P. Results vary depending upon how much overweight you are and how much time you give to the Plan. These people have given from 5 to 15 minutes twice daily to our one simple exercise, lying on their backs in comfort, even while watching TV—(some ate between 10 to 20% less foods). Naturally, their impressive results vary. The above sampling of our hundreds of thousands of users proves that you, too, can make sensational gains. Satisfaction is guaranteed!

WHAT THE EXPERTS SAY:

Medical Doctors, Chiropractors, Osteopaths, Athletic Coaches....agree it's the most successful Waistline-Weight Reducer and Shaping Up Plan ever invented!

WHAT COMES OFF IN 14 DAYS?

Individual results vary, but during an average 14-day period you can expect to lose up to 4 inches from your waistline and up to 10 pounds from your present weight. It strengthens your heart and lungs, increases stamina and endurance, improves your digestive function and general health. It also shapes you up — from head to toes. For a "5" Minute Exerciser — it sure does a lot.

OPTACON
Can it replace Braille?

A new device will help the blind read without using Braille. It has been invented by three Stanford University professors—one of whom has a blind daughter. "I presume," says Dr. J. G. Linvill, "her unfortunate circumstance gave me the drive to find something for the blind." Called the Optacon, the electrical device converts an optical image to a tactile image on a vibrating rectangular field. The blind person takes the scanning machine (pictured) and moves it over the printed page from letter to letter. As the right hand scans the page, the left hand picks up a tactile image of the letter from a small vibrating device about the size of a portable tape recorder. The Optacon may be used with a small amount of training and is far less complicated than learning Braille, according to its creators. The machine now costs about $5,000 but will be cheaper when it is mass-produced. (For more information write to the Electronics Laboratories at Stanford University, Stanford, Calif. 94305.)

QUOTE: The Russians idolize the late John F. Kennedy says Charlotte Y. Salisbury in her new book. "I don't believe there has ever been an American family that appealed so to foreigners as the Kennedys, and for many of the same reasons that they appealed to us. They were so exciting, so dashing, so young and idealistic, so hard-working and dedicated to their country. And it is always glamorous to be so rich. I was told that John F. Kennedy has become like an icon to many Russians; his picture hangs in many Russian homes. He is worshiped as the embodiment of intelligence, democracy and freedom, a god and a martyr." EDWARD ASNER
Father of twins

When Ed Asner is not playing Lou Grant on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," he is at home with his twins—a boy and a girl. Are twins harder to raise than one child? "Yes," says Asner, who is becoming something of an expert on the subject, "particularly if you want them to grow up as individuals, as we do. When there are two children, one usually intimidates the other. A parent can always reason with the older one, but with twins it's a constant problem. At first the girl was more dominant, but now it's the boy who's loud-mouthed. We also make sure they don't dominate each other by keeping them in separate schools." Sounds like the proverbial battle of the sexes to us!

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

PROTECTIVE CUSTODY

Grandparents have an advantage on parents—
Their lesser responsibility.
But parents come closer, their years being fewer,

Though maybe for only an hour,
But after ten minutes of watching and leaping
He questions his staying power.

Oh, grandparents try to be ever-alert,
Want parents to trust and believe them,
Then sigh with relief when there's Changing of Guards

A customer warned a used-car dealer: "Now, don't tell me this car was owned by a little old lady who used it only on Sundays." "Even better," the dealer replied. "It was owned by a physician who used it only for house calls." —Conrad Fiorello

At a party where much liquor was being served, a man embraced a stranger by mistake. When he saw his error he said, "No offense intended, madam, I thought you were my wife." "A fine husband you must be," she snorted, "you overstuffed, miserable, incompetent lout!" "You see," exclaimed the drunk, "you even talk like her!"

My six-year-old grandson was asked by his teacher to write out his favorite recipe. No problem there! "How to make spaghetti. (1) cook it. (2) Use about three quarts of spaghetti sauce; use about three tomatoes and some meat loaf. (3) Put this on this much _____ (about ½ in.) spaghetti. That's all. Three people could eat this."
